Five Stay in Republican Mayor Race

HARDING QUITS THOMPSON AND SUPPORTS LYLE

Comes Out Against City Hall Head.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Republican race narrowed down to five entries—Mayor Thompson, Judge Lyle, Ald. Arthur F. Albert, George K. Schmidt, former city controller, and Eugene McCaffrey, a personal candidate. On the Democratic side the contest was reduced to a one-sided affair between A. J. Cermak and J. B. DeVoney, who has been on the ballots of other years without getting anywhere.

Harding Deserts Mayor.

But, overshadowing these developments in importance in political eyes, there was an open declaration of war on Thompson by George F. Harding, who at a meeting of his Fourth ward organization delivered a speech in which he declared that Thompson is no longer a Republican and cannot be renominated. He declared himself strongly for Judge Lyle.

That speech was made Monday night before 500 members of Harding's Fourth ward headquarters at 47 East 49th street that he has maintained for years as a Thompson ward headquarters. The former county treasurer denounced Thompson for insisting James Hamilton Lewis in the United States senatorship election last year.

He was followed by Ernest J. Magerstadt, former sheriff and veteran Republican wheel horse, who is president of the club, who declared the ward organization was for Lyle as a unit. Charles Krutckoff, ward committeeman and one of Gov. Emmerson's recent appointees on the state tax commission, also committed himself to Lyle.

Sets Politicians Buzzing.

Harding's open declaration of war on Thompson created a sensation that has the politicians buzzing. The former county treasurer's action was considered of importance not only because he is the biggest single political power on the south side, but because his influence has been found city wide in some previous campaigns.

The meeting at which he spoke was a closed session. No notices of it were sent to the newspapers and there were no reporters present. That was the way Harding wanted it. He has stated all along that, because of their long friendship, he will not publicly go Thompson in the face.

Harding mentioned this when he began his speech. He said he and Thompson had been friends practically all their lives and that so far as personal friendship was concerned that situation was unchanged.

"Thompson Not a Republican."

"But," he continued, "I was born in Illinois. My father and my grandfather before me were Republicans. I was taught to be a Republican, and when Thompson left the Republican party I refused to follow him. He is not a Republican now. He is neither a Republican nor a Democrat. He wrecked the whole Republican ticket last fall and that can't be forgiven. True Republicans will not support him. He can't be nominated. He's beaten right now.

"This has been my ward and my ward organization for years. These are my headquarters. I own the building. If there is anything like a Thompson unit here now it can move right out, for from now on these are Lyle headquarters."

"Is it understood?" asked Magerstadt, who followed him. "From now on it's all for Judge Lyle."

One Protest Silenced.

There was only one protest, that from a woman employé of the corporation counsel's office, who commented when Harding said that Thompson was no longer a Republican. She was silenced by her neighbors, it was said.

Harding's declaration was thought by politicians to have set the course not only for the Fourth ward but also for the Second and Third wards. Committeeman Oscar De Priest, committeeman for the Third, has said that he expects to be held in Washington until after the primary. W. L. Dawson has been named to handle the ward for

AS LIMOUSINES PASS AND GAY LIGHTS GLOW

On the upper level of the Michigan avenue link bridge at 11:30 o'clock last night sedans and limousines, comfortably heated against the biting wind and the 14 above zero temperature, were speeding north with after theater folk, bound for home.

On the upper level the thousand and one lights of the city's skyscrapers twinkled along the boulevard.

Down on the lower level a man, 45 years old, smooth shaven, with brown hair and blue eyes, doffed a dark gray overcoat, folded it neatly, then removed his brown fedora and placed it on the overcoat, on the south bank of the river. He walked to the edge of the esplanade and stepped in.

A little later, at Clark street, passersby saw an object and notified the Central police. The police fished the body out. In the pockets of the clothing there were no letters, no papers. Neither were there any marks on the clothing. Only $7 in a wallet.

WHARTON, AID OF MAIL ROBBERS, LEAVES PRISON

Charles S. Wharton, former assistant state's attorney under Robert E. Crowe, was released from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth yesterday after serving one year and seven months for his part in the $133,000 Evergreen Park mail robbery in February, 1928.

Wharton was sentenced to two years by Federal Judge Wilkerson, and his term would not have been completed until June 13, but he was allowed full time off for good behavior.

Wharton was convicted of conspiracy in the robbery with Charles [Limpy] Cleaver, safeblower and convicted leader of the band of eight men who dynamited the mail car at Evergreen Park.

CHICAGO'S BABY CROP FEWER BUT BETTER IN 1930

A decline of 7 per cent in Chicago's birth rate in 1930 compared with 1923 was shown yesterday in statistics made public by the health department. It was shown that 58,052 babies were born during 1930, or 17.1 for each 1,000 inhabitants, while in 1929 58,800 were born, or 18.4 per 1,000.

The health department figures also showed that Chicago has become a healthier place for babies under one year of age, the 1930 infant mortality rate being 10.7 per cent lower than in 1929. While 3,535 babies died in their first year in 1929 only 3,110 died during their first year in 1930.

U. S. Approval of Postoffice Plans Assured

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—Construction of the new $21,000,000 Chicago postoffice building moved a step nearer today when treasury and postoffice officials indicated they would approve completed designs for the structure submitted today by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, the private architects.

The designs, complete in every detail for both the interior and exterior of the building, were taken first to the postoffice department by Ernest Graham, senior member of the Chicago firm of architects. There the designs were approved by Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster general, and Frank E. McMillen, superintendent of the division of engineering and research.

Promise Early Approval.

Later the designs were inspected by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath. Following a short conference, Mr. Heath indicated that the drawings would be approved and asked Mr. Graham to return for a final conference tomorrow.

In event the designs are approved, Mr. Graham said he expects to have the working drawings completed within the next sixty days. If another thirty days are added to allow time for bidders to submit estimates, it is apparent there is little chance that actual construction work on the Chicago federal building can begin before May or possibly June.

The design for the exterior of the new building calls for construction of the largest postal structure in the world. It will be nine stories in height and will conform with the Union station in its general architectural character.

Will Face Van Buren Street.

The building will face on Van Buren street and on that side will rise thirteen stories. The top of the building will be uniform in height, as lower ceilings in the front office part of the structure will make it possible to build thirteen stories in the same height as the nine higher ceilinged stories devoted to the mail.

The building will be built of Indiana limestone, and, according to postal authorities, will be one of the finest postal structures in the country. It will have four cornered towers rising about three stories in height on each of the four corners of the top of the roof. The towers will be roughly twenty-five feet in diameter. Twenty-two pillars will be erected on the Van Buren street front. These will rise three stories from the ground. The entrance to the lobby will be on that side.

"Chicago will have a magnificent building," Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster general, said today after looking over the new design. "It will be the largest and most up to date postal structure in the world. It will be able to handle 1,000,000 letters an hour."

SETTLE STREET DISPUTE.

An amendment to the Union Station company ordinance of 1914 that will remove the cloud from the title to the proposed site of Chicago's new postoffice was recommended yesterday to the city council for passage by its railway terminals committee.

Because of an easement across the site that the city held for an extension of Congress street between the river and Canal street the government could not obtain a clear title delaying the purchase of the site. The amendment releases the easement to the Union Station company, owner of the site, so that the sale can be consummated, after which the government will return the easement in perpetuity to the city.

When John Campbell, 55 years old, a farmer of Gurnee, 5 miles west of Waukegan, failed to appear home for dinner last night, his sister, Agnes, started a search for him. She found her brother crushed to death by a heavy tree limb which had fallen on his chest. An ax was in his hand. The accident occurred while Campbell was trimming trees in the orchard.

FINDINGS FAN WET-DRY FIGHT TO WHITE HEAT

Next Year's Election Will Decide It.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—The conflict over prohibition of intoxicating liquor entered upon a new and what may prove to be its final stage with President Hoover's transmission to congress today of the report of the Wickersham commisson on law observance and enforcement.

Fortified by the attitude of the commission favoring a further trial of national prohibition with strengthened enforcement agencies, the prohibitionists girded themselves anew to stem the ever mounting wave of public opinion demanding repeal or modification of the 18th amendment.

Six of the eleven members of the commission expressed the opinion that it is hopeless to expect the present law to succeed. Yet they signed the report asking further trial of it.

See Beginning of the End.

Encouraged by the disclosure that the majority of the commisison regards prohibition as unenforceable and favors revision of the 18th amendment, while the minority favors modification if a further trial of enforcement fails, the anti-prohibitionists proclaimed that the report signalizes the beginning of the end for the imposition of total abstinence by statute.

The wets were encouraged further by the fact that the report referred favorably to a federal dispensary plan for controlled distribution of intoxicants evolved by one of its members, Henry W. Anderson of Virginia. The Anderson plan is suggested as a possible solution if a modification of the existing dry machinery should be found desirable. It calls for the creation of a national bi-partisan liquor commission with powers similar to those of the interstate commerce commission and the federal reserve board. This commission would administer the activities of the National corporation created by congress with power to import, manufacture and distribute liquor. The stock in this corporation would be privately owned, its profits would be limited by law and any excess earnings would be devoted to educational activities setting forth the evils of drink. The plan provides for regional distributing corporations if these should be found more practicable than a central control body.

Main Issue in 1932.

Both wets and drys agreed that prohibition now becomes the paramount issue of 1932 and that the election of a president and a congress next year will determine whether the "noble experiment" is to be continued or brought to a close with the submission of an amendment repealing or modifying the 18th amendment.

No sooner had the report been received in the senate than Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], a wet, introduced a modification amendment approximating that suggested by the Wickersham commission for submission to the states in the event that revision of the 18th amendment is desired.

But, whereas the commission amendment would confer power upon congress "to regulate or prohibit" the liquor traffic, the Blaine amendment would confine congressional power to regulation without power to prohibit.

Drys Muster a Cheer.

The Anti-Saloon league and other dry organizations were early on the firing line with statements commending the commission for opposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment, restoration of the saloon and a beer and light wine modification of the Volstead act, and commending the recommendation of increased enforcement appropriations. They ignored the suggestion of modification if a further trial of enforcement fails.

The drys also warmly commended President Hoover for backing up the commission's recommendations of strengthened enforcement.

"I do, however," said the President in transmitting the report, "see serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending, the commission's proposed revision of the 18th amendment, which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful. My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal, without equivocation or reservation."

Some of the wets expressed the opinion that Mr. Hoover in those words had signed his own political

MEMBERS SHOW INDICATION OF QUICK REVISION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—An inconsistency between the majority Wickersham report and some individual statements of the commissioners led to speculation tonight concerning any change that might have been made in the main document in the closing days of consideration. The majority conclusions said:

"If the [eighteenth] amendment is to be revised, the commission agreed unanimously on certain phraseology which would empower congress to deal with the liquor traffic as it sees fit."

Several commissioners, however, in their separate statements, showed an opinion that the commission was flatly recommending such revision, without any if.

Henry W. Anderson wrote:

"I concur in the recommendation of the report that the eighteenth amendment be modified as therein stated."

William I. Grubb wrote:

"I join in all the findings of fact and all the ultimate conclusions of the general report of the commission [except that recommending that the amendment be revised immediately, without awaiting a further trial]. But not in all of the general observations."

Kenyon Is Quoted.

William S. Kenyon wrote that if after reasonable trial it is demonstrated the dry laws cannot be enforced any better than in the past, then the modification of the dry amendment "suggested by the commission" should be brought about.

Paul J. McCormick wrote if recent enforcement improvements did not hold out some hope for the dry law, he would favor invocation of state conventions to revise the amendment "in the form suggested in the report of the commission."

Kenneth Mackintosh spoke highly of Mr. Anderson's work on his plan for government controlled privately operated mercantile liquor agencies, for operation "under the proposed revision of the amendment."

While advocating repeal, Newton D. Baker said submission of the amendment "suggested in the report of the commission" would test the present sentiment of the country.

Lemann an Objector.

The other advocate of repeal on commission, Monte M. Lemann, however, said he did not consider that "to substitute for the eighteenth amendment a provision leaving the matter to congress is any solution. . . . The suggestion that the matter be referred to congress seems to me not to dispose of the problem or to make any substantial advance in its disposition."

Frank J. Loesch recommended immediate steps to revise the eighteenth amendment to give congress "the power suggested in the draft contained in the majority report conclusions."

Chairman Wickersham could not be reached tonight. Inquiries at the White House brought the assertion that nothing would be said regarding the report and that speculative stories would be neither affirmed nor denied.

Anderson Interprets It.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Col. Henry W. Anderson said tonight that "taken as a whole," the report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, of which he is a member, "favors modification of the 18th amendment.

"A flat recommendation of that sort is not contained in the general report," he said, "but the full report of the commission also includes the individual reports members were permitted to file.

"Examination of those reports shows that five members favor modification of the amendment now, while four others favor giving prohibition a further trial and then modifying it if it does not succeed. The other two members would do away with the amendment altogether.

Majority for a Change.

"So, taking the attitude of the commission, as shown by all these reports, there is basis for the statement in my individual report that 'I concur in the recommendation of the report that the eighteenth amendment be modified as therein stated.'

"A clear majority of the commission agreed on the changes proposed in the general report, five favoring them now, and the other four favoring them if a further trial does not succeed."

Col. Anderson asserted that some action should be taken immediately in the matter of prohibition.

"I voted for prohibition in Virginia in 1914 and have always upheld the law," he said. "But the facts as they exist must be faced. One of these facts is that prohibition has resulted in organized crime being adequately financed for the first time in our history. We must take their profits from them.

"Each state should be permitted to decide whether it desires prohibition or a government-controlled liquor supply."

WOMAN WITNESS DISAPPEARS IN POLICE INQUIRY

Two major developments marked the progress of the special grand jury's investigation of the police department yesterday. One was the disappearance of Mrs. Shirley Kub, once a $300 a month investigator for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and also said to have been an agent for Jack Zuta, slain vice monger.

As a witness before the grand jury Mrs. Kub was reported to have given evidence of police corruption and protection of vice and crime, and she was to have continued her testimony yesterday.

Jury Is Promised $50,000.

The other development of the day was the virtual assurance that the jury will receive the $50,000 which it asked from the county board to carry the inquiry to completion. Seven members of the finance committee of the board authorized President Cermak to notify State's Attorney Swanson that the $50,000 appropriation would be made.

There was a question of the validity of the authorization, inasmuch as the committee lacked a quorum by one member. But since the action was unanimous it was regarded as certain that at the next regular meeting of the board the money would be put at Mr. Swanson's disposal.

Woman Witness Vanishes.

The disappearance of Mrs. Kub was discovered yesterday morning when she failed to appear to resume her testimony before the grand jury. Last night detectives of the state's attorney's office were ordered on a hunt for her.

Mrs. Kub telephoned in the morning that she was ill and would not appear. She was told that if she did not go to the grand jury room a patrol car would be sent for her. Her continued absence caused the sending of detectives to her home at 744 North Pine avenue where she lives with her Negro husband. The detectives said it was apparent she had not been home all night.

Caplas Out for Her Arrest.

At first concern was expressed for her safety. Later Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is in charge of the inquiry, obtained from Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court a caplas for her arrest on a citation for contempt of court in having failed to respond to a grand jury subpoena.

"Mrs. Kub may have been induced to leave the city," Prosecutor Mueller said. "Or she may have been kidnaped. She may have been killed to prevent her making any more revelations, or she may have decided to flee of her own accord, fearing punishment by the law or by the criminal element or bribe taking policemen."

Reveals Her Findings.

Prosecutor Mueller said the woman possessed a mass of knowledge of police graft and that she had been a party to many acts of bribery. She had been telling the grand jurors what she learned as Operative No. 1 for Alcock during the time in which she coöperated with Detectives Thomas Roche and Patrick Burke.

Policemen reported that Mrs. Kub endeavored to have them help her "frame" both police officials and civilians, the prosecutor said. She came to the attention of Mr. Mueller in his investigation of the case of Sergt. Jack Herdegen, who is being held as the result of charges made by Miss Bernice Shaw that he had purchased promotion with $1,500 obtained from Zuta. According to Miss Shaw, the spurned sweetheart of Herdegen, Mrs. Kub threatened to kill her if she revealed what she knew about Herdegen.

Miss Shaw's Friend Heard.

Miss Shaw was on hand all day, ready to appear again before the jury for further questioning on her stories of Herdegen's actions while he was assigned to the Warren avenue district at the time that Zuta headed a syndicate that operated scores of brothels and gambling houses. The jurors did not hear Miss Shaw yesterday, but her erstwhile friend, Miss Grace Bock, was summoned to substantiate some of Miss Shaw's statements. Miss Bock declared under oath that she never knew Herdegen and had no knowledge of his business.

"I will go before Judge McGoorty in the morning and ask to have Miss Bock punished for perjury or contempt of court unless she is willing to tell the truth," Mr. Mueller declared, although he said he did not regard her testimony as of much importance.

ing the day. The five women seized early Sunday morning in a raid at the Rex hotel, Dennis Cooney's vice headquarters which had long been immune from raids, defied the grand jurors, it was reported.

All the women claimed to have been elsewhere than in the Rex at the time of their arrest. They denied knowing Cooney. They denied knowing each other. They denied they were inmates of a disorderly house or had ever had such an occupation.

A writ of habeas corpus brought in their behalf was continued by Judge McGoorty, who fixed their bonds at $1,000 each on the condition they would be taken before the grand jury. Court had adjourned before the girls reached the grand jury room.

Men Prisoners Get Bail.

The men arrested in the same raid were admitted to bail of $25 each by Judge Joseph Burke when Attorney John H. Johntry protested that they had been held three days without being admitted to bail. They were served with grand jury subpoenas in Judge Burke's courtroom, and thereupon Attorney Johntry said to them:

"As your legal adviser I must instruct you that you need not give testimony against yourselves before the grand jury. Particularly when you are under arrest you cannot be forced to testify."

Lieut. William Blaul of the state's attorney's staff protested against the men being given such advice. Judge Burke said the lawyer had the right to advise his clients.

In the grand jury room the men refused to answer questions, it was reported. George [Tubby] Mueller, the manager of the Rex, was the first to be asked to tell what he knew about police protection. He would not admit any connection with the place, it was said. The others acted similarly.

Cooney in the South.

Prosecutor Mueller said he was informed that the federal government was making an investigation of Cooney's income. Cooney is regarded as one of the wealthiest of Al Capone's allies. He is at present at Hot Springs, Ark., or Miami, according to the prosecutors.

Sergts. James Coleman and Peter Bernacchi of the South State street police district were in the grand jury anteroom all day awaiting a call, but they were not heard and were told to return today. Their names were found on letters and documents in Cooney's safe at the time of the raid and they were to be asked to explain.

Both said outside the jury room that they have been assigned to that district for many years and they knew Cooney and were familiar with the Rex hotel, where formerly a café was operated. They said their transactions with Cooney or the Rex would withstand any investigation.

Pay Us New York Wages, Chicago Firemen's Plaint

The Officers' Association of the Chicago Fire Department met last night at the Hotel Sherman and drafted a letter to Ald. John S. Clark of the council finance committee demanding "New York wages for Chicago firemen." The letter points out that the Chicago firemen protect a larger area, even though the population is less, but are paid from $500 to $5,000 a year less than the New York firemen. The Chicago department, the letter adds, is rated by the underwriters as the most efficient in the world.

Actress Suing Rothschild Wants Wealth Appraised

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Vera McCord, actress, today moved in Supreme court for examination into the wealth of Maurice Rothschild of Chicago in connection with her $250,000 breach of promise suit. Miss McCord charged that Rothschild promised to marry her in 1923 and that after having her give a party to announce their engagement failed to attend, and that he since had failed to keep his alleged promise.

Dress Shop Fire Routs 150 from Hotel on North Side

Fire last night swept the interior of Le Bow's Dress shop at 4627 Sheridan road and tied up traffic for nearly an hour in the Wilson avenue shopping district. About 150 guests of the Grasmere hotel, in which the shop is situated, were driven to the street by the smoke, but the fire damage was confined to the shop. The firemen were unable to learn how the blaze started.

Capt. John Prendergast of the South State street police, told yesterday how Capone runners had shadowed him and reported his activities to the operators of the chain of brothels in the old 22d street red light district. Prendergast has recommended the suspension of Policemen Albert Hahn and Francis O'Neill, who, he said, were instructed to make hourly inspection of the Rex hotel and its "branch houses" to see that they were not in operation.

The places were found to be running, despite the police guard, when a series of raids were made early in the week by investigators for the state's attorney's office who are seeking evidence of protected vice on the south side.

Blames Two Police Guards.

"If those places were operating, the men whom I assigned to watch them are to blame," Capt. Prendergast declared. "I have reports covering a period of several months from those men showing that they have called every hour and have found no evidence of activity. I have raided the district personally several times and have arrested a number of inmates, but in the absence of convictions have been unable to padlock the places."

Capt. Prendergast said that panders connected with the "houses," who call themselves "the eagles," have shadowed his movements from his home and the station in order to warn the places to close when he entered the district. He told of capturing two of "the eagles" who had been on his trail.

Tells of Tunnel System.

"The resorts are equipped with warning buzzers, hideouts, tunnels, and getaways so that the girls can be hidden on a moment's notice," Capt. Prendergast said. "One main tunnel running from 21st and Federal streets to 22d and State connects all of the places—eight of them to my knowledge. They are able to open or close on a moment's notice, and I don't believe any one of them operates more than two hours a day.

"This district should be absolutely clean. A stray cat shouldn't even be let into the district. It's not only those two blocks of vice resorts, but their influence that reaches all over town that I'm talking about. That district was the training school where the Capones and the Guziks got their start."

GUARD NEGRO SLAYER SUSPECT AS KENTUCKY MOB MOVES ON JAIL

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 21 (Wednesday).—(AP)—All city and county peace officers, augmented by twenty special posseemen, early today were guarding the Christian county jail, where Sam McGee, Negro, was held for safekeeping after his indictment for slaying Charles Clark, 18, at Paducah, Ky., Saturday night, shot in an attempted holdup.

Last night a crowd searched jails at Mayfield and Paducah for the Negro. Jailers in those cities permitted the men to search so they might be satisfied the accused Negro was not there. He had been removed yesterday from the Graves county jail at Mayfield to the jail here.

Fearing the men, numbering between 100 and 150, were on their way to Hopkinsville, the special deputies were sworn and armed with tear gas guns, rifles, and shotguns. Three submachine guns were mounted at the jail entrance.

Bandit Killed as His Auto Crashes in Getaway.

One bandit was dead and six other men, five of them alleged robbers, the sixth an informer, were held last night by the Hammond police, who earlier in the day foiled an elaborate scheme to rob a bank money car of $60,000.

The dead robber remained unidentified last night. The five alleged robbers, all of whom denied knowing the slain man, are Charles (Chuck) Murphy, 38 years old; John McCarthy, 35, who says he lives at 7515 South Peoria street; Albert Willardo, 33; George Spencer, 29, and Ashley Schultz, also known as Scholtz and Shoultz, 30 years old. All are Chicago men.

The sixth prisoner is Amos Baird, 30 years old, a barber-bootlegger of Hammond, who claims he informed police of the planned robbery. Authorities deny this, however.

Bandit Killed as Auto Crashes.

Three of the suspects were captured beside the money car and two others in Whiting, near the postoffice, a short time later. The unidentified man was killed in a thrilling chase which ended when his automobile, speeding 70 miles an hour, crashed into a brick bungalow. Imbedded in his scalp was a bullet from a police revolver, which is believed to have stunned him and caused him to lose control of his car.

The robbery was planned against the First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, 5231 Hohman street, shortly before noon. It was to have been executed last Tuesday, the police say, and at that time detectives had arranged for its frustration.

The money car, which makes daily trips to Chicago with cargoes of $50,000 to $60,000, left the bank as usual, but carried dummy money packages. Preceding it was an automobile containing two detectives. Behind it followed two squads of seven policemen each, headed by Captain of Detectives Charles Carlson and Police Captain George Hanlon.

Police Guard Seizes Three Men.

The money car, with its armed escort, proceeded along Wolf street and north in Calumet avenue to North Hammond. Near Sheffield avenue an automobile containing three men drove alongside the money car.

Immediately the trailing police squads closed in and seized the three occupants of the automobile, who were Murphy, McCarthy, and Willardo. Each carried an automatic shotgun and an automatic pistol. No shots were fired and no resistance was offered.

As the policemen were making the arrests a red sedan containing only the driver approached from the north. As it neared the money car and the three other automobiles the driver added speed and veered southwest into Sheffield avenue. In pursuit of the red sedan came the advance police car containing Driver Charles Fandral and John Fisher. They followed the sedan twenty blocks, Fisher firing again and again at it until it crashed into the bungalow of Peter Bogusiaw at 4229 Sheffield avenue and the driver was killed. Two guns were in the sedan.

Robbers' Plan Is Told.

According to the police, another automobile passed the money car from the rear about the same time that the red sedan appeared ahead. The bandits' plan, detectives said, had been for the driver of the red sedan to crash head on into the money car. His companions, following the bank car, were to commit the robbery. The third automobile was to swing along later to assist if necessary.

All the prisoners were taken to the Hammond station. After hours of questioning last night the police said two of the alleged robbers had confessed to shooting a druggist on the south side of Chicago some months ago.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—England's unemployed totaled 2,636,168 on Jan. 12, an increase of 18,398 over the preceding week and 1,159,907 over the same week last year.

Bail Cases Investigated by Prosecutor.

Twenty policemen were called before the regular grand jury yesterday afternoon and questioned by Assistant State's Attorney A. C. DeWitt regarding the arresting of residents in the Pekin, 48th street and Wabash and the Stanton avenue police districts. Most of those arrested were Negroes, who usually were held by the police until a professional bondsman was summoned to furnish bail at so much a prisoner, according to statements made to the prosecutor.

Mr. DeWitt said that he was searching for evidence of collusion between the police, professional bondsmen and a certain group of lawyers, who usually were called in to represent the persons arrested.

One illustration as given by Prosecutor DeWitt was a place at 3739 Indiana avenue, which was raided 10 or 15 times within a few months. In every instance those taken were discharged when arraigned in court the next day. Attorney Louis Piquett, according to Prosecutor DeWitt, appeared for many of the defendants.

An investigation is also being made, it is said, of the system of keeping records of raid cases. One case in particular under grand jury scrutiny is that of Vernon Lightfoot. The police report shows that he was fined $50 by Judge Hartigan. The court sheets shows no such ...e, the prosecutor said, and he is trying to learn what happened to the $50.

The bonds given in these cases were usually destroyed, the prosecutor said. The raid victims were taken in court and promptly discharged the next morning and the bonds torn up. No entry was made of the cases on the court sheets, the prosecutor said.

POLICEMAN SLAIN IN HOLDUP TO PAY DEBT, SAYS BANDIT

How a policeman was killed because he interfered with a plan for a holdup to raise $50 to repay a debt, was told last night to Lieut. Philip Carroll at the detective bureau by John Senew, 24 years old, 2104 North 75th tvenue, Elmwood Park. He had been brought back from Columbus, O., where he was arrested a week ago for passing a forged check.

The policeman was William Rumbler of the East Chicago avenue station, who the evening of Oct. 12 was spending his night off in the cafe of James Purcelli, 3174 Milwaukee avenue. Senew, who has served a term in the bridewell, had been in jail charged with disorderly conduct, and Walter Evenow and Frank Mallen, both with police records, borrowed $50 to bail him out. The three then decided to rob Purcelli's place to raise money to repay the lenders.

As they entered and ordered: "Hands up," Rumbler drew his gun. Evenow fired at him, wounding him six times. Rumbler wounded Evenow twice. Senew then fired two shots at Rumbler, who died a few hours later. Evenow was captured and confessed, naming Mallen and Senew. Mallen so far has evaded arrest. Senew last night readily admitted his part. Evenow was brought from the bridewell hospital to confront him.

BIEDERMEIER

BIEDERMEIER furniture daily increases in importance. The question is: why should a style of furniture designed in Germany exactly a century ago suddenly spring into such amazing popularity in modern America? And the answer is: because Biedermeier is one of the very few styles of furniture that were made neither for the wealthy aristocrats nor the poor peasants. It was created primarily for the comfortably situated, home-loving Germans who are so comparable both in station and financial circumstances to vast numbers of the people who constitute our American population. As a result, Biedermeier furniture adheres to fine, honest, straightforward principles—simplicity of line, purity of workmanship, and perfection of materials. And it is these genuine characteristics that produce the beauty and liveableness that are responsible for the overwhelming vogue of Biedermeier in modern America.

COUNTY DOOMS TRIPLE ENTREE OF JUDICIAL LUNCH

Highest Authorities Hold One Is Enough.

It doesn't cost the county anything for a jurist to have all the entrée he wants, socially speaking. Gastronomically it's different. So when the county board found out yesterday that the Criminal Court building dining room had been wont to minister to the judicial temperament with a triple entrée at luncheon each noon, it registered a remonstrance with Capt. James C. Russell, superintendent of the department of public service.

Capt. Russell himself brought up the subject of the three entrées in response to queries of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer, about the price of foods purchased by his department and the possibility of cutting expenses. Later Russell admitted that strawberries had blushed, but not unseen, on the menu of at least one jury serving in the Criminal court. Retrenchments had been ordered some time ago, he stated.

Orders Cut in Entrées.

"We try our best to keep track of the prices of all such articles on the sheets of requisitions necessary in the department, but sometimes we don't happen to study them often enough. I discovered that three entrées were being served the judges, so I consulted with a hotel authority, who said that not only was one entrée enough but that the portions might be smaller than we had been serving—and I ordered that change," he explained.

"A few days ago I was out there and dropped into the dining room, which was started because the restaurant possibilities in that vicinity are hardly first class. I found that three entrées still were being served. I've asked for an accounting and expect to get it soon."

President Cermak of the county board and Coroner Bundesen were aligned yesterday on different sides of a controversy before the board during consideration of the county budget. Coroner Bundesen appeared to protest the cutting off of three deputy coroners at the county morgue, declaring that without these men he would not be able to bury unclaimed bodies.

Discuss Chemistry Bureau.

Cermak challenged the coroner's claims to economies, asserting that five chemists at the county hospital appointed by Bundesen were being carried on the hospital pay roll instead of that of the coroner's office. The coroner retorted that a central chemists' laboratory had been established at the county hospital on the recommendation of Jacobs in the interest of economy.

"If the county board wants to give me five chemical assistants I'll take them," he volunteered.

Gratifying savings to the county in the Criminal court jury service, partly due to the creation of the office of public defender, which has decreased the number of juries, were cited by M. S. Szymczak, Superior court clerk. It is the hope of the commissioners that the Superior court executive committee will adopt the Circuit court group jury system and thus reduce the expenditure for jurors. The Circuit court, with 20 jurists, expended $151,000 last year, and the Superior court, with 28, paid out $291,000 for such service.

Sheriff Asks Radio Equipment.

Sheriff Meyering made a plea for radio equipment for all highway police squad cars and stations, which, he informed the board, can be installed for $3,475. He asked also for three medium priced cars to replace squad cars which are wearing out and urged the board to raise the salaries of highway motorcycle police, declaring their low wages reduced efficiency and that more salary would make them less liable to accept gratuities.

George Masalich, head of the Chicago and Cook County Training School for Boys, discussed the future of the institution, declaring its functions should be taken over by the state and the present school turned into a detention home for mentally weak boys now roaming the streets. Each of the inmates represents an annual expense of $1,400, he said. A committee studying the problem will report within a few days.

CONFIRM HOLDUP REPORT; WOMAN ROBBED OF $75,000

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—Reports from Chicago that Mrs. Edward Powell, formerly of Baltimore, was held up in Chicago last November and robbed of jewelry valued at $75,000, were confirmed today by her attorneys here.

Mrs. Powell, divorced wife of Morton H. Fox, president of the Greenwald Packing company of Baltimore and daughter of the Rev. J. W. Brisco of Parkton, Md., reported the loss to the Chicago police, but, fearing the robbers, asked that the holdup be kept a secret, it was said.

The jewels, including a necklace of 36 pearls, were insured, it was said. Mrs. Powell, then Mrs. Fox, and Powell, a Philadelphia broker, were in an automobile when two robbers leaped to the running board of the machine and demanded the jewelry. Mr. and Mrs. Powell were married two weeks ago in New York and now are in Florida. Mrs. Powell divorced Fox in Philadelphia in 1928.

High Taxes Force Astor to Abandon Estate

Aerial view of Cliveden, the estate of Viscount Astor, which he has been forced to abandon, British taxes having eaten up the money that was made in America. [Acme-P.&A. Photo.]

Sells Another House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Viscount Astor announced today that he is compelled by the burden of taxation to close his magnificent estate, Cliveden, on the River Thames near Taplow. The announcement was made at a meeting of the tenants and cottagers. Lord Aston expressed great regret, but said he had no alternative.

"For every $500 I receive, I pay $300 to the state," he said.

He also said that was forced to sell his house at Plymouth. He still has a large house in St. James's square, London.

Cliveden is reputed to be one of the most magnificent estates in the world and one of the most expensive to maintain. It was built for the duke of Buckingham and was successively the residence of Frederick, prince of Wales, the earl of Orkney, the duke of Sutherland and the first duke of Westminster, from whom it was bought by the first Lord Astor in 1890 after he decided to settle in England and become a British subject. It has been on the market since the present Lord Astor succeeded to the title.

FORECAST FIGHT ON $28,146,000 TAX FOR SUBWAY

Realty to Pay 68.4% of Tube's Cost.

A fight against the special assessment for the construction of the State street subway was predicted yesterday following the filing of the assessment roll which reveals the amount of special tax that the city is asking against 11,200 pieces of property. The roll was filed in the Superior court by the board of local improvements.

The owners of the property, 5,500 of them, are asked to pay $28,146,000, or 68.4 per cent of the estimated $41,146,000 cost of the subway proper, leaving $13,000,000, or 31.6 per cent, to be paid as a public benefit out of the traction fund. In addition, $3,354,063 will also be paid out of the traction fund for the building of the tunnel under the river, for which a special assessment could not be levied.

Attorney Hits Special Levy.

"It is not a proper assessment for this improvement," said Lester L. Falk, one of the attorneys for the Property Owners' Committee on Subway Assessments, referring to the special assessment. "Not only are the assessments too high, but this is a general and not a local improvement for which there should be no assessment."

Another angle in the expected court battle was revealed when the roll also showed that the city proposes that a number of railroads should contribute for a local transportation improvement. In public hearings on the subway before the council local transportation committee attorneys for some of the railroads protested that inasmuch as freight may be carried through the subway they should not be assessed to aid a competitor.

Besides the Illinois Central, the Michigan Central and the Chicago and North Western railroads, a number of lines that have terminals at the southern edge of the loop are on the assessment roll. The territory assessed extends between Division and 22d streets and from the lake to the north and south branches of the river.

Maximum of $1,400 a Foot.

In State street, between Lake and Congress streets, where the subway will have a mezzanine floor, which will give passengers an entrance to stores, the average assessment rate for a standard lot 100 feet deep is $1,100 a front foot. From Congress street to 9th street the average rate is $450 a front foot.

The highest individual assessment of $821,060 is levied, according to the roll, against Marshall Field & Co., for the block bounded by Randolph, Washington and State streets and Wabash avenue. The square block just south of the Marshall Field site, which is held by more than one person, is assessed $845,416. The latter block contains one of the four corners at Madison and State streets where the maximum assessment is levied.

Other Assessments Listed.

A number of other individual assessment at various points in the assessed district are as follows:

Mandel Brothers	$400,330
Stevens Bros.	356,985
The Fair	481,590
Carson Pirie Scott & Co.	760,290
Davis Store	754,542
Public library	77,814
Boston Store	401,940
Palmer House	579,855
Hotel Sherman	48,936
Bismarck hotel	25,263
City hall	45,806
County building	52,657
Balaban & Katz [Chicago theater]	217,667

Levy on Michigan Avenue.

The assessments for property fronting on the west side of Michigan avenue, between Randolph and Lake streets, totaled $55,855, the roll showed, while the property fronting on the east side of Michigan avenue is assessed $40,015. Among the latter property is the lot on which John F. Cuneo proposed to build a sixty story skyscraper. This site is assessed $10,953.

In this vicinity the roll showed assessments against the Illinois Central railroad of $398,487 and against the Michigan Central railroad of $132,813. Assessments for other portions of the railroads' properties were scattered throughout the 500 page assessment roll.

Notices were sent out by the board of local improvements last night to the property owners notifying them of the amounts of their assessments, which are divided into forty installments of which they can pay one installment a year, the balance to pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent a year. The property owners have until Feb. 5 to file their appearances with the clerk of the Superior court if they desire to fight the assessment.

TELL OF PARTY OF BAIRNSFATHER AND MISS COLLIER

Witnesses Claim It Lasted Days.

New York, Jan. 20.—[Special.]—A story of a week-end party attended only by the Cartoonist Bruce Bairnsfather and the Actress Constance Collier in his apartment on East 35th street, was told in Supreme court today by Anna McDowell, the prim, card playing superintendent of the house.

The superintendent, a witness for Mrs. Bairnsfather in her divorce action, said that on the evening of May 24, 1929, Miss Collier came to the house at 11 p. m. and said:

"My sister and I were playing cards in our basement apartment," Miss McDowell continued. "My sister had occasion to go out into the yard. When she came back in she said:

"'It's funny. The Bairnsfather studio is dark and the lights are on in the bedroom.'"

The witness went out and looked for herself and found it to be "as stated" she went on to say.

Steps on Stairway.

"About 12 o'clock," she continued, "we heard Capt. Bairnsfather's footsteps coming down the bedroom stairway to the kitchen. We heard him cracking ice. Then he went back to the bedroom.

"About 12:30 I heard footsteps of two persons on the stairway. I thought Miss Collier was leaving and went up to let her out. I waited about 10 minutes, but on one appeared.

"I went back to playing cards and sat up until about 2 a. m., but nobody came out."

The superintendent swore that she and her sister heard the sound of much ice being cracked during the "party" when she took up a tailor's bill two days later, said she, she saw two persons jump off the day bed. She said that while the cartoonist "wore a sweater and trousers, Miss Collier had on only a bathrobe and slippers."

Tells of Renting Studio.

Miss McDowell wasn't sure just how long the party lasted, but she was certain that it lasted until Monday. Mrs. Bairnsfather, it was brought out, had just sailed for Europe.

Max Pfeiffer, manager of the Gainsborough studios, another witness, told of renting a furnished apartment to the cartoonist "'Ole" and Miss Collier last July. Pfeiffer identified Bairnsfather from a photograph.

"I understood they were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce," he said. "She did the talking. He paid $100 down. Several days later she sent her check for the balance. She told me later her stage name was Constance Collie."

Justice Edward J. Glennon reserved decision.

COPS SEIZE 47 IN SEARCH WARRANT GAMBLING RAIDS

Police squads armed with search warrants last night raided two loop bookmaking establishments and arrested 47 men, all of whom were to be finger printed at the bureau of identification and booked on charges of gambling.

The first raid was in the basement at 84 West Madison street, where 41 patrons and five alleged keepers were taken, and the other was at 50 West Lake street, where Charles Roy was seized as the keeper.

The raids mark a new departure in gambling raids, which heretofore have been conducted without search warrants.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Phantoms of the gay life of Clara Bow, boy friends, liquor, and poker paraded before a jury of elderly men and women today as the testimony in the trial of Daisy De Boe on grand theft charges came to an end and counsel launched closing arguments.

The case was expected to go to the jurors tomorrow afternoon. It may send the former secretary of filmdom's dashing red head to the penitentiary for one to ten years or it may free her of the alleged theft of $15,300 from Clara. If convicted, she might receive probation.

David Clark, chief prosecutor, in a brief closing argument accused Miss De Boe of deliberate perjury. While she went everywhere with the actress under the guise of a companion, Clark said, "she was in reality a thief, stealing from Miss Bow right and left!"

"Perjury by Somebody."

"If you believe Miss De Boe's testimony," he concluded, "then the testimony of every prosecution witness was deliberate perjury."

Clark brought forth points in the testimony dealing with the lives of the two women and their boy friends, Rex Bell, the cowboy in Clara's heart, and curly headed Alfred Mathes, whose sweetheart is Daisy. Purchases of liquor, gambling debts, and other episodes in their lives were called to the attention of the jurors as Clark sought to show how Miss De Boe committed the alleged theft.

Clara was not in the courtroom for this last scene, although it is said the state would have had her there if her physicians had permitted her to leave her home, where she is ill with a cold.

But Miss De Boe was there, primed for a last fling. She led the list of witnesses who crossed the stand before the taking of testimony closed and claimed that whatever Clara has now she saved for her.

There was only $30,000 to the Bow trust fund when she took over the financial reins, Daisy testified, and when she lost her job last November $227,000 was piling up interest in a bank "because I arranged it so that Clara could not touch it."

The damper Judge William Doran put on recriminations flung by the two women earlier in the trial proved ineffective only once in the closing testimony. Relating what she bought for Clara, Daisy listed a $600 beer making machine, and with a show of anger Judge Doran quickly struck that from the record as a part of the "mud slinging" about which he wanted to hear no more.

Boy Friends Have Their Say.

Mathes testified Daisy frequently paid Clara's bills out of her own pocket. Last October, on her return from New York, he said, she told Daisy to "get me a lot of new things." He said Clara told him she was going to go out a lot and needed clothes, jewelry, and fur coats.

Mathes said Miss Bow gave him a pair of $75 pajamas and a $75 lounging robe for his birthday last Aug. 3 and that Daisy paid for it out of her own account.

Bell followed him and said that, instead, Daisy proposed Clara give Alfred one present and she the other, but Daisy paid for her own present out of Clara's money.

At recesses the two boy friends were found conversing in an anteroom on the aspects of the trial and the hardships it was working on them.

"Why," Mathes said, "I've lost fifteen or twenty pounds and I only weigh 125 pounds now."

LAWYER TELLS HOW HE GOT JOB ON CANAL BOARD

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Disbarment Case.

Examination of the fifty-three lawyers employed by the sanitary district from 1925 to 1928 got under way yesterday at the hearing on the disciplinary action brought against them by the Chicago Bar association. The appearance of one of the lawyers on the witness stand followed the refusal of Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court, to dismiss the case.

The information of the association, filed with the Supreme court, alleges that the 53 attorneys accepted money without rendering service to the district. Two additional respondents, Hector A. Brouillet, chief attorney for 1925 and 1926, and Maclay Hoyne, chief attorney from 1927 to 1928, are charged with permitting excessive pay rolls.

The judge's ruling that the hearing will continue and that all of the defendants must testify climaxed the morning session during which Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the association, and attorneys for the defendants argued the point of law. Attorney Thomas J. Symmes, representing twenty-six of the number, carried the burden of the argument.

"Only Little Men Here."

"The bar association evidently expects each respondent to condemn himself," he said. "These defendants are just the little men who earned $250 a month. The big men, who received salaries of $100 a day, are not here.

"Certain attorneys on the pay roll were given an opportunity to make restitution, but these men are charged because they did not pay back—because they didn't do what somebody else wanted them to do.

"The men responsible for the hiring are the nine trustees of the district. They knew the amount of legal services required and these men are being charged because the trustees didn't know what they were doing."

Attorney Symmes than asked that the hearing be dismissed because the association had not established a case. The judge ruled, however, that the lawyers must be called to the stand.

Tells How He Was Hired.

After the noon recess, John M. Beverly, one of the defendants was called to the stand and questioned by Attorney Matheny. He described how he had been employed by the district in April, 1926.

"I first wrote to Senator Deneen," Beverly said. "He referred me to Congressman Martin B. Madden. I saw Madden in his office and he asked me about my qualifications, home life and why I wanted a political office. Madden then sent me over to the district's law office, where I was told they could do nothing for me.

"I felt I was being given the run around and so I wrote to my uncle who was formerly Probate court clerk of Kane county. He wrote to Madden and shortly afterwards I was again called to the sanitary district offices where I met Brouillet and was told I would be put to work in a few days."

Worked on Injunction Suit.

Beverly said that he was dismissed in December, 1926, when Hoyne assumed charge of the office, but was rehired for a two month period in the spring of 1927. During that time, he said, he worked on one case—an injunction suit against the sanitary district. His examination by Attorney Matheny proceeded as follows:

Q.—How many court appearances did you make? A.—I don't recall. I appeared every time I received a notice.

Q.—What did you do? A.—Looking over the records and running down law.

Q.—How many trips did you make to the district each week? A.—Two or three times a week. I would stay there for an hour or two each time. After July most of my work was done at my own law office.

Q.—How much time did you spend at your office? A.—My best guess would be between seven or eight hours a week.

Judge Asks of Duties.

Judge Taylor—What did you do in the fall of 1926? A.—I was running down more decisions.

Judge Taylor—What did you do in March and April of 1927? A.—I made a few court appearances, but didn't do much work.

Matheny—How often did you meet in Brouillet's office? A.—That was in 1926. I couldn't say.

Q.—Did you ever ask for more work? A.—Yes, when I was put on the pay roll I asked for work.

Matheny asked Beverly if he thought the $4,400 which he received for his services was reasonable. "Yes, I do," the witness replied.

Q.—Did you, in your opinion, earn the money which was paid to you? A.—Yes, I did.

At this juncture the hearing was adjourned until this morning.

The injunction suit referred to was against the sanitary district and thirty-five other defendants and involved the dumping of refuse in the old Illinois-Michigan canal. The case is still pending.

WOMAN BANK CASHIER GETS 4 YEARS.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Bess Ollinger, 45, cashier of the defunct City National bank of Shawneetown, today was under a four year sentence in the federal industrial institution for women at Alderson, W. Va., for embezzlements from the bank's funds totaling $39,320.

432 Enter Race For 50 Seats in City Council; Set a Record

The campaign for the city council was officially launched last night with 432 candidates in the race for the fifty aldermanic seats when the time limit for filing nominating petitions expired at midnight. Officials of the board of election commissioners said the number is perhaps the largest that ever has started an aldermanic campaign, but it is expected that many of the candidates will abandon the race by Feb. 4, the time limit for withdrawals.

Included in the long list are 40 aldermen seeking reëlection, several congressmen or former congressmen, numerous state legislators and ex-legislators, and several former members of the council.

In the 37th ward 16 candidates are in the race against Ald. James H. Taylor. In the 41st ward 15 candidates are seeking the seat vacated by Thomas J. Bowler, new president of the sanitary district. The 15th ward campaign also is jammed with a field of 16 candidates seeking the fill the seat vacated by Thomas F. Byrne when he was elected sanitary trustee.

Two members of congress whose terms expire in March entered the race, Congressman Thomas J. Doyle in the 13th ward, and Congressman M. A. Michaelson in the 35th. Both Doyle and Michaelson had served in the council before going to congress. Former Congressman William W. Wilson is one of the candidates in the 19th ward.

Among the members of the state legislature who have entered the aldermanic campaign is Representative Thomas O'Grady of the 4th district, wet leader in the assembly and author of the O'Grady dry law repeal bill, who filed his petition yesterday as a candidate in the 14th ward against Ald. William O'Toole.

Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], Ald. William Rowan [10th], and Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th] were the only ones having only one candidate in the field against them.

Joseph M. Adler, veteran of the world war, filed a petition as an independent candidate in the 6th ward. He lost his left leg in the Argonne while a member of the 131st infantry. Adler is a druggist at 6459 Rhodes avenue.

Stephen O'Donnell, 1754 Garfield boulevard, brother of Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, public enemy and head of a south side beer running gang, filed a petition for alderman of the Fifteenth ward.

Among the aldermanic candidates are two women, Mrs. Mary McGinnity O'Connell, 508 South Sacramento boulevard, filed as a candidate from the Twenty-ninth ward, and Mrs. Libby Corngold, 3536 Douglas boulevard, is a candidate from the Twenty-fourth ward.

5 STAY IN G. O. P. RACE; HARDING QUITS THE MAYOR

Backs Judge Lyle Against City Hall Head.

Judge Lyle with Harding's backing. A similar Harding move is expected in the Second.

Because of conflicting claims of Lyle organization support by aldermanic candidates, Louis Nettlehorst, temporarily in charge of Lyle headquarters, issued a statement saying that the mayoralty organization is not taking part in ward battles. The same headquarters announced receipt of a unanimous indorsement of Judge Lyle by the Thirty-seventh Ward Business Men's Republican club, Philip J. Farley, president, and Gustav A. Jedlicka, secretary.

Ald. Albert spoke at three meetings during the day, at a luncheon of the Coöperative club at the Hotel Morrison at noon, and at two ward meetings at night.

"All of the other candidates," he said at the evening meeting, "Thompson, Lyle and Schmidt, are products of the same machine, and the issue in this campaign is Thompsonism.

"Big Willie is displaying a halter that he says is around my neck. Well, before this campaign is over I'll put the right kind of a halter around his neck, although it may be difficult to fit a halter to a groundhog that only comes out of his hole once in every four years."

Attacks School Management.

In his luncheon speech the alderman discussed the school situation.

"The affairs of the board of education under the régime of the present mayor," he said, "are pathetic as well as scandalous. During the last year at least 25,000 children were compelled to attend school in portable buildings. There is no definite program of the Thompson board that will grant relief to the children in these portables. Many children have become ill with colds because of the unhealthful conditions.

"The present board is under the control of the Thompson organization and the Thompson system of spoils, particularly in the letting of contracts. The elimination of waste and graft would enable the board to provide adequate seating and housing facilities for the pupils."

Three Candidates Step Out.

None of the mayoralty candidates who withdrew during the afternoon and evening indorsed any of the remaining candidates. Thomas J. Houston stepped aside with a plea that mud slinging be stopped by those candidates who have indulged in it. Newton Jenkins' statement was an appeal to service men to unite behind their comrades who are candidates for aldermen in many wards. The other Republican who withdrew was John P. Walsh.

The Democrats who withdrew from the mayoralty contest were Russell H. Runk, Patrick B. Flannigan, Martin Powroznik, and James C. Mullen.

Ingolf P. Pedersen withdrew as a Republican candidate for city treasurer with an announcement that he wants to devote his entire time to the Lyle campaign.

Women Call Massmeeting.

Mrs. George Bass, president of the Chicago Woman's club, has announced that the organization will hold a mass meeting next Monday evening. While the club will not indorse a candidate, the program is expected to bring out what kind of a mayor Chicago needs.

Among the speakers listed are Henry P. Chandler, County Judge Jarecki, Miss Jane Addams, George O. Fairweather, Judge John P. McGoorty, and Dr. Louis L. Mann. It is expected that present conditions in the city hall will be discussed.

POLICE KILL ROBBER; WOUND TWO.

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Police ran down and shot three men they said they found robbing a Brooklyn drug store early today. One was killed, another was critically wounded, and the third was shot through the hand.

Are You a Gas Tank?
Food left too long in the intestines will do just the same as food left too long in a hot room. It will start to rot and throw off unpleasant gas and odors. But the gas can't get out of the intestines so easily as it can get out of a room—so it backs up into the stomach, causes belching and fullness, presses against the heart and causes all kinds of trouble. Just a dose or two of VIZ relieves all this because it cleanses and strengthens the bowels, aids digestion and keeps the stomach in fine condition. A natural remedy used for 50 years by Dr. A. G. Charnes and is guaranteed to please you or money back. Louis J. Freeman, 1210 N. EUROPE'S "BIG 3" DEMAND EARLY DISARMAMENT

Britain, France and Italy Warn Against Delays.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 20.—"We must demonstrate that the renunciation of war is real by reducing armaments with the means at our disposal. Talk of war risk is dangerous. Some say we are falling back into the old system of alliances. My government can accept no alliance except that under the league of nations covenant—the great world alliance against war and against armaments."—ARTHUR HENDERSON, foreign secretary of Great Britain.

"The obligations contracted by the nations under the covenant for disarmament constitute holy engagements and the country refusing to execute them should be dishonored."—ARISTIDE BRIAND, foreign minister of France.

Grandi Warns Against Delay.

"We cannot delay fixing a date for the general disarmament conference. Europe, amidst problems caused by economic convulsions from the war and bearing the weight of billions of dollars in debts and taxes for reparations, with millions of unemployed, will not understand another delay."—DINO GRANDI, foreign minister of Italy.

These emphatic declarations were made today before the league of nations council by three leading statesmen of Europe. Observers looked upon these statements as something more than words. They see in them backing by Europe's greatest powers for Germany's demand for immediate and effective reduction, not mere limitation of armaments.

The debate occurred after Quinone de Leon of Spain had submitted to the council an innocuous report on the findings of the preparatory disarmament commission. The report reviewed the work of the commission, but refrained from suggesting a date, place or president for the proposed general international disarmament conference. Germany demands that such a conference be called next November, but it is thought improbable that it will be called until some time in 1932.

"Nations Bound to Disarm."

Mr. Henderson, in commenting on the report, declared:

"Every member of the league is bound to collective disarmament by solemn obligations, binding international law and national honor. Having accepted the machinery of pacifist and universal arbitration, we must demonstrate that the renunciation of war is real by reducing armaments with the means at our disposal.

"We are also bound to disarmament by considerations of material self-interest. Look at the world today! There is unemployment, poverty, distress and political unrest. Every government is in difficulty.

"I stress reduction in arms because mere limitation is inadequate. There are people who say the time is unripe for reduction because of the anxiety of unrest and talk of war. But how much of this is a result of the uncertainty whether war can be prevented by the league? If there is any real danger it is not the risk of war in the immediate future—it is rather failure to carry out the policy we are discussing, which might drift us back to a situation as before 1914.

Holds Covenant Supreme.

"Some say the drift has already begun—that we are falling back into the old system of alliances, which undermine the authority of the league and the covenant. This is dangerous talk. My view is that no alliance can be made by any member of the league which is not subject to the covenant. I believe the authority of the covenant is supreme, and no government, however powerful, can venture to flout the league or violate its obligations."

Sig. Grandi followed, saying:

"Disarmament will reduce budgets from enormous military expenditures and will reaffirm a confidence in peace and establish conditions of security permitting Europe and the world to achieve the essential aims of the league.

"Before the conference opens the governments must seek to solve the outstanding difficulties; otherwise it is doomed to failure."

Declares Against Supremacies.

M. Briand followed with this statement:

"The obligations contracted by the nations under the covenant for disarmament cannot remain dead letters. They constitute holy engagements and the country refusing to execute them should be dishonored. To envisage disarmament by the number of soldiers, rifles, and cannons counts for less than sincerity. I forecast a large measure of success if we do not attempt the impossible. This conference will be the first of a series of disarmament conferences.

"We are not seeking to establish the supremacies of certain peoples over others. I hope the day will come when in all domains of land, sea and air, there will be complete equality among people and under conditions which everyone, regardless of how small he may be, can discuss with the largest without fear or apprehension. But don't think that will result from the first disarmament conference.

"There is a campaign now going on to make people believe we are bringing on another war. My government has reduced military service by two-thirds—cut the size of the metropolitan army in half—that's a considerable contribution to the work of disarmament."

Invite Russia to Parley.

Against the opposition of six members, delegates studying the proposed plan for a United States of Europe today invited Russia, Turkey and Iceland to participate in the deliberations at the next session, which may be held in May. The nations opposed to inviting the three powers were Norway, Jugo-Slavia, Belgium, Holland, Spain and Sweden.

The discussions for the present practically ended this evening when M. Briand, father of the scheme, named a committee of nine to coördinate the various propositions and outline an agenda for the May meeting. A brief session has been called for tomorrow night.

The decks are now cleared for action for tomorrow's bout between Germany and Poland before the council over Berlin's accusations that the Poles carried on a campaign of terrorism against the German minorities during the last elections in Upper Silesia. Poland denies the entire list of German charges. A lively session is anticipated.

ALIMONY CUT

MRS. CHARLOTTE TESTARD.

Although his former wife charged that he was concealing his assets, James V. Testard, owner of a roadhouse at 147th street and Western avenue, yesterday won a reduction of $10 in his weekly alimony payments to Mrs. Charlotte Testard, 6210 Normal boulevard. The Testards were divorced in January, 1929. During the trial Mrs. Testard took poison in the courtroom when the alimony of $75 a week which she demanded was reduced to $50.

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Mildred McCoy, star of the Belasco farce, "It's a Wise Child," and Sheridan Gibney, playwright, were married at the Little Church Around the Corner today by the Rev. Randolph Ray, its rector.

While the Belasco farce was at the peak of its Broadway run Gibney brought a play to the producer. Gibney had in his mind Miss McCoy for the lead. They met, she read the piece, liked it and liked him.

FLU CASES IN 19 STATES ALMOST DOUBLE IN WEEK

Also Are Now Twice the Number a Year Ago.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Influenza almost doubled last week in nineteen states reporting to the public health service. The report showed 2,022 cases as compared with 1,046 the previous week. A year ago the total was 559 cases in the nineteen states.

In New York city 1,005 cases were reported. New Jersey reported 282 cases, Maryland 113, North Carolina 112, and Arkansas 101.

100,000 CASES IN SWEDEN.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 20.—It is estimated that 100,000 persons in Sweden are victims of a fierce influenza epidemic now raging through northern Europe. The death toll in Stockholm is averaging ten persons daily. Business is suffering because 25,000 workers have been stricken. All hospitals are filled and authorities are taking over buildings as temporary hospitals. The situation is aggravated by the number of physicians and nurses afflicted.

Paris Mortality Grows.
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Paris is swiftly falling into the grip of the flue epidemic which it was hoped had reached a pinacle a couple of weeks ago. The disquieting fact that this year's epidemic is not as mild as was at first hoped was confirmed today with reports from Toulouse that the daily mortality there is three times that of the worst part of last year's epidemic.

The Paris high schools today instituted a daily tea hour when hot tea with a slight stick of rum in it will be offered the youngsters to help to keep the disease at a distance. The opening of one of the Paris civil courts has been postponed for a week because most of the judges are sick.

In Toulouse one-third of the firemen are bedridden from the flu and the military has been called in to aid in fire fighting. One-fourth of the police force is disabled on account of the flu.

CHICAGO RELATIVELY FREE.

Although reports of a slight influenza epidemic have been reported in various sections of the country, Chicago is relatively free from the disease, according to Dr. John M. Murphy, acting first assistant commissioner of health. In the first 19 days of January only 45 cases of influenza and 15 deaths from it were reported in Chicago, he said, while during the entire month of January of 1930 there were 56 cases reported and 37 deaths.

WETS AND DRYS BOTH DRAW COMFORT FROM THE WICKERSHAM REPORT

BLAINE OFFERS RESOLUTION TO MODIFY THE LAW

Fess Praises Report; Useless, Says Borah.

death warrant. Other comment was to the effect that the President has now definitely taken his stand with the intransigient prohibitionists, upon whom he will rely for renomination and reelection.

Commenting upon the exhaustive exposure of the evils of prohibition by the commission, Senator Blaine said that he considers the report "a body blow to prohibition."

Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], chairman of the Republican national committee and a leading dry, commended the President's message and that part of the report favoring further trial of prohibition.

"The report," he said, "proposes in the main two alternatives: To continue under the present system with more effective enforcement or to return to the old days. The American people do not want to return to the old days."

Borah Dislikes Report.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], a dry leader, said that the supporters of the eighteenth amendment will find satisfaction in the conclusions of the commission, its opponents in the conclusions of the individual members.

"The fact is," he added, "that the torpedoing of the report of the commission by the individual views of the members leaves the report without any force or effect in the ultimate solution of the problem."

He said that it is now a question of either repeal or no repeal.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], a dry, said that the commission had "tried to prepare something everybody could sign, but achieved something nobody could agree to."

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], a wet, opined the report would not "carry much weight, either with congress or the country."

Majority Favor Change.

Upon analyzing the statements of individual members of the commission appended to the report, the drys learned with chagrin and the wets with satisfaction that only a minority of the body actually favored a further trial of prohibition. Of the eleven members of the commission, six regard it hopeless to expect that prohibition can be made to prohibit. Two of these six—former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker of Ohio and Prof. Monte M. Lemann of Tulane university, La.—advocate repeal of the 18th amendment. Because of his pronounced conviction Prof. Lemann declined to sign the report.

The other four of these six—Mr. Anderson, Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe college; Frank J. Loesch of Chicago, and Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard law school—favor immediate revision of the 18th amendment to confer the power of regulation on congress.

Five of the members—Chairman George W. Wickersham, United States Judges William S. Kenyon, Paul J. McCormick and William I. Grubb, and former Chief Justice K. M. Mackintosh of the Washington Supreme court—stood out for a further trial. Judges Kenyon, Mackintosh and McCormick said that if the further experiment failed they would favor adoption of the Anderson plan of national regulation of liquor.

DRY DECADE REVIEWED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—After describing the shortcomings and injurious effects of national prohibition to the extent of 90 pages of its 148 page report and enumerating the benefits of prohibition in four pages the Wickersham commission comes to the conclusion that the 18th amendment should not be repealed, but that its modification may be found advisable.

The commission says that repeal of the amendment would be a step backward, would not conserve the benefits of prohibition, and would be likely to lead to conditions "quite as bad as those we are seeking to escape."

"A complete remitting of liquor control to the states," the report continues, "would be likely to result in the present situation in some states, with open saloons in others, with attempts at state control of manufacture and distribution in many others, but with no guarantee that any may be held to the minimum standards which national considerations demand.

Repeal of the Volstead act would amount to nullification of the 18th amendment, says the commission, and is "even less to be thought of than repeal of the amendment. It would not be honest."

Against Wines and Beer.

Although in its opinion the limitation of alcoholic content of intoxicating liquor to one-half of one per cent is unreasonable, the commission is against the amendment of the Volstead act to permit light wines and 2.75 per cent beer.

"To take the making, transportation, and sale of 2.75 per cent beer out of the scope of the national prohibition act," says the report, "would involve either leaving them wholly to the states or to the states subject to national laws in aid of those preferring to exclude beer.

"Legislation of this kind would be hard to draw and harder to execute. But without it states having complete prohibition would be greatly embarrassed by an illicit traffic having a legal basis beyond the state line. Also there would be nothing to prevent beer saloons in states which chose to allow them, and thus the chief gains of national prohibition would be imperiled.

Dispensary Plan Condemned.

"As to the answer that states would set up dispensary systems, it may be replied: [1] That there would be nothing to insure this, and [2] that in any event, in our opinion, after study of the different systems of liquor control, no modification should be permitted which would allow either the state or federal governments as such to go into the business of making or selling liquor in any form.

"As to the argument, which undoubtedly has much force, that relaxation of the law by allowing a non-intoxicating beer of low alcoholic content will promote temperance and relieve the strain on enforcement of the national prohobition act as to spirits, there are three answers:

"[1] Experience before national prohibition makes it at least doubtful whether beer will replace spirits in general consumption to any degree. It must be remembered that before national prohibition increase in the per capita consumption of beer was accompanied by no decrease in the consumption of spirits.

We Like Our Liquor Strong.

"[2] The use of illicit liquor has developed a taste for intoxicating beverages to an extent which makes it very doubtful whether a light beer would be widely accepted as a substitute therefor.

"[3] If the beer made and sold is not intoxicating it is unlikely to prove a substitute for intoxicating drink in communities where enforcement gives the most difficulty, while if it is, there would be a palpable violation of the constitution."

Although recommending a further trial of prohibition, the commission indicates that existing conditions do not encourage hopes of improvement.

"So long," says the report, "as public opinion is adverse or indifferent in large cities and in many states, so long as there is no practicable means of reaching home manufacture [which may easily run into commercial manufacture] and so long as the margin of profit remains what it is, serious obstacles in the way of satisfactory enforcement will continue to be beyond the reach of improved organization personnel and equipment and tightened statutory and administration provisions."

HAS PLAN FOR CONTROL

Indorses Scheme for Rum Commission Modeled on I. C. C.

When it comes to consideration of revision of the 18th amendment, the commission is opposed to allowing the states to define intoxicating liquor, because it would permit the return of saloons in some states. The commission is also opposed to government sale or distribution of liquor, like the Swedish system, which it does not believe would be workable in the United States nationally, but which might be adapted to conditions in states permitting the consumption of intoxicating liquor.

The commission refers favorably to the plan of one of its members, Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, for federal control of the liquor traffic by a commission patterned after the interstate commerce commission and federal reserve board.

"It will not do to say that American statecraft is not equal to devising some plan which will conserve the benefits thus far achieved and do away with or minimize the bad effects of national prohibition as it stands," says the report. "Much of the difficulty comes from the rigidity of the eighteenth amendment and of the national prohibition act, which prescribe one unbending rule for every part of the country and every type of community, without regard to differences of situation or conditions or to public opinion.

More Flexibility Needed.

"If there is to be revision of the eighteenth amendment, the following requirements should be met:

"1. The revision should be such as to do away with the absolute rigidity of the amendment as it stands. It should give scope for trying out further plans honestly, with some margin for adjustment to local situations and the settled views of particular communities.

"2. It should be such as to conserve the benefits of the present situation by national and state repression of saloons and open drinking places, and yet permit, where demanded by public opinion, an honest, general or local control of manufacture or importation and distribution, consistent with the minimum demand which otherwise, in very many localities at least, will tend to bring about a regime of nullification or defiance of law.

"3. It should allow of attempts by general or nationally approved local systems of control to do away with the enormous margin of profit which is at the bottom of widespread corruption and general lawlessness.

"4. It should allow of allaying the sources of resentment and irritation directly and in accord with the spirit of the law, instead of impelling to courses inconsistent with the spirit, if not also the letter of the law, and inviting disrespect for the legal ordering of society.

"5. It should allow of adjustment to local public opinion so as to do away with the strain on courts and prosecuting machinery involved in the attempt to enforce an extreme measure of universal total abstinence in communities where public opinion is strongly opposed thereto, while subjecting the means of adjustment to national approval and so insuring against the return of the saloon anywhere.

Concurrent Provisions Useless.

"It would seem wise to eliminate the provision for concurrent state and national jurisdiction over enforcement contained in the second section as the amendment stands. This provision has not accomplished what was expected of it, and there are no signs that it will ever do so. It is anomalous to have two governments concurrently enforcing a general prohibition. Action on the part of the states cannot be compelled. If it comes, it will come voluntarily by state enactment and enforcement of state laws. The states can do this without any basis in the federal constitution."

The report begins with a survey of the problem of liquor control with particular reference to the successive experiments with systems of restriction in the last 150 years, culminating in national prohibition.

All the difficulties encountered in previous experiments, however, are as nothing compared with those involved in absolute prohibition, the commission finds.

"Settled habits and social customs," says the report, "do not yield readily to legislative fiats. Law making, which seeks to overturn such habits and customs, even indirectly, by cutting off the sources of satisfying them, necessarily approaches the limits of effective legal action. The long history of legislative liquor control is one of struggle against this inherent difficulty. It could not be expected that legislation seeking to make a whole people, at one stroke, into enforced total abstainers, would escape it."

The commission was greatly impressed by the widespread nonobservance of the law.

"There is a mass of information before us," says the report, "as to a general prevalence of drinking in homes, in clubs, and in hotels; of drinking parties given and attended by persons of high standing and respectability; of drinking by tourists at winter and summer resorts; and of drinking in connection with public dinners and at conventions. In the nature of the case it is not easy to get at the exact facts in such a connection, and conditions differ somewhat in different parts of the country and even to some extent from year to year.

DRINKING MORE POPULAR

New Standards of Conduct for Women and Youths Evolved.

"This is true likewise with respect to drinking by women and drinking by youth, as to which also there is a great mass of evidence. In weighing this evidence much allowance much be made for the effect of new standards of independence and individual self-assertion, changed ideas as to conduct generally, and the greater emphasis on freedom and the quest for excitement since the war.

"As to drinking among youth, the evidence is conflicting. Votes in colleges show an attitude of hostility to or contempt for the law on the part of those who are not unlikely to be leaders in the next generation. It is safe to say that a significant change has taken place in the social attitude toward drinking. This may be seen in the views and conduct of social leaders, business and professional men in the average community.

"It may be seen in the tolerance of conduct at social gatherings which would not have been possible a generation ago. It is reflected in a different way of regarding drunken youth, in a change in the class of excessive drinkers, and in the increased use of distilled liquor in places and connections where formerly it was banned. It is evident that, taking the country as a whole, people of wealth, business men, and professional men, and their families, and, perhaps, the higher paid working men and their families, are drinking in large numbers, in quite frank disregard of the declared policy of the national prohibition act."

Tippling on Increase.

After making allowance for all doubtful factors in the equation the commission reaches the conclusion that "after a brief period in the first years of the amendment there has been a steady increase in drinking."

"To the serious effects of this attitude of disregard of the declared policy of the national prohibition act," the report continues, "must be added the bad effect on children and employés of what they see constantly in the conduct of otherwise law abiding persons.

"Such things and the effect on youth of the making of liquor in homes in disregard of the policy if not of the express provisions of the law, the effect on the families of workers of selling in homes, which obtains in many localities, and the effect on working people of the conspicuous newly acquired wealth of their neighbors who have engaged in bootlegging are disquieting. This widespread and scarcely or not at all concealed contempt for the policy of the national prohibition act and the effects of that contempt must be weighed against the advantage of diminuation [apparently lessening] of the amount in circulation.

"These observations are not directed to a comparison between conditions before the eighteenth amendment and since, but only to changes taking place during the years since the adoption of the amendment. The disquieting features above referred to should, of course, be weighed against the recognized fact that very large numbers of people have consistently observed the law."

Surveys Illegal Sources.

The report surveys exhaustively the sources of illicit liquor, such as importation from Canada and other foreign countries, the diversion of industrial alcohol to the bootleg trade, illicit distilling, brewing, and production of wine, both commercially and in the home, and the diversion of medicinal and sacramental liquor and scientific alcohol.

Home brewing, the commission found, has declined for two reasons—one the poor quality of the product and the second the "low cost of procuring whisky."

Home distilling of spirituous liquors of poor quality but cheap the commission found to be widespread. "The fact," adds the commission, "that much home production of liquor goes on everywhere facilitates use of what appear to be dwellings for illicit manufacture."

"But there is more to be considered than the difficulties of detection without invasion of homes and violations of constitutional guaranties," the report continues. "The bad effects of such operations, on the verge of or in violation of law, carried on in the home, are self-evident. Adults living in such an atmosphere of evasion of law and law breaking, and children brought up in it are an obstruction to the present enforcement of the law and a serious threat to law and order in the future.

Law Bows to Actualities.

"The difficulties presented by home production differ from those arising in other phases of the general situation in that they involve the arousing of resentment through invasion of the home and interference with home life.

"Necessity seems to compel the virtual abandonment of efforts for effective enforcement at this point, but it must be recognized that this is done at the price of nullification to that extent. Law here bows to actualities, and the purpose of the law needs to be accomplished by less direct means. An enlightened and vigorous, but now long neglected, campaign of education must constitute those means. Through this there can be brought into the home the knowledge of the moral, physical, financial, economic, and social benefits arising from liquor abstinence, and the thought can be impressed that law observance is one of the prime requirements of good citizenship and of the preservation of public and private security."

SPEAKEASIES ABOUND

Number Hasn't Decreased in Spite of Vigorous Raiding.

Speakeasies abound, according to the commission, more or less openly, according to local conditions of enforcement.

"The number closed each year by prosecution or injunction is large," says the report. "But the number does not decrease on that account. Indeed, it is evident that along with occasional isolated individual keeper, the type which has come down from the era before prohibition and the type most easily caught, there is a thoroughly organized business which replaces its retail selling agencies as fast as they are discovered and closed up. The number of these places notoriously existing throughout the country with public tolerance demonstrates the extent to which experience and organization have carried retail distribution."

The development of "open or hardly disguised drinking, winked at by those in charge in respectable places where respectable people gather," such as hotels, is pronounced by the commission "not the least demoralizing feature of enforcement of national prohibition."

"A fair index of the effectiveness of enforcement," continues the report, "is furnished by the prices at which liquor may be had in different localities. As to this, there is significantly uniform evidence that while certain kinds of imported wines command high prices, and now and then the pressure of enforcement raises all prices for a time at some one spot, whisky of good quality is obtainable substantially everywhere at prices not extravagant for persons of means.

Rotgut for the Poor.

"It is true many cannot afford these prices, and for them a large amount of cheap, poor grade, or even poisonous liquor is constantly produced and is in general circulation. The conclusion is that enforcement is not reaching the sources of production and distribution so as to materially affect the supply."

The commission was unable to find a satisfactory degree of enforcement even in states where prohibition existed before the adoption of the 18th amendment. In Virginia, for example, there is a stringent state law and state enforcement machinery as efficient "as it can be made within the practicable limits of expenditure," working in harmony with federal agencies, and yet arrests for drunkenness in Richmond have increased more than one-third in 5 years and the amount of liquor in circulation has grown steadily.

"It cannot be said," observes the commission, "there is reasonably effective enforcement in Richmond, and evidence as to Norfolk and Roanoke is to the same effect."

Even Kansas a Backslider.

Likewise in Kansas, which has had state prohibition for more than 50 years, the commission found that, while the preponderant sentiment is unquestionably for strict enforcement of the law, and there is a drastic state statute, enforcement is "bad" or, at most, "fair," in the counties containing the chief cities, "bad" in the mining regions, and "fairly normal" in the remainder of the state. While there are no open saloons in the principal city, Kansas City, Kas., there is "considerable evidence of liquor traffic" and "bootlegging is persistent." The death rate from alcoholism in Kansas fell to a low level between 1917 and 1920, but has now risen to the level of 1917.

In most of the other states which had prohibition prior to the 18th amendment the commission found a growing tendency to leave enforcement to the federal government. It pronounced this tendency significant, in view of the admission of federal authorities that there can be no effective enforcement without state cooperation.

HOW DRY IS ILLINOIS?

Enforcement "Very Bad" in Chicago; Poor in State.

Illinois, New Jersey, and Missouri are listed by the commission as illustrative as a class of states which have backslid from a high degree of zeal for enforcement of prohibition. State appropriations for enforcement in Illinois have ceased, and as a result enforcement of both the federal and state statutes is "bad in 27 counties and unsatisfactory in 16 more; is very bad in the chief city of the state and is bad in every urban community of much importance." In states like New York, which have repealed state enforcement acts, the commission says "it is obvious that there is not effective enforcement of prohibition."

"It is true," says the report, "that the chief centers of nonenforcement or ineffective enforcement are the cities. But since 1920 the United States has been preponderantly urban. A failure of enforcement in the cities is a failure in the major part of the land, in population and influence. Enforcement is at its best in the rural communities in those states where there was already long established state prohibition before the national prohibition act."

Corruption Widespread.

As to corruption, says the report, "It is sufficient to refer to the reported decisions of the courts during the last decade in all parts of the country, which reveal a succession of prosecutions for conspiracies, sometimes involving the police, prosecuting and administrative organizations of whole communities; to the flagrant corruption disclosed in connection with diversions of industrial alcohol and unlawful production of beer; to the record of the federal prohibition administration, as to which cases of corruption have been continuous, and corruption has appeared in services which in the past had been above suspicion; to the records of state police organizations; to the revelations as to police corruption in every type of municipality, large and small, throughout the decade; to the conditions as to prosecution revealed in surveys of criminal justice in many parts of the land; to the evidence of connection between corrupt local politics and gangs and the organized unlawful liquor traffic, and of systematic collection of tribute from that traffic for corrupt political purposes.

"There have been other eras of corruption. Indeed, such eras are likely to follow wars. Also there was much corruption in connection with the regulation of the liquor traffic before prohibition. But the present régime of corruption in connection with the liquor traffic is operating in a new and larger field and is more extensive."

Reviews Enactment.

National prohibition, says the commission, came into existence at the time best suited to its adoption, because of the psychology of war time, which favors great enlargement of governmental power at the expense of personal rights, but at the worst time for its enforcement because of the post-war reaction from such psychology.

Although doubting that the result would have been otherwise, the commission thinks that popular resentment was stirred by the fact that the amendment was adopted by legislatures which were not elected with special reference to the subject, and which were not truly representative because based on old apportionments in many instances, and by the further fact that a considerable part of the population was absent in war service.

There were other reasons for prohibition getting a bad start, according to the commission, among them the failure to appreciate the magnitude of the task of enforcement, lack of experience in federal enforcement of such laws, and the assumption that the enforcement of this particular law was exempt from constitutional guarantees.

Violence Breeds Resentment.

"High handed methods, shootings and killings, even were justified, alienated thoughtful citizens, believers in law and order," says the report. "Unfortunate public expressions by advocates of the law, approving killings and promiscuous shootings and lawless raids and seizures, and deprecating the constitutional guarantees involved, aggravated this effect. Pressure for lawless enforcement, encouragement of bad methods, and agencies of obtaining evidence, and crude methods of investigation and seizure on the part of badly chosen agents, started a current of adverse public opinion in many parts of the land."

Some exponents of prohibition, the commission further observes, "have constantly urged and are still urging disregard or abrogation of the guarantees of liberty and of sanctity of the home which are deemed fundamental in our policy."

The fundamental defect of national prohibition, in the view of the commission, is the lack of a sufficiently general public opinion supporting the law.

Practically Unenforceable.

"So long as state cooperation is required to make the amendment and the statute enforcing it effectual, adverse public opinion in some states and lukewarm public opinion with strong hostile elements in other states are obstinate facts which cannot be coerced by any measures of enforcement tolerable under our policy," says the report. "It is therefore a serious impairment of the legal order to have a national law upon the books theoretically governing the whole land and announcing a policy for the whole land which public opinion in many important centers will not enforce and in many others will not suffer to be enforced effectively.

"The injury to our legal and political institutions from such a situation must be weighed against the gains achieved by national prohibition. Means should be found of conserving the gains while adapting, or making it possible to adapt legislation under the amendment to conditions and views of particular states.

"The state of public opinion, certainly in many important portions of the country, presents a serious obstacle to the observance and enforcement of the national prohibition laws."

The commission notes a number of economic difficulties of enforcement such as the constant cheapening and simplification of production of alcohol and alcoholic drinks, the improvement in quality of illicit beverages, the diffusion of knowledge as to how to produce liquor, and the perfection of organizations of unlawful manufacture and distribution, all of which "have developed faster than the means of enforcement."

A Boon to Criminals.

But of even greater significance is the great profit in rum running and bootlegging which makes possible systematic and organized violation on a large scale and "offers rewards on a par with the most important legitimate industries. It makes lavish expenditure in corruption possible. It puts heavy temptation in the way of every one engaged in enforcement or administration of the law. It affords a financial basis for organized crime."

Another reason for popular resentment at the prohibition law the commission conceives to be the irritation of people "at a constitutional 'don't' in a matter where they saw no moral question."

"The statutory definition of 'intoxicating' at a point clearly much below what is intoxicating in truth and fact, even if maintainable as a matter of legal power, was widely felt to be arbitrary and unnecessary," says the report. "While there was general agreement that saloons were wisely eliminated, there was no general agreement on the universal régime of enforced total abstinence.

BEST CITIZENS ALIENATED

Many Law Abiding Elements Ignore Law Against Liquor.

"In consequence many of the best citizens in every community, on whom we rely habitually for the upholding of law and order, are at most lukewarm as to the national prohibition act. Many who are normally law abiding are led to an attitude hostile to the statute by a feeling that repression and interference with private conduct are carried too far. This is aggravated in many of the larger cities by a feeling that other parts of the land are seeking to impose ideas of conduct upon them and to mold city life to what are considered to be their provincial conceptions.

"Other sources of resentment and irritation grow out of incidents of enforcement. In the nature of things it is easier to shut up the open drinking places and stop the sale of beer, which was drunk chiefly by working men, than to prevent the wealthy from having and using liquor in their homes and in their clubs.

"Naturally, when the industrial benefits of prohibition are pointed out laboring men resent the insistence of employers who drink that their employé be kept from temptation. It is easier to detect and apprehend small offenders than to reach the well organized larger operators. It is much easier to padlock a speakeasy than to close up a large hotel, where important and influential and financial interests are involved. Thus the law may be made to appear as aimed at and enforced against the insignificant, while the wealthy enjoy immunity.

Pure Whisky for Rich.

"This feeling is reinforced when it is seen that the wealthy are generally able to procure pure liquors, where those with less means may run the risk of poisoning through the working over of denatured alcohol, or, at best, must put up with cheap, crude, and even deleterious products.

"Moreover, searchers of homes, especially under state laws, have necessarily seemed to bear more upon people of moderate means than upon those of wealth or influence. Resentment at crude methods of enforcement, unavoidable with the class of persons employed in the past and still often employed in state enforcement, disgust with informers, snoopers, and undercover men, unavoidably made use of if a universal total abstinence is to be brought about by law, and irritation at the inequalities of penalties, even in adjoining districts in the same locality and as between state and federal tribunals—something to be expected with respect to a law as to which opinions differ so widely—add to the burden under which enforcement must be conducted.

"Resentment is aroused also by the government's collecting income tax from bootleggers and illicit manufacturers and distributors upon the proceeds of their unlawful business. This has been a convenient and effective way of striking at large operators. But it impresses many citizens as a legal recognition and even licensing of the business, and many who pay income taxes upon the proceeds of their legitimate activities feel strongly that illegitimate activities should be treated by the government as upon a different basis."

Bad Effect on Courts.

The report deals exhaustively with the strain produced by prohibition on the federal courts, which were ill adapted to the burden. The huge volume of liquor prosecutions, says the commission has impaired the dignity and efficiency of the courts and "endangered the wholesome respect for them which once obtained." Prosecutors have been appointed and elected too often, according to the commission, "under pressure of organizations concerned only with prohibition, as if nothing else were to be considered in the conduct of criminal justice" and their work has been appraised solely in terms of zeal in liquor cases.

LAW WIDELY NULLIFIED

States Which Fight It Can Obtain Virtual Local Option.

The discrimination by the authors of the Volstead act against home brewing in favor of home fermenting comes in for withering comment by the commission. Referring to the provision authorizing the manufacture of nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices exclusively for use in the home, the commission says:

"If these are not 'liquor' within the act, it is hard to see why the provision was needed. If they are, and the provision so suggests by saying that the penalties for the manufacture of 'liquor' shall not apply to them, there is a discrimination between beer of lower alcoholic content, which certainly is not a 'fruit juice,' and wine of distinctly higher content. Moreover, the failure to fix the meaning of 'nonintoxicating' in this connection, leaving it a question of fact to be passed on by the jury in each case, in effect removes wine making from the field of practicable enforcement.

"Why home wine making should be lawful, while home brewing of beer and home distilling of spirits are not; why home wine making for home use is less reprehensible than making the same wine outside the home for home use, and why it should be penal to make wine commercially for use in homes and not penal to make in huge quantities the materials for wine making, and set up an elaborate selling campaign for disposing of them, is not apparent. If, as has been decided, the provision means to sanction home making of wine of greater alcoholic content than permitted by section 1, it is so arbitrary, so inviting of evasion, and so contrary to the policy announced in section 3 that it can only be a source of mischief."

A Bird's-Eye View.

Summing up its bird's-eye view of the prohibition scene, the commission finds that widespread nullification of the law exisits today.

"It is generally admitted, and indeed has been demonstrated by experience, that state cooperation is necessary to effective enforcement," says the report. "In states which decline to cooperate and in those which give but a perfunctory or lukewarm cooperation, not only does local federal enforcement fail, but those localities become serious points for infecting others.

"As things are at present, there is virtual local option.

"Enforcement of a national law with a clearly announced national policy, such as is set forth in section 3 of the national prohibtion act, cannot be pronounced satisfactory when gaps of such extent and far reaching effect are left open."

Inasmuch as the prevailing corruption has its foundation in the enormous profit of prohibition law violations, it could be reduced or eliminated, the commission holds, by eliminating or reducing the profit and by better selection of enforcement personnel, but the commission doubts that corruption can be materially reduced "so long as so many people and the people in so many localities are willing to pay considerable sums to obtain liquor, and so long as the money available for corruption is wholly out of proportion to what is practicable in the way of salaries for those concerned with enforcement."

Education Only Hope.

Education, not coercion, is what is needed to obtain a public opinion more favorable to national prohibition, the commission thinks, though it is not unmindful of the possibility "that it is too late to educate public opinion in those communities where a settled current adverse to national prohibition has set in." The main difficulty, the commission believes, will be to reconcile large city populations to a law decreeing total abstinence. Finally the commission arrives at the question as to whether the 18th amendment is enforceable.

"If, with regard to any law, assuming a vigorous effort at enforcement, the result is found to be that, notwithstanding enormous numbers of convictions, there is little deterrent effect and, after a decade of experience, the volume of violations seems to increase steadily and the public attitude is increasingly indifferent or hostile, the question arises as to whether such a law is, in any proper sense, enforceable," says the report.

Such benefits as have been produced by the 18th amendment, according to the commission, have resulted not from abstract prohibition, but from such enforcement as has been achieved. Any program of improvement of enforcement, the commission says, should conserve these benefits.

Savings and Prohibition.

"There has been an increase in savings, evidenced especially by savings deposits. As to this allowance must be made for the result of the vigorous campaign for thrift during the war, for the effects of increased activity of banks in stimulating savings deposits, for increased wages in the era of industrial prosperity following the war, and for the growth of the idea of investment during that era. Nor may we overlook the change in our standards of living, whereby it has become the general custom that the wives and daughters of workers are employed for the whole or a part of their time. Moreover, there was a great steady increase in savings before prohibition. It cannot be said that this thing is clearly established on this point.

"As to decrease in demands upon charities and social agencies, allowance must be made for conditions of employment during the era of industrial prosperity and the change wrought by the women members of the household are so generally agreeing. Also, the decrease which asserted be indicated some years ago, has maintained itself wholly or in localities. Such statistics as are cited to be significant and worthy of credit make this matter too doubtful to be taken as the basis of a conclusion.

GAIN IN EFFICIENCY

Labor Functions Better, Especially in Mechanical Trades.

"Looked at over the decade of prohibition, the most that may be said with assurance is that there has been a real and far reaching improvement in the efficiency of labor, especially in mechanical industry. Even if we concede the contention of some labor leaders that in the last few years there has begun to be an increase in drinking among workers, an improvement remains. In an industrial country, in an industrial age, this established fact must be of great weight."

A distinct improvement in living standards among working men is deemed by the commission to be attributable to prohibition, though it also it warns that "deduction must be made for the economic conditions in the decade following the war, the tendency of women members of the household to work for wages, and for the general diffusion of improved means of recreation. There would be no profit in going into details. It is enough to say that, upon weighing of the evidence, there is a clear preponderance to establish a gain.

"Beyond this the social benefits asserted are not so. It has been urged that there has been great improvement in domestic relations. But as few statistics as to divorce for domestic happiness as are available and are reasonably trustworthy seem to show a steady increase in divorces on the ground after a sharp drop in the initial years of prohibition.

Figures No Criterion.

"It is not safe to interpret such figures either to support a claim for gain or to show bad effects of national prohibition. A change in the general attitude of women is so disturbing an element that the statistics as to divorce before and since prohibition are simply not comparable.

"So also as to the effect upon public health which has been urged by some writers. The steady development of means of conserving the public health and the continual advance of medical science preclude any real comparison of the statistical data available.

"What may be said with reasonable assurance is that there has been a real and substantial improvement in the life of those with whom social workers come in contact.

"Any program of liquor control should go forward from these economic and social gains. It should be by conserving these benefits, by conceding them to the full extent which they may be taken as established, they are due not so much to the attempt at federally enforced prevention of the use of intoxicating liquor as to the closing, or substantial closing, of the old time saloon. Before the first desideratum in any control plan is to keep closed the saloon and its substantial equivalents. Public opinion, almost if not quite everywhere, would sustain keeping the saloon closed as a permanent achievement for good order, good working conditions, good morals, and improved domestic life."

HERE'S PERSONAL VIEWS OF WICKERSHAM BOARD MEMBERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Here is the position taken by the individual law enforcement commissioners:

George W. Wickersham [chairman]—A further trial should be made of national prohibition's enforceability, with strengthening of enforcement agencies.

Henry W. Anderson—The dry amendment cannot be enforced, so should be modified to allow congressional control of the liquor traffic, a plan for which he submitted.

Newton D. Baker—Repeal of the amendment and remittal of the problem to the states is the solution.

Ada L. Comstock—Enforcement is impossible without more public support, but revision is advocated rather than repeal of the amendment.

William I. Grubb—Constitutional prohibition is entitled to further trial, because it is an incompleted experiment and no satisfactory substitute has been presented.

William S. Kenyon—Enforceability deserves a further trial, and if demonstrated that prohibition cannot be enforced any better than in the past, then the amendment should be modified to empower congress to deal with the subject. Meanwhile, a referendum on repeal should be held.

Monte L. Lemann—Support of public and law agencies of the states and cities, essential to enforcement, is lacking as is sufficient reason to believe it can be obtained, so repeal is the only alternative. Meanwhile, continuance of efforts to enforce is a duty.

Frank J. Loesch—Effective enforcement of the present amendment is unattainable, so revision should be undertaken to empower congress to control liquor traffic.

Kenneth Mackintosh—If further efforts are not productive of reasonable enforcement and observance and private and state coöperation, revision of eighteenth amendment should give congress power to meet changing conditions and differing situations in different localities.

Paul J. McCormick—An opportunity should be given now to begin for a fair trial of the prohibition experiment. If conditions are not improved within a reasonable time, the amendment should be revised to empower congress to deal with the problem. The question of repeal should be put up immediately to the public through state conventions.

Roscoe Pound—The dry amendment should be revised to preserve federal control and provide a check against return of the saloon; and to allow "an effective control adapted to local conditions in places where, as things are at least, it is futile to seek a nationally enforced total abstinence."

HOOVER'S STAND DRIER THAN THAT OF COMMISSION

Against Proposed Change in Amendment.

"The first deficiency appropriation act of March 4, 1929, carried an appropriation for a thorough investigation as to the enforcement of the prohibition laws, together with the enforcement of other laws.

"In pursuance of this provision I appointed a commission consisting of an able group of distinguished citizens of character and independence of thought, representative of different sections of the country. For 18 months they have exhaustively and painstakingly gathered and examined the facts as to enforcement, the benefits, and the abuses under the prohibition laws, both before and since the passage of the eighteenth amendment.

"I am transmitting their report immediately.

"Reports upon the enforcement of other criminal laws will follow.

Enforcement Failure Discussed.

"The commission considers that the conditions of enforcement of the prohibition laws in the country as a whole are unsatisfactory, but it reports that the federal participation in enforcement has shown continued improvement since and as a consequence of the act of congress of 1927 placing prohibition officers under civil service, and the act of 1930 transferring prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice, and it outlines further possible improvement.

"It calls attention to the urgency of obedience to law by our citizens and to the imperative necessity for greater assumption and performance by state and local governments of their share of responsibilities under the 'concurrent enforcement' provision of the constitution if enforcement is to be successful.

"It recommends that further and more effective efforts be made to enforce the laws.

"It makes recommendations as to federal administrative methods and certain secondary legislation for further increase of personnel, new classification of offenses, relief of the courts, and amendments to the national prohibition act clarifying the law and eliminating irritations which arise under it.

Some Recommendations Enacted.

"Some of these recommendations have been enacted by the congress or are already in course of legislation.

"I commnd these suggestions to the attention of the congress at an appropriate time.

"The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the 18th amendment as a method or cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic.

"I am in accord with this view.

"I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic and political evils of this traffic; to preserve the gains which have been made, and to eliminate the abuses which exist, at the same time facing with an open mind the difficulties which have arisen under this experiment.

Objects to Changing Amendment.

"I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending the commission's proposed revision of the 18th amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful. My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without equivocation or reservation.

"The report is the result of a thorough and comprehensive study of the situation by a representative and authoritative group.

"It clearly recognizes the gains which have been made and is resolute that those gains shall be preserved.

"There are necessarily differences in views among its members. It is a temperate and judicial presentation.

"It should stimulate the clarification of public mind and the advancement of public thought."

HOOVER SPENT 24 HOURS STUDYING DRY LAW REPORT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Dispatch of the Wickersham report to congress ended a period of more than 24 hours during which Mr. Hoover studied the report to the exclusion of almost everything else.

He received it early yesterday and was busy with it until he retired around 11 o'clock last night. He was up at his usual early hour and again began considering the 90,000 words on prohibition and the phrasing of his communication to congress.

Mr. Hoover had the rough draft well in hand when the cabinet assembled at 10:30 this morning. He took up the report and his message with them and the discussion lasted until almost noon.

There were a number of revisions before his message was finally started to the capitol.

BLAME LABOR ROW AS BOMBS KILL 3 IN BUENOS AIRES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 21.—Labor troubles were blamed for three bomb explosions which occurred early today in three railway stations of Buenos Aires. The blasts killed three and injured twelve. The railways are planning to reduce the number of employés on March 1.

The worst of the outrages occurred in the station of the underground railway in Plaza Once, where the station master and two employés were killed.

The other explosions took place when trains were entering the stations of the Central Argentine railway and the Southern railway.

Press of Nation Evaluates Report as a Futile Effort

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Extracts of editorial opinion from representative newspapers in the United States on the Wickersham liquor commission report follow:

NEW YORK EVENING POST—The commissioners should have gone further in taking into their hands the courage and candor which Mr. Hoover tried to deny them. . . . They are wet in their separate reports and dry in their general report. . . . It is not a pretty exhibition by honorable men supposedly seated around a table to solve a great national problem.

NEW YORK TIMES—The fact of outstanding interest in the entire report is that six out of eleven commissioners are of one mind as to the form of modification that should be adopted, if any. It is, in brief, that congress should be given power either to prohibit or to regulate the traffic in intoxicating liquor.

NEW YORK NEWS—You can gather one thing, anyway, from the Wickersham report. It is that President Hoover is now definitely drier than the crowd of intellectuals he picked to tell him and the country that prohibition is O. K.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE—It takes little study of the Wickersham report to realize that the first item in its summary of conclusion and recommendation is entirely misleading. This reads: "The commission is opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment." Even President Hoover has accepted this statement at its face value, though the fact is that nine of the eleven commissioners actually favor the amendment repeal.

NEW YORK MORNING WORLD—The commissioners were unanimous in sweeping away the pretension that the experiment of constitutional prohibition is within sight of success. There is apparently not one commissioner who believes that the eleven years' trial thus far has given positive evidence that the revolutionary experiment can succeed.

BOSTON TRANSCRIPT—The effect upon congress and upon the country of the Wickersham pronouncement, intended by a high minded President to be a guide and counsellor, can be only a matter of speculation. Congress cannot fail to read, however, that at heart the overwhelming majority are convinced that the present rigorous system is unacceptable and must be modified.

BOSTON GLOBE—The Wickersham report presents the nation with the spectacle of a hung jury, whose eleven members have submitted twelve verdicts. Chaos, confusion, and contradictions are everywhere in evidence. From such a welter of opinion and dissent the contribution made by Mr. Henry Anderson of Virginia looms like a mountain of definiteness. The comprehensiveness and careful detail of his plan will command consideration.

SPRINGFIELD [Mass.] REPUBLICAN—Almost negligible is the contribution of the Wickersham commission to the early solution of the problem of prohibition. . . . The failure of the commission to provide the country with definite guidance leaves the issue of prohibition hopelessly mired in politics.

PORTLAND [MAINE] EXPRESS—The report is badly divided and arrives at few conclusions that can be regarded as established.

PROVIDENCE [R. I.] JOURNAL—The commission has reached conclusions which will offer the Republican convention of 1932 an opportunity to put itself at least more closely in accord with the public sentiment of the present day than adherence to the dry attitude of 1928 would permit.

PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE—The exhaustive survey of conditions throughout the country has convinced a majority of the committee that national prohibition, as now in effect, should be changed. . . . There can be no question of the tremendous growth of sentiment against prohibition, but its full force has never been felt because of the lack of a generally acceptable constructive program. The commission majority report supplies this and should lead to definite action.

HARTFORD (CONN.) COURANT—We are presented with the anomaly of a report upholding the status quo of prohibition but with which eight of the eleven members of the commission disagree. The reservations of the individual commissioners blow prohibition to smithereens.

WASHINGTON [D. C.] EVENING STAR—It is unfortunate that the commission, or a majority of it, has been unable to determine upon the proper course which should be followed in regard to the prohibition issue.

BALTIMORE SUN—Taking the report as a whole, the public is not very far from the starting place. The commission has told us facts that we already knew.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER—Prohibition is where it was before. The Wickersham commission couldn't agree with its members. Neither, it seems, could the President. . . . The report was finally evolved in a mood of desperation and weariness.

DAYTON (O.) NEWS, published by James M. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate in 1920—When it comes to blazing a path out of the confusion, the commission scatters in all directions. The report leaves us about where we were before.

DECATUR [ILL.] HERALD—At the end of two years' intensive study, consideration of evidence, and learned debate, "dry" members of the Wickersham commission report that the 18th amendment is a good thing. "wet" members that it is bad. Hoover appointed the commission in an effort to side-step an embarrassing political issue, and now what has he? The original issue, as lively and dangerous as ever, plus three rainority reports. The cat came back with kittens.

PEORIA [ILL.] JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT—The Wickersham reports constitute a mosaic of judicial confusion, political desperation, and spiritual exhaustion. In effect, a majority of the commissioners dissent from the main report which they evidently signed under protest. The commission should be discharged from further duty.

THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL—This report [the consensus signed by five members] will be interesting reading to those who would look ahead, it compromises a more complete plan for liquor control, should prohibition be discarded, than any one else has proposed.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL — The report will not please the out-and-out drys, neither the out-and-out wets, but it will give food for thought to those citizens who wish to see the liquor evil abated to the greatest degree but who are open to conviction as to whether the Volsteadian remedy is the best.

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS—If it was expected that this commission could find the magical formula, the few sharp, short words that would illuminate this prohibition problem for once and all, then the report is a failure.

DULUTH HERALD—The commission tells the story when it says there is yet neither observance nor enforcement, and the hope of better things is only a hope, shared by few members. The report sounds the doom of prohibition.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH—To give congress control over the liquor business would be to make it a cockpit and expunge from our public life every other consideration.

LOUISVILLE [KY.] COURIER-JOURNAL—The report of the Wickersham commission, transmitted to congress by the President with the multifarious and conflicting views of the various individual members, is like the Bible in one respect: Every party to controversy may quote something from it in support of his own contention.

LOUISVILLE [KY.] TIMES—Herbert Hoover could have done more by one 100-word statement to advance the cause of prohibition and prohibition enforcement than his Wickersham commission has done by its voluminous report, or could do by duplicating the productivity of the producers of the Encyclopedia Britannica. Will he do it? Is he dry?

NEW ORLEANS ITEM—The report of the President's commission on law enforcement will doubtless prove a source of political grief to Mr. Hoover.

SAVANNAH [GA.] NEWS—If there is anybody who cannot find something to suit him in the report, no matter how dry he is, or how merely damp, or how wet, he is very hard to please.

NEW ORLEANS STATES—The value of the report is in the fact that a majority of the commission apparently are convinced that ultimate modification of federal prohibition offers the only hope of correcting evils it has developed.

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION—In all seriousness, we cannot see public opinion enlightened or prohibition heartened by the categorical "conclusions" and "recommendations" presented by the commission. The mountain has labored and produced a mouse.

NORFOLK VIRGINIAN-PILOT—The report, although flying the no repeal, no wine or beer and stricter enforcement flags, packs in the individual findings of a clear majority of its members, the most damaging blow against constitutional prohibition that has been delivered by any responsible body during the life of the eighteenth amendment.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE in the Emporia [Kas.] Gazette—The Wickersham report is a breakdown of the theory that there is political wisdom in experts.

Wickershaming is not pussyfooting. It is not ducking nor dodging, but it is a word which might well denote the futility of counsel, strategy and pure logic before a public crisis.

We cannot Wickersham ourselves out of this situation.

KANSAS CITY STAR—The report of the President's law enforcement commission has settled nothing. In its confusion and in the clashing opinion of its members it probably reflects the confusion in public thought that has developed in the working out of national prohibition.

TOPEKA [KAS.] STATE JOURNAL—A true reflection of country-wide sentiment which came to no decision as to what should be done with prohibition. Certainly there is nothing about it to crystallize anything but continued controversy.

WICHITA [KAS.] BEACON—The report of the Hoover law enforcement commission is a maze of conflicting opinions reaching few conclusions and offering no solution of the problems of prohibition. The proposed amendment intended for consideration when and if it ever is decided seriously to attempt revision is pointless. The American people never will put the government in the liquor business.

WICHITA FALLS [TEX.] TIMES—Drys can find comfort in the report if they do not read it too closely. Wets can find comfort if they read closely enough.

WYOMING STATE TRIBUNE, Cheyenne, Wyo.—Every proposal advanced by the anti-prohibition proponents from Al Smith on down to the lowliest vociferator in the ranks expressly is disapproved by the report. The report, however, contains food for thought by the drys as well as the wets.

SACRAMENTO BEE—Taken as a whole, the commission report will be disappointing to the country. It reads to one who will carefully consider it as the last despairing effort of prohibition advocates to save a sinking ship.

SEATTLE TIMES—Stripped of its seeming contradictions and inconsistencies the report notably sustains the verdict long ago reached by every observant resident of the United States, as well as by those who look upon us from all distances abroad. The prohibition law does not prohibit and it never will.

VIEWS OF BOARD SHOW NO FAITH IN PRESENT LAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—In addition to the report signed by ten of the eleven members of the commission individual views were filed by each member.

Kenyon Denounces Evils.

United States Circuit Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa submitted a lengthy separate statement in which he scored the secrecy of the commission hearings, which he said is responsible for the failure to give the country "a true picture of why reasonable enforcement of the prohibition laws could not have been expected." Judge Kenyon, who is a noted dry, confesses that he was shocked by the extent of prohibition corruption and racketeering, the extent of which nothing but a congressional investigation could divulge.

"Public sentiment against the prohibition laws," says Judge Kenyon, has been stimulated by irritating methods of enforcement, such as the abuse of search and seizure processes, invasion of homes, and violation of the fourth amendment to the constitution, entrapment of witnesses, killings by prohibition agents, poisonous denaturants resulting in sickness and sometimes blindness and death, United States attorneys defending in the federal court prohibition agents charged with homicides, the padlocking of small places, and the lack of any real attempt to padlock clubs or prominent hotels where the law is notoriously violated, the arrest of small offenders and comparatively few cases brought against the larger ones."

"That there have been abuses of search and seizure processes is without question; likewise as to entrapment of witnesses. We have studied the numerous cases of killings by prohibition agents in the attempt to enforce the laws. There have been few convictions. Some of the shootings were apparently careless and unjustifiable, and evidence the reckless use of firearms and disregard of human life.

"On the other hand, many prohibition agents have lost their lives in attempting to perform their duties, concerning which little reference is made by the press.

"The defense by United States district attorneys of prohibition agents charged with killing has made difficult the conviction of such agents.

"The Supreme court of the United States holds that agents of the government engaged in enforcement of the prohibition laws have the right of removal of a case against them from the state to the federal court, where they are charged with homicide while engaged in their duties. Maryland vs. Soper, 270 U. S. 9. The present attorney general has announced a very wise doctrine on this subject, which may be summed up, I think, by the statement that while the United States attorneys will defend in these cases after removal to the federal courts, they will not attempt to procure the acquittal of guilty men or attempt to justify unlawful or illegal acts by federal officers.

"This question of defense by district attorneys of the United States raises very difficult questions of policy and of justice. The federal government might be seriously impaired if its officers were to be tried in state courts for conduct in carrying out their legitimate official duties. On the other hand, it is apparent that with the United States attorney defending a man in the federal court, there is little possibility of conviction. It seems to me the policy of Attorney General Mitchell will alleviate to some extent this particular irritation."

Judge Kenyon says that the American people must now face the situation as it exists.

"That the eighteenth amendment is now nullified in many of the large cities of the country cannot be denied by any one willing to face the facts," he continues. "And this very nullification is producing public sentiment against the prohibition laws and affecting the judgment of those who earnestly believe that it is a dangerous proposition for a country to permit its laws to be nullified. It would be better to modify the eighteenth amendment than to nullify it."

The opponents of prohibition, says Judge Kenyon, ought to be willing to give the prohibition laws a fair trial, but "if they cannot be enforced any better than in the past" the exponents of prohibition should be willing "to have the 18th amendment modified or repealed and abandon the efforts of national prohibitionists."

Judge Kenyon proposes that a referendum on prohibition be had by submitting to the states an amendment to the constitution to repeal the 18th amendment with ratification by conventions provided for. He concludes by saying that "if prohibition cannot be successfully enforced I should favor a trial of the system proposed by Commissioner Anderson in his report —which could only be after some modification of the 18th amendment putting the matter in the hands of congress."

Loesch Aids Anderson Idea.

Frank J. Loesch of Chicago declares effective enforcement unattainable and therefore advocates immediate revision of the amendment. He favors the Anderson plan of liquor control. Repeal of the amendment, says Mr. Loesch, would permit the return of the open saloon.

"A strong reason, among others, why I favor immediate steps being taken to revise the amendment is in order to destroy the power of the murderous, criminal organizations flourishing all over the country upon the enormous profits made in bootleg liquor traffic," contines Mr. Loesch. "These profits are the main source of the corruption funds which cement the alliance between crime and politics and corrupt the law enforcing agencies in every populous city.

"Those organizations of murderers and arch criminals can only be destroyed when their bootleg liquor profits are taken from them. So long as the 18th amendment remains in its present rigid form the nation, the states, the municipalities, the individual citizen are helpless to get out of reach of their poisonous breaths and slimy tentacles.

"If not soon crushed those criminal organizations may become as they are now seeking to become, super governments and so beyond the reach of the ordinary processes of the law."

Anderson for Dispenser.

Henry W. Anderson of Virginia advocates revision of the amendment and submits a plan of liquor control by a bipartisan national commission modeled on the Interstate commerce commission and the federal reserve board. He would have liquor manufactured, imported, and distributed by a national corporation created by congress, all the stock of which would be privately owned, or by a number of such corporations regionally established. The profits of the corporations would be limited and excess earnings would be disbursed by congress for education in the evils of intoxicating liquors.

Baker for Straight Repeal.

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker said in his separate statement that "the eighteenth amendment should be repealed and the whole question of policy and enforcement with regard to intoxicating liquors remitted to the states."

Mr. Baker says that in his opinion "the problem is insoluble so long as it is permitted to require a nation wide federal enforcement of a police regulation at variances with the settled habits and beliefs of so large a part of our people."

Mrs. Comstock Asks Change.

The sole woman member of the commission, Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe college, says in her statement she is convinced that adequate enforcement of the law is impossible "without the support of a much larger proportion of our population than it now commands." Prevailing conditions, which she does not think improvements in administration will modify, are undermining respect for law and "more fundamental conceptions of personal integrity and decency." She, therefore, favors immediate modification of the amendment.

Wickersham for Referendum.

Chairman Wickersham advocates a referendum to be had by proposing repeal of the 18th amendment. "I am not convinced," he concludes, "that the present system may not be the best obtainable and that any substitute for it would not lead to the unrestricted flow of intoxicating liquor with the attendant evils that in the past always were a blight upon our social organization."

FINED FOR ABUSING POLICE.

Henry Mezzano, 33 years old, 1210 Penn street, was fined $100 and costs in Town Hall court yesterday because of his abusive attitude toward policemen who arrested him on suspicion of robbery last Saturday at Damen avenue and Diversey parkway.

LAKE READY FOR VAGRANCY TRIAL; STATE GETS DELAY

Frank Lake, former beer partner of Terry Druggan, declared himself ready for trial yesterday on a charge of vagrancy when arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on a warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle. At the request of the state's attorney's office, however, the case was continued until Feb. 3 because Lake was only arrested Monday when he went into the federal court and pleaded guilty with reservations to charge of evading income tax payments.

"The public enemies seem to have had a change of front now that Judge Lyle has left," said Prosecutor Ditchburne. "Before Judge Lyle they usually came shouting for a change of venue, jury trial or something else in order to get delay. Now they want a trial at once."

Attorney Peter Sissman, representing Lake, said his client wanted an immediate trial so he can return to his business in Detroit.

CHICAGO LEADERS TELL VIEWS ON DRY LAW REPORT

Wets Attack It, While the Drys Are Jubilant.

Opinions on the prohibition question voiced by Chicago business, religious, and political leaders appeared to be more sharply divided than ever yesterday as a result of the Wickersham report sent to congress by President Hoover.

On the whole the drys were jubilant and the wets disappointed, while many prominent citizens, not actively allied with either cause, were inclined to pessimism, viewing the report as another obstacle to a way out of the dry law muddle rather than a beacon light for the future.

"It is significant," said Col. Randolph, "that the commission recognizes that we have had no prohibition as yet, but after 11 years of trying it the commission recommends that we go ahead and try.

"It also is significant that the commissioners were not unanimous.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court declared that the report "offers no constructive measures except in its recommendations to hold state conventions in order to sound out public opinion."

Cermak Assails Report.

Political leaders of both parties lambasted the report as worse than worthless. The report "entirely disregards the will of the people" declared Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board and Democratic candidate for mayor.

"I can see nothing in this report except another report by a commission," said Mr. Cermak.

Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] called the report "amusing" in that the commissioners concede the law is not enforced but "haven't the courage of their own convictions."

Drys Rejoice Over Decision.

From the professional drys came a chorus of praise for the report, the commission, and Mr. Hoover. They saw in the report hope for a long life for Volsteadism.

The report has "struck the keynote and set the pace for the whole future of the prohibition cause in the western hemisphere," said Charles R. Jones, chairman of the Business Men's Prohibition foundation. "The friends of the eighteenth amendment rejoice at the thoroughgoing presentation, and go forward with greater confidence than ever."

On the other hand, far different expressions came from leaders of the fight against prohibition. Attorney Ralph Shaw, speaking for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said: "This amazing report from the commission, the appointment of which, as is generally believed, was practically dictated by the Federal Council of Churches, of which Mr. Wickersham is a member of the executive committee, and the Anti-Saloon league, demonstrates conclusively that the campaign conducted by our association and affiliated groups is being sincerely waged and even the most ardent fanatics are against their will being forced to the conclusion that the liquor laws must be changed."

Col. Ira L. Reeves of the Crusaders said he could only believe that "outside pressure was brought to bear upon the politically minded members to write a report that would be acceptable as a prohibition plank for the Republican party in 1932."

Other Comments on Findings.

The substance of other comments on the report follows:

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson—A study of this report should enable the public to have a better understanding of the difficulties of this great American problem.

Dr. John Timothy Stone—I have had full confidence in the commission and am in entire sympathy with its report.

Harold W. Jirka, president of the Anti-Prohibition Party of Illinois—The Wickersham commission has been appointed by the President to furnish a report apparently voicing the sentiments of the President and not of the masses. If a vote were taken tomorrow a large majority of American citizens would vote for repeal or modification.

Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, national treasurer of the Woman's Christian Temperance union—From now on prohibition observance and enforcement will advance, and I look for some great political leader to take advantage of the report to lead a crusade for complete prohibition.

Mrs. Scott Durand, president of the Lake Bluff Woman's Christian Temperance union—I am much gratified that the commission has found it wise to continue the tryout of prohibition.

Representative Charles Adkins [Rep., Ill.]—I quite agree with the commission in its attitude toward repeal, modification, and enforcement.

WOMEN TO ADDRESS MASSMEETING IN WAR ON DRY LAW TONIGHT

Under the auspices of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, a public massmeeting in the Drake hotel ballroom tonight will take stock of progress made by the forces opposing the prohibition legislation, and point the way toward future activities.

Mrs. Charles Sabin of New York, founder and president of the society, presided last night at a similar massmeeting in Pittsburgh, and will reach the city this morning. Mrs. John B. Casserly of San Francisco, national vice chairman and also California state chairman of the organization, was the first of the board to arrive. She is a daughter of the late Michael Cudahy.

Admission to the massmeeting will be free, and there will be no solicitation of funds, it was emphasized yesterday from the Illinois headquarters, 700 North Michigan avenue. Speakers at the gathering will include Mrs. Sabin, Mrs. Carroll Miller of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll of New York.

FIGHT TO REPEAL ILLINOIS DRY ACT WILL NOT LAG

Legislative Leaders Say Will Heed Referendum.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—The Wickersham report, in the opinion of the assembly leaders, will not exert influence one way or the other on the battle in the legislature for repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act.

Members said they were rather muddled by the early and incomplete accounts from Washington and were experiencing difficulty in making head or tail of the findings. Liberal leaders declared it ran counter to the popular expression at the Illinois polls in November and would have no effect upon the mandate imposed upon the legislature.

Fear It Will Hurt G. O. P.

Among the Republicans, both drys and liberals, there appeared well defined sentiment that both the Wickersham report and President Hoover's message are not likely to strengthen the Republican party, still shuddering over the November landslide.

The reaction to the report among the local law makers appeared to be one of bewilderment. The Democratic view was that the Wickersham committee has simply performed according to the prospectus and in its finding is running counter to the tides of public sentiment.

Debate Issue Jan. 28.

Speaker Shanahan announced today that the wet and dry discussion of the O'Grady repealer would be held in the house Jan. 28, a week from tomorrow.

The time was picked at a conference between Minority Leader Michael Igoe, Tom O'Grady, liberals, and Homer Tice and Roger F. Little, dry Republicans. It is planned to put on a spirited field day with celebrities on the program.

Wets now report that the O'Grady bill has prospects of getting more than 100 votes in the house—77 are a majority. A disposition is manifest to get the measure to a vote rapidly. Richard J. Lyons, Republican of the Waukegan district, was among those declaring in favor of putting the repealer through the house quickly.

Liberal leaders, after counting noses tonight in the senate, declared 26 votes are lined up for the repeal of the state search and seizure act, with two more in sight. Downstate four Republicans and four Democrats are on the liberal list, and in Cook county five Republicans and all thirteen Chicago Democratic senators.

BAN ON RUM FOR U.S. COST CANADA OVER $15,000,000

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Officials of the department of national revenue today estimated Canada had lost more than $15,000,000 in revenue since the law forbidding clearances on liquor cargoes for the United States went into effect last May.

This estimate was offered in comment on the conclusion of President Hoover's law enforcement commission that the importation of Canadian liquor had not been cut off by refusal of the Canadian government to clear liquor cargoes destined for the United States. National revenue officials expressed confidence no leakage from distilleries exists.

Returns for last month showed the export of Canadian liquor to the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon totaled 227,611 gallons, almost 100 per cent more than in December, 1929, and an increase about equal to the decline in exports of liquor from Canada to the United States.

Judge Clark Refuses to Comment on Dry Report

Newark, N. J., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Federal Judge William Clark declined to comment today on the findings of the Wickersham commission.

Judge Clark, who recently ruled the 18th amendment invalid, said "to comment on the report would not be judicial."

Other Drys Say They're Pleased.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Prohibition will not have had a fair trial until congress passes an adequate enforcement program, the Methodist board of temperance and social service said tonight in a statement characterizing the Wickersham report as "eminently sound" in this respect. The statement, prepared by Bishop James Cannon Jr., head of the board, and wired here from Marlin, Tex., said: "The core of the report—that federal appropriations be substantially increased and that the vigorous better organized efforts since 1927 should be furthered to give enforcement the greatest practical efficiency—is eminently sound."

Commenting on the plan advanced by Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., for modification of the eighteenth amendment, it said the board opposes this for four reasons, because it "removes the brand of criminals from the traffic in intoxicants," makes the government responsible for "setting up, legislating for, and protecting a monopoly in the liquor traffic that will result inevitably in scandalous corruption, appeals to the covetousness of taxpayers, and makes possible 48 different kinds of liquor control."

McBride Likes Report.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Satisfaction with the Wickersham commission report was expressed by F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of America, today. He is here to attend a meeting of the Indiana league.

"It's a good report for us, and what we had a right to expect," he said.

The national superintendent urged if appropriations for enforcement work are increased, as suggested by the commission, that a large part of the increase be spent for educational work.

Bishop Nicholson Pleased.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Bishop Thomas Nicholson of the Methodist Episcopal church, president of the Anti-Saloon league of America, commenting on the report of the Wickersham commission said:

"So far as I have the facts in general they are most gratifying.

"As I understand the report it suggests the possibility of the removal of the clause giving concurrent enforcement responsibilities to the several states. That is a proposal worthy of careful consideration."

Volstead's Reaction Divided.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition enforcement act, in a written statement today expressed both satisfaction and disapproval in connection with the Wickersham report.

Bill Filed to Repeal Pennsylvania Dry Law

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP)—A bill to repeal the Snyder-Armstrong act, Pennsylvania's prohibition enforcement law, was introduced in the house today by Representative Clinton A. Sowers, Philadelphia.

IRRITATED THROAT

reduces germs 98%

NEVER make the mistake of underestimating the menace of a cold or sore throat. Either may develop into serious or fatal complications. You can probably recall such a case among your friends. Statistics show that every year respiratory diseases cause more than a million deaths.

At the first sign of trouble, gargle every two hours with full strength Listerine, the safe, healing antiseptic, and call your physician. If the irritation is mild, Listerine will frequently check it. If it is not, the doctor will diagnose the real trouble and treat it properly.

Reduces mouth germs 98%

Against ordinary colds and sore throat, full strength Listerine is amazingly effective. That is because it is fatal to all germs which cause such infection. Kills them by millions in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Repeated tests show that full strength Listerine actually reduces the number of germs on mouth surfaces 98%. And at the same time it stimulates mouth tissue.

Gargle every 2 hours

In time of sickness the gargle every two hours is needed to keep dangerous and swiftly multiplying germs under control.

In time of normal health, however, the night and morning gargle will be sufficient to maintain a hygienic condition in the mouth.

Non-poisonous, Safe

The most convincing proof of Listerine's germicidal strength is its ability to kill Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. Staphylococcus Aureus is highly resistant to germicidal action and is therefore specified as the germ by which all germicides are tested.

Keep Listerine handy in home and office and use it full strength for all infections. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Tales of Suffering Pour In from Farms.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lawrenceburg, Ky., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—A burned out grazing country with a few thin cattle where formerly herds were.

One-eighth of a tobacco crop. The only thing that resisted the drought which began last March, and most of this must go to pay the tax bills now overdue.

A $20,000 county shortage in tax collections. 800 persons in want, with most of their cattle sold and nothing to start the new year with.

This Anderson county, on the edge of the Blue Grass, where the creeks have been dry all summer and fall and where tales of human suffering have been coming in from the remote valleys since last July.

Hard as Angel of Mercy.

They speak of Lieut. Howard Carey around town as "an angel of mercy." He came a spick and span uniform, but soon was trudging around in overalls that showed signs of hard work. The county gave him a car and he made personal deliveries of food. Tales are told of his climbing bad hill roads with a sack of flour on his back, to deliver to some old woman or sick family. Then he would help them put their hose in order, chop wood and do needed chores, and put new heart into them. He went away when the Red Cross came.

It was estimated last July by the state board of health that between 800 and 2,500 persons in this county would need help during the winter, especially in the way of feed for stock. Nothing yet has been done about cattle feed.

While the politicians have been talking the farmers have killed their cattle for meat or the cattle have starved. Meat was one of the cheapest things in town, as the farmers peddled it for what it would bring.

Exhaust Charity Fund.

The county spends about $2,000 a year for charity, and this was exhausted long ago. In September conditions became so acute that the county judge, Powell Taylor, got in touch with the Red Cross in Louisville. They promised to investigate. He thought there had been enough investigating and called on the state drought relief committee for help. The Louisville officials went to the Salvation Army for advice.

"We have no money, but we have faith in the people," said the commander. That same night he started out a truck load of donated food and clothing and it was distributed next day.

This was followed by the stationing of Lieut. Carey in the district, and he has been there until a week ago, when the Red Cross finally took charge, announcing that they had obtained an appropriation of $1,750 for a month and that as much more as was needed would be forthcoming. Gov. Flem Sampson tried to extend the time for tax payments this year, but the attorney general of the state ruled against it. Many homes and farms will have to be sold for taxes if the law is enforced.

The state tax system as well as its departmental methods of government are coming in for an overhauling at the next meeting of the legislature. Here, as in Tennessee and Arkansas, a reorganization of government may result from the financial situations brought into relief during this depression.

This catastrophe to farmers and banks is reflected naturally in discouraged towns and merchants. The life blood of business has been stopped.

There will be few Red Cross quotas assigned or filled in Kentucky or Tennessee or Arkansas. The money is gone.

Red Cross Slow to Act.

When one speaks of what the Red Cross has done so far in Kentucky it must be in terms of local chapters, for it was only when these moribund institutions, many of which had not had a roll call in years, were stimulated into working, saving and scraping all they could that the national body moved in. This has only been in financial strength during the last two weeks. The Red Cross has 12 trained workers in the field now.

Washington has not yet awakened to the needs of the stock, and it will be years to replenish that which is lost. A young man from Washington, who looks like an embassy social attaché, has been sent into the rural districts to reorganize the local chapters and recommending their needs to the "greatest mother of them all." He is having a tough job.

ILLINOIS FIRM'S BID TO BUILD BRIDGE AT VINCENNES LOWEST

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Ferguson Construction company and Donald B. Ferguson of Rockford, Ill., today submitted the low bid for construction of a reinforced concrete bridge across the Wabash river at Vincennes, Ind. The bid was $275,195.

The bridge is to be built jointly by Indiana and Illinois. Representatives of the Illinois highway commission present at the opening of the bids were H. H. Cleveland, director; Frank D. Sheets, chief engineer, and George F. Burch, bridge engineer. The contract calls for completion July 1, 1932.

AUTOIST HUNTED IN MYSTERIOUS POLICE SLAYING

The inquest into the death of Hugh Kennedy, 35 years old, Chicago policeman whose body was found early yesterday in a vacant lot near Ogden and 52d avenue, Cicero, was delayed until Feb. 4 to enable the police to investigate clews. It was believed at first that the policeman had been taken for a ride by gangsters.

Coroner's Physician Thomas L. Dwyer said Kennedy died as the result of a broken back and internal injuries. He expressed the belief that Kennedy had been struck by an automobile, picked up by the driver to be taken to a hospital, and then thrown out when it was discovered that he was dead.

Capt. Charles McGurn of the West North avenue station, to which Kennedy had been assigned for nine years, testified that Kennedy was an efficient policeman. His duties, watching school crossings, were not of a nature to create enmities, Capt. McGurn pointed out. Kennedy had never served on a vice or gambling squad.

According to his widow, Mrs. Angela Kennedy, the policeman left his home at 4742 West End avenue at 1 p. m. Monday, saying that he would be home for dinner. At 5 p. m. he called again saying he was on his way home. Nothing was heard of him after that until his body was found.

RAID OKLAHOMA GROCERY STORE; SHOUT 'HUNGRY'

Routed by Fire Hose; Allege 'Red' Leader.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 20.—(AP)—A crowd of men and women shouting they were hungry and jobless raided a grocery store near the city hall here today. Twenty-six of them were arrested. Scores loitered near the scene following the arrests, but kept well out of range of fire hose lines made ready in case of another disturbance.

The grocery was invaded after a delegation had demanded of City Manager E. M. Fry that city authorities furnish immediate relief.

Police hastily assembled emergency squads and dispersed the crowd around the store with tear gas. Only those who were trapped in the wrecked store were arrested. Five women among them were released.

Many Drawn by Curiosity.

While the leaders were conferring with Fry at the city hall the crowd numbered only about 300, but its parade recruits from the curbing increased the number to 500. Later, with the curious and others attracted, the throng grew to about 3,000 persons.

Francis Owens, alleged head of the "Oklahoma City Unemployed council," said by police to be the leader of the crowd, was being sought. After conferring with Fry and receiving a written statement pledging city aid for the unemployed, Owens retired to the street level, mounted an improvised platform, and read the statement to the crowd.

"It's the same old bunk," he shouted as he finished reading, police said.

Condemned by Governor.

Informed of the disturbance, Gov. W. H. Murray advocated opening of the state fair grounds here to house homeless, but said:

"The person who takes advantage of the present condition and attempts to overthrow the government and duplicate Russia in this country, cannot be tolerated by any good citizen."

State investigation of alleged communistic activities here, said to have almost 2,000 supporters, is under way. Today was the third time Owens had led a group to the city manager's office. Fry urged Owens to assemble for him the names and addresses of the members of his 'unemployed council' of whites and Negroes, but Owens refused to do so.

Police Battle N. Y. "Red" Parade.

New York, Jan. 20.—[Special.]—A pitched battle between the police and communists today ended the scheduled "hunger march" of unemployed "reds" on the city hall. the mêlée, which did not assume large proportions but which resulted in numerous beatings of communists and passersby alike, followed the visit of the communist committee of thirty to the city hall, where it was heard by Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to the mayor.

Theresa Mattera, 5 years old, was playing with a pistol she had found in her mother's bedroom yesterday when it was accidentally discharged. The bullet passed through an open door into the kitchen, killing her mother, Mrs. Sadie Mattera, 27 years old, as she stood at her ironing board.

A neighbor, Mrs. Philomena Copposi, heard the screams of the child and her mother and had Mrs. Mattera taken to the county hospital, where she died a few minutes after her arrival. Mrs. Mattera's husband, Philip, was out of the city on a hunting trip.

The Mattera family lives at 2054 Kendall street. There are three other children, a 5 months old baby, and two boys, Jerry, 6 years old, and Buddy, 10 years old, who were at school at the time of the accident.

Stripe, president of the Waukegan Taxpayers' association, who directed the fight for the return to aldermanic government, says this system costs the taxpayers less and provides the voters with better representation in municipal affairs.

WOMEN TOLD PATH TO PEACE BEGINS AT CRADLE

Army Officer Addresses Anti-War Group.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—Six hundred earnest women, whose gray hairs and crowded reminiscences removed them a long way from the youth movement, were told again and again today that the path to their beloved peace should start at the cradle, should wind its persistent way through the nursery, and should be a deep furrow of conviction by school days.

"Awaken the youth to the evils of war, which they have never experienced, and they will work for the blessings of peace."

This was the message which admirals an' generals brought before the sixth conference on the cause and care of war, where, ironically, the average age of the delegate is well over sixty.

Gen. O'Ryan Speaks.

The dramatic contrast between these two factors, the elderly women at the conference, and the young people who, the speakers declared, are he hope of peace, came about this way.

Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the 27th division in the world war, had just finished his speech, urging the adherence of the United States to the world court, when a tiny woman with snow white hair rose from somewhere in the back of the big auditorium and asked a question. The woman was Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, a former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She will be 70 years old next May. The question she asked was: "What does the major general think of the growth of the will to peace in this country?"

Will for Peace Not Strong.

"I think the will to peace is not particularly strong in this country just now," replied the major general. "And one important reason is that the average young person doesn't pay the least bit of attention to it."

Up and down the lines gray or graying heads nodded a somewhat sorrowful agreement.

"And the other factor," the army man went on, "is the average American business man. He does't worry about peace. The burden and obligation is, therefore, all the greater on the people of intellect."

Then he spoke in terms of military expediency. "We must make the plans simple. That's the way to win an objective. Make the plan simple and concentrate on the next step."

Pacifists Hear Admiral Pratt.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations and one of the few ranking officers of the navy who supported the London naval treaty before the senate, today warned the delegates that wars cannot be ended by scrapping existing national armaments.

Calling attention to world conditions today, the naval officer said that so long as the soviet government adheres to its revolutionary program and "lawlessness stalks through the land, it is the height of absurdity to talk of everlasting peace." There is no cure for war, he said, so long as the world remains what it is.

"War cannot be wished out of existence," Admiral Pratt said. "I am opposed to those pacifist groups who mean well but whose wishes, if carried to a logical conclusion, would wreck the structure which the state has created for its own protection. I do not believe with many good people that it is wrong to fight, if the cause is just. To adopt such a course of conduct, in the present condition of the world, would be like the good but unwise man asking the thieves to come in and protect him.

Admiral Pratt urged the building up of a navy equal to that of Great Britain. With a navy surpassed by none, he said, the United States would have the balance of power in the next war and could determine the final result.

CLAIMS SHIPBUILDER FATHER OF HER CHILD; SUES HIS WIDOW

New York, Jan. 20.—[Special.]—A suit to recover $250,000 from the estate of the late Joseph F. Moran, shipbuilder and sportsman, on behalf of an alleged illegitimate child has been revealed through the filing of a motion for a bill of particulars before Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong in Brooklyn.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Evelyn Bell of Jackson Heights. She is suing Mrs. Adeline Stillwell Moran, widow and executrix, on behalf of a 14 year old child named Peggy, who she asserts is Moran's daughter.

According to Mrs. Bell's complaint the child was born at Chattanooga Nov. 23, 1916. The parentage of the child was kept secret at the time and her name was given as Peggy Smith.

In 1923, Mrs. Bell declares, she entered into an oral agreement with Moran, whereby the shipbuilder promised to leave the child $250,000 in his will, providing that Mrs. Bell cared for Peggy and supervised her education and allowed him to see and have custody of the child when he desired.

Throne Lost, Ex-Minister of Hapsburgs Ends Life

HOOVER TO TAKE PART IN HARDING TOMB DEDICATION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover will participate in the long deferred dedication of the Harding memorial in Marion, O., some time after June 1.

Former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, president of the memorial commission, today formally invited the President to attend the ceremonies and the latter accepted. Plans are not complete, but he may deliver the dedicatory address.

Doubts Arise Months Ago.

Several months ago doubts arose over whether Mr. Hoover would participate in the ceremonies dedicating the structure, where the bodies of President and Mrs. Harding lie.

Mr. Hoover made it known last month that he would participate in the dedication ceremonies if a formal invitation were extended. An official of the commission then said the President had been invited and it was doubtful for a time that the invitation would be renewed.

Coolidge to Be Invited.

The misunderstanding was cleared away early in the year at a meeting of the commission officials, and a decision was made to have Frelinghuysen extend the formal invitation.

Calvin Coolidge also will be asked to participate in the ceremonies. He was at one time the honorary president of the Harding Memorial association and was expected to participate in the dedication arranged for August, 1928.

Delays and differences caused postponement and now the ceremonies are set for some time next summer, probably in June.

CHINESE SHOOT $5 ROBBER AS HE FLEES CAFE

Three bullets from the revolvers of two apron garbed Chinese at State street and Grand avenue last night struck Jack Mueck, 24 years old. Mueck had rifled the till of the chop suey restaurant at 507 North State street of $5. As he fled Shiro Sasamori, the waiter, and a cook followed, both firing as they ran. When Sergt. Michael Downey and his squad reached the scene they found Mueck standing in the street covered by his pursuers' guns. There were two wounds in his back and one in his leg.

"Nothing to 'em," Mueck said as he was being taken to the Bridewell hospital. "They couldn't have used real guns."

WATCHDOG GIVES ALARM, DIES IN WAREHOUSE FIRE

Alec, an Airedale watchdog, lost his life early yesterday, but his barking attracted the attention of a policeman and saved the warehouse and garage of the Mutual Construction company at 2532 Warren boulevard from probable destruction by fire. The blaze caused $14,000 damage.

Aleck was locked in a small room on the first floor when Arthur Jones, colored, his master and caretaker of the building, went out. Firemen battled desperately to save him, but he had smothered to death when they found him in the room.

Patients in the Washington Boulevard hospital were disturbed by the fire and it was necessary to move three babies in the nursery on the third floor because of smoke pouring in at the windows.

POISONS THAT BREED when food wastes stagnate here spread through the system to cause bad breath, bad skin, headaches, etc. Intestinal Fatigue is responsible.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

Here is the TRUTH about UNPLEASANT BREATH!

It usually announces a serious internal condition . . . INTESTINAL FATIGUE

YOU don't want to know how to mask bad breath temporarily—as mouth washes and deodorants do. You want to eradicate its underlying cause—so you can be sure you won't offend!

Now unpleasant breath—like coated tongue, pimples, headaches, etc.—is usually just another symptom of that age-old evil, Intestinal Fatigue. It indicates a clogged, unclean condition of vital internal organs . . . It means your system is contaminated by poisons from stagnating food wastes!

Then begin by correcting this condition, if you are really serious about getting rid of unwholesome breath.

Adopt, instead, the very simple method world-famous medical leaders endorse . . . a method relied on by famous physicians for three-quarters of a century. Eat three cakes of fresh yeast every day!

Fleischmann's Yeast, you know, is not a medicine at all. A food, it acts naturally—gently.

Eaten regularly, as a part of your normal diet, it attacks the wastes that have collected in your intestines. It moistens and softens them. It stimulates natural secretions. And at the same time it actually strengthens the sluggish muscles of your intestinal tract.

Thus, daily accumulations are regularly removed from your body. The poisons that were circulating through your system and causing bad breath, bad digestion, lack of appetite, etc., are soon suppressed.

And don't put it off! Go to your grocer's, or to any nearby restaurant or soda fountain and get a supply of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast, today. Eat three cakes every day, regularly—a cake before each meal, or between meals and at bedtime.

Eat it just plain, or dissolved in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold). Or try it in milk, or fruit juices. Eat it any way you like.

And remember, when you eat Fleischmann's Yeast you are benefiting from the three indispensable vitamins it contains—vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D—elements which the ordinary diet fails to supply as it should. Get this added benefit by insisting on Fleischmann's Yeast. Start now!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

No Car Seat, No Fare.

Representative Albert J. Manion [Rep., Chicago], would have all street car and bus companies provide "seating facilities for each passenger from whom it makes a charge or collects a fare for carriage." Violations would be declared misdemeanors.

Representative Edwin B. Bederman [Rep., Chicago] introduced a bill providing that "judges aspiring to other elective offices must resign thirty days before election."

Berger H. Loman, 3625 Pine Grove avenue, world war hero and candidate for county clerk in 1922, was freed and Miss Ann Russell, a waitress of 2525 Milwaukee avenue, was placed on probation yesterday when they were arraigned in Town Hall court on complaint of Loman's wife. The two were seized Monday night in the woman's rooms in a raid led by Mrs. Loman. Mrs. Loman pleaded for leniency for Miss Russell, saying she only wanted the court to prevent her from seeing Loman. Judge Edelman fined her $100 and costs and suspended the sentence.

DEFENSE ENDS PLEA TO QUASH SANITARY CASE

Attorneys representing Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district board, and seven other former trustees and officials concluded their arguments yesterday to quash the graft conspiracy indictments on technical grounds. First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup this morning will start his argument, in which he will ask Judge Joseph David to uphold all nine of the counts in the indictment.

Judge David said that following the oral arguments he will ask the attorneys to file briefs in support of their contentions. He is not expected to give his final decision until he returns from his vacation some time in April.

Crowe, Assistant State's Attorney De Witt announced yesterday, will have to give a new bond or go to jail. His bond is posted by the Equitable Surety and Casualty company of New York, which went into the hands of a receiver on Dec. 31. All persons under bond from that company have been notified to appear in court and give new surety, or they will be arrested.

GOVERNOR OUSTS HARRISON FOR PAROLE BRIBERY

William Henry Harrison, colored member of the state board of pardons and paroles, who confessed to taking bribes in return for using his influence to attempt to get paroles for convicts, was discharged from the board yesterday by Gov. Emmerson. The order dismissing Harrison from the board came after a conference between the governor and W. C. Jones, board chairman.

"It is the intention of the parole board to continue investigations of any irregularities and to coöperate to the fullest extent with State's Attorney Swanson and all other prosecutors in the state," said the governor's announcement. "The board welcomes any inquiry that will stop the practice of obtaining money under false pretenses from the relatives or friends of prisoners."

FILIBUSTER ALL DAY IN 2 HOUSES OF THE CONGRESS

Threaten Senate with Continuous Session.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—Filibusters held the floor in both houses of congress today. In the senate Senators Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] and William H. King [Dem., Utah] talked all day—except for the intermission during which the Wickersham report was received—concerning a $51,000 item in the interior department appropriation bill.

As the day's session ended Senators James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] and Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], respectively majority and assistant majority leader, served notice that if the filibuster continued they would move to keep the senate in continuous session until the interior department bill was disposed of.

Began on Saturday.

The senate filibuster began last Saturday, when Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], in charge of the interior bill, refused to consider an amendment offered by Senator Thomas, who charged that funds belonging to one Indian tribe were given the bill to another Indian tribe. Except for the inclusion of the Robinson food relief amendment yesterday, the interior bill has stood stock still for three legislative days.

The action of Senators Watson and McNary is taken to mean that the Republican leadership now considers the filibuster more than a temporary check and that they fear it will grow into a truly threatening movement to block supply bills and so force an extra session.

To Continue Today?

Unless the notice of continuous session has its effect the filibuster is scheduled to continue tomorrow, with Senators Robert M. La Follette Jr., Wisconsin, and Lynn J. Frazier [N. D.], insurgent Republicans, planning to speak on the Indian bureau.

In the house the Wickersham report was a monkey wrench in the plans of the wets to assail the provisions for an increased number of prohibition agents in the pending appropriation bill for the departments of state, justice, commerce, and labor. Not wishing to share the spotlight with the report, the wets turned obstructionist and slowed dow the bill's progress so that the prohibition items will not come up for consideration until Thursday.

SEEKS $100,000 FROM PROFESSOR IN BALM SUIT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—Dr. Clarence L. Meader, professor of general linguistics at the University of Michigan, today was named for trouble between Dr. Charles W. Margold, author and former sociology teacher at Michigan State Normal college, and his wife, Stella K. Margold, a University of Michigan co-ed, in a $100,000 suit filed by Dr. Margold charging Meader with alienation of affections. The declaration asserts that Prof. Meader and Mrs. Margold met secretly and that Meader urged Mrs. Margold to break with Margold.

Yesterday Prof. Meader filed a $50,000 slander suit against Margold in connection with charges made against him in a cross bill of divorce which Margold filed against his wife ten days ago. Margold's charges in the $100,000 suit essentially are the same as those in the divorce bill. Frank B. Devine, attorney for Margold, drew up the declaration in the suit this afternoon.

Meader's declarations in the slander suit will be filed early next week, Lehman said.

Robber Seized by Couple in Holdup Gets 90 Days

John Smalley, 35 years old, 3028 Lock street, who was captured on Dec. 21 by John Mickus and his wife during an attempt to rob the Mickus butcher shop at 3220 Wallace street was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Frank Padden in Felony court. Judge Padden indicated he would grant leniency to Smalley if he would name his two accomplices in the attempted holdup, but Smalley refused.

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that newfangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

CANNON TO FACE CHURCH CHARGES WITHIN 3 WEEKS

Elders to Say if He Shall Be Tried.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. will face charges before a board of elders of the Methodist Episcopal church South within the next three weeks.

It was learned here tonight a committee of twelve elders to act as a preliminary trial board had been arranged and that the bishop would be brought before it at the Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal church South here within three weeks, but on a date not yet available for announcement.

No Clew to Board's Makeup.

The elders will decide whether or not the charges warrant submitting the case to the next general conference of the church. The case would go to the conference only in the event two-thirds of the board of elders voted for it.

No information was available as to the makeup of the board of elders who would preside or the exact nature of the charges which were preferred by a committee of clergymen several months ago.

The charges were filed by Dr. Forrest J. Pettyman of Baltimore, Dr. J. T. Masten, and Dr. Costen J. Harrell of Richmond, Va., and Dr. I. P. Martin of Abingdon, Va.

Relate to Political Activity.

The exact nature of the accusations never were made public. It was understood at the time, however, they related to his activities in the stock market and in the last presidential campaign.

Representative George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts announced he would renew before the senate campaign funds committee his fight to force Bishop Cannon to explain how he spent $65,300 in the 1928 presidential election. He said he would appear before the Nye committee whenever it is ready to hear him. Tinkham's criticism is that the bishop refused to account for $48,300 of the $65,300 fund.

HARRISON PARKER IS INDICTED ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Harrison Parker, whose Coöperative Society of America, a plan of nationwide chain stores, failed some years ago, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday along with four other officials of the North American Trust company of Chicago and Evanston. The other defendants are Rose W. Eckenfels, Bradford Bradshaw, Earl B. Davis, and L. J. Lifka.

Assistant State's Attorneys John Hampton and Voyle Johnson charge that Harrison, through a manipulation of the stock of the company, withdrew approximately $349,000 from the treasury without putting in anything in return.

The case is now in litigation in the state civil courts.

PAIR SEIZED; CONFESS FORGERY.

Don A. Grant of Detroit, who uses the alias of the Rev. W. J. Morris, and Angus McLennan of Windsor, Ont., were arrested yesterday in the First National bank, when officials summoned the police on the suspicion they were forgers. At the detective bureau the two confessed, it was said, that they specialized in passing forged checks at department stores.

Open the Doors to GOOD HEALTH

HEALTH, happiness and prosperity are so closely allied that success and happiness are reached most frequently through the doors to good health. See your doctor regularly. Medical science, if given the opportunity, will discover the first signs of many beginning infections—often long before any serious damage has resulted.

This is especially true of those two great health enemies—Syphilis and Gonorrhea. According to health authorities, these diseases constitute one of the greatest menaces to mankind. Osler, a noted authority, ranks Syphilis as the "greatest killing" disease. Besides being the cause of Paresis and Locomotor Ataxia, Syphilis may cause blindness, deafness, heart disease and other serious disabilities. Every bone and tissue of the body is subject to its attack. Gonorrhea is equally devastating. It is from three to five times as prevalent as Syphilis, and is often responsible for several painful, chronic conditions in men, which impair their efficiency and endanger their health. It is especially dangerous and harmful to women and little children—causing many serious operations on women and responsible for three out of every five cases of blindness of the new born. It is also the cause of many childless homes.

Here are two plagues, so threatening as to warrant the use of all reliable available methods of prevention and scientific treatment.

Syphilis is often discovered when least expected, for it can exist without the knowledge of the individual. For this reason, every health examination, to be thorough and complete, should include Wassermann and Kahn blood and other laboratory tests for Syphilis.

Though Syphilis and Gonorrhea are a dangerous menace to health and happiness, they can be controlled by proper and persistent treatment, if taken in time. Persons having the slightest reason for suspecting infection, as well as those who have been exposed to infection, should seek competent medical attention without delay.

Good medical treatment for either gonorrhea or syphilis, including Wassermann and Kahn blood and other necessary laboratory tests, can be secured within your means from an experienced family physician, or from the Public Health Institute. Treatment also is available through the Institute and many free clinics for those without funds.

The Public Health Institute was organized more than ten years ago to combat "social diseases" (syphilis and gonorrhea) in Chicago. Every facility necessary for competent and reliable medical service is provided. Members of its medical staff are experienced and are registered by the State. All treatment and advice are given by these men and women physicians.

The fees are within the reach of all. The first examination is only $3.00, and includes Wassermann and Kahn blood and other laboratory tests. Six consecutive treatments in the Urological or Gynecological Departments for $4.00. Examination and treatment are available to those without immediate funds. No one is turned away because of inability to pay.

More details of this subject will be found in Leaflets Nos. 1 and 2 sent free in plain envelope on request.

Announcement . . . This advertisement has been submitted to and been approved by the Medical Advisory Board which has been formed at the invitation of the Trustees. It is published by a health agency established for public service to inform the public of the dangers of "social diseases," of the importance of securing good medical care, and the facilities whereby this can be obtained.

25 Accused of Planning Huge Revolt.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Sensational charges concerning an alleged plot to overthrow the present government of India and to create a nationalist revolutionary régime were made today at the opening of the trial of 25 members of the Indian national congress, charged with seditious activities. The defendants were arrested here on Christmas day.

The public prosecutor declared today the alleged revolutionaries had their own cabinet, war council, and terrorist committees. One secret committee, the prosecutor continued, was organized to kill police and government officials.

Another of several committees was organized to supply weapons to the citizens. He said the plotters planned to starve the government financially by purchasing treasury bills and demanding cash whenever the bills were due, by cashing postal certificates, and by refraining from buying.

Assail MacDonald's Speech.

BOMBAY, Jan. 20.—Mahatma Gandhi's followers have lost no time in launching their expected assault on the round table conference and especially on Premier MacDonald's closing speech. National congress newspapers denounce the work done at St. James's palace with their usual vehemence. Here stock markets opened weak today and share prices declined as the result of MacDonald's declaration.

In Delhi the government suffered a 64 to 68 defeat in the legislative assembly, owing, it is believed, to disappointment at MacDonald's failure to make a sweeping pronouncement for dominion status.

A "Camouflaged Freedom."

An editorial in the Bombay Chronicle, a congress newspaper, says:

"As far as one can see through the wilderness of MacDonald's glib phrases, the Labor government intends to impose on this country a system of camouflaged independence in which safeguards for Britain are the principal things and the bestowing of responsibility upon the Indian people is a minor item."

Another congress journal says MacDonald's version of self-government "is the surest step India can take toward bolshevism, anarchy, chaos, and ruin."

Indian Delegates Pack Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Indian delegates to the round table conference started to pack today, and commenced saying good-by before leaving on Thursday for Marseilles where they will sail for home on Friday.

Thye are going back with high hopes of enlisting the majority of Indian opinion in support of an Indian dominion promised by Prime Minister MacDonald and they insist that a majority of the all-India congress party will join.

They expect that a certain number of the extremists, who will be content with nothing less than complete independence, will try to continue with riots and resistance, but the majority of the delegates are willing to support the British government in the sternest program of repression and even take over the responsibility for its ministers if necessary.

TRIAL IS SET

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Huntley Chapin contested divorce suit was set for trial on Jan. 30 by Superior Judge Desort yesterday. Chapin, who recently inherited $1,000,000 from his grandfather, the late Charles R. Huntley of Buffalo, is being sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Mrs. Myrtle McLaughlin Chapin, 7859 South Shore drive. She charges adultery. Chapin has countered with a suit for divorce, alleging cruelty.

ENVOY OF CUBAN CHIEF DEFENDS NEWSPAPER BAN

Charges Press Is Stirring Up Sedition.

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Suppression of Havana newspapers by the Cuban government was declared by Ricardo Herrera, secretary to President Machado, to be a necessary step against "a seditious campaign," and in complete accord with Cuban laws.

Senor Herrera made the response to the Press Congress of the World, which had protested to President Machado and to Secretary of State Stimson at Washington that "censorship of newspapers in any form disturbing or restraining dissemination of news or freedom of comment on news, to say nothing of suppression of all such publication, is inconceivable in this day of enlightened education."

Denies Restraint on News.

Nine Havana newspapers were ordered suspended more than a week ago for "indirectly encouraging acts against the government by giving prominent space to anti-administration activities."

"The suppression of the various newspapers in Cuba will not tend to interrupt nor restrain the dissemination of news in that the news is and may continue to be published," Senor Herrera said.

"The suppression of these papers is in effect solely for the purpose of putting a stop to a seditious campaign which the papers have maintained and which has seriously menaced the peace and tranquility of the country as well as seriously affecting commerce and industry from which thousands of Cubans earn their living.

Points Out Difference.

"It is necessary to realize the difference between a free press and a seditious press. No government in the world would permit a continuous publication of material destined to incite sedition and violence against life and property and which threatened revolution. The attitude taken is perfectly legal and in accordance with the existing laws of Cuba. These methods cannot be judged from the point of view of the laws of any other country.

"I am certain that the leaders of the press in your country as well as the members of the executive and governing committees of the Press Congress of the World will approve the measure once the motives have been made known to them."

U. S. EGG SOCIETY CONDUCTS FORUM ON ITS PRODUCT

The simple egg stood supreme yesterday at a fact finding conference of the United States Egg society at the Hotel Sherman and no questions were barred.

Dozens of questions were hurled, and dozens, also half dozens, of answers returned. As chief examiner, Mrs. J. E. Waggoner, a housewife, did most of the questioning. How old, she asked, is an egg. There have doubtless been thousands of answers to this very question relative to as many different eggs, but the scientific definition was:

"As old as its airpaces." But frequently, it was added, age has nothing to do with the virtue of an egg, and an egg might still be tasty despite a patriarchal benignity. Nor is the color of the yolk an infallible indication of freshness, it was said. At last reports the experts had neither been asked, and consequently had not answered, the world old puzzle of them all—which comes first, the egg or the chick?

OTTAWA POLICE HOLD SUSPECT IN STRANGLING CASE

Another suspect was in custody last night in connection with the murder of Miss Eppie Moss, 1156 Cornelia avenue, who was strangled in her garage near her home a week ago. He is William R. Livingston, 21 years old, of Chicago.

Ottawa police seized Livingston on Monday night, as he was on his way to La Salle. According to information given Chief of Detectives Norton, the youth wore a leather coat similar to that worn by the slayer of Miss Moss. Chief Norton requested Ottawa authorities to forward his photograph and finger prints. Livingston has no police record.

Two other suspects have already been cleared of suspicion. One, William Stone of Rockford, arrested at Lincoln, Ill., has satisfied the police of his innocence. The other, George Kaplan, 1001 North Crawford avenue, was absolved by detectives.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks — sparkling eyes — most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During those years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c, and 60c.

The Unseen Value That Makes The New Ford a Fine Car

Large number of ball and roller bearings reduces friction and wear and gives greater reliability and economy

YOU step into the new Ford, press your foot on the starter and away you go. Smoothly, evenly, it carries you along your way, for many thousands of miles each year. You have no fear of mechanical trouble and you accept its good performance as a matter of course. You have confidence that it will serve you faithfully and well under all conditions.

Though you may never lift the hood of your car, it is interesting to know some of the reasons for the reliability of the Ford and its economy of operation and up-keep. The extensive use of ball and roller bearings is an example of the quality that has been built into it.

These ball and roller bearings—and there are more than twenty of them in the new Ford—allow moving parts to run smoothly and freely, thus reducing friction and wear to a minimum. To you as a car owner, this means smooth, quiet mechanical operation, more speed and power, increased gasoline mileage, greater durability and longer life.

The function of the ball and roller bearings of the new Ford is similar to that of the jewels in a watch. Since they are placed at every point in the chassis where they are needed to prevent friction, the new Ford may be called a full-jeweled car, in the same sense that a fine watch is full-jeweled.

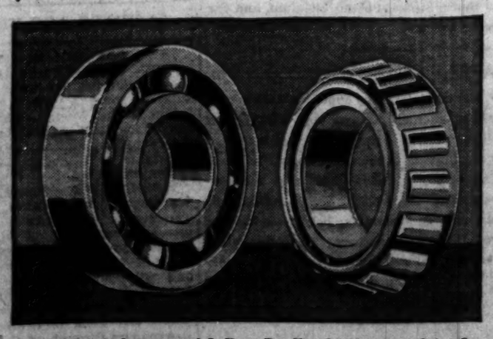
Roller bearings are used in the new Ford wherever a wide bearing surface is needed. The contact is along the entire line marked A and B.



Examples of the type of ball and roller bearings used in the new Ford. There are more than twenty in all—an unusually large number. They play an important part in the smooth, efficient performance of the new Ford and contribute to its reliability, economy and long life.

As important as the number of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford is their adequate size, and the manner in which each type has been selected for the work it has to do.

Ball bearings are used where their ball-shaped construction will give the greatest smoothness and efficiency. Roller bearings are used wherever a larger bearing surface is needed to carry a heavier load. The deciding factor as to which type shall be used is what is best for the car and for Ford owners.

Steering is made easier and safer in the new Ford because of the roller bearings in the front wheels, at the spindle bolts and in the steering mechanism. There are ball bearings on the clutch and ball and roller bearings in the transmission. A roller bearing on the drive shaft at the universal joint provides perfect alignment of those vital parts and prevents loss of power. Adjustments on the rear axle pinion and differential are made unnecessary by the close limits to which those roller bearings are held. The ball bearing on the generator gives greater reliability to that important part of the electrical system.

The value of the large number of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford is especially apparent after the first year. By reducing wear, they also reduce the cost of up-keep and the need of replacement parts.

In many other parts of the new Ford you find this same high quality of materials and fine craftsmanship in manufacture. The performance of the car under the severest driving conditions reflects the value that has been built into it.

JUDGE LYLE AND ALD. ALBERT.

The two Republican candidates now appearing strongest against the city hall are Ald. Arthur F. Albert and Judge John H. Lyle. Although opposed also to each other, they have common political characteristics and purposes. They have common elements of support in the ranks of the party. Republicans anxious to make a complete overthrow of the present city government are looking to Lyle or to Albert as the man in whose candidacy there is the best opportunity.

Republicans who want to destroy the ring in the city hall have put themselves behind Albert. The same purpose is in the mind of citizens supporting Lyle. It is unfortunate that the two candidates must cancel out some of the votes by dividing the strength of this common cause, but this is the situation as it has arisen. The question is how it may be handled by the voters. There is a way.

As Lyle and Albert continue their campaigns it should develop which of the two is making the greater headway. It is probable that before the primaries one or the other will appear to be out in the lead. Then it will be possible for citizens to swing to that man to insure him a sufficient vote to beat the city hall ring and end its evils.

That is fair to both candidates. They will have time to make their showing and Republicans can throw their votes to the best prospect.

MODERNIZING THE FLEET.

With business depression and heavy taxes, the economy represented by the appropriation for modernization of three old battleships has impressed the senate, which by an overwhelming vote approved the expenditure. We should be nearer the parity with Great Britain if we built three new ships, but the modernization of the three older ships is a fair compromise, conditions being what they are. Pacifist and radical opposition was defeated and the battle fleet will be brought up to a level of efficiency essential to modern combat. The three ships in present condition were tactically out of the first line, having a range of fire of only 15 miles instead of 20 miles of the modern fleet. Outranged they could not be effective in modern battle with a first rate power.

The usual objections that we are not going to war and that the battleship is obsolete were, of course, urged by the opposition, but had no more influence upon the senate than they deserve. Expert opinion is against the latter assumption and a recollection of recent experience must have disposed of the former. There was nothing more improbable in the view of statesmen or people in 1913 than that we should have a huge army and all our fleet engaged in the European war.

A fleet cannot be improvised and its value in giving weight to our voice in international affairs and insurance against aggression depends upon its strength and preparedness at all times.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

A remarkably vivid presentation of life in Russia was published in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. The account was contained in a letter written by Miss Clara Irwin of New York to her sister in this country and not intended for publication. Miss Irwin had been one of a party of several hundred tourists to visit Leningrad and Moscow. The letter was written while impressions were still fresh.

Miss Irwin's letter was worth a hundred columns of the kind of copy which is being sent by professional newspaper men stationed in Russia. There is no solace for the professionals in the fact that the amateur was untroubled by the censorship. If the censor will not let them tell their stories as they wish to tell them, the correspondents are not justified in tailoring their stories to meet the desires of officialdom. Rather send nothing or get out.

CUBA UNDER AUTOCRACY.

Publication of five Havana newspapers, four Spanish language and one American, was suspended in one week by President Machado. The Spanish papers were not irresponsible scandal sheets, but substantial publications. The American editor, irritating as a critic because he was an alien, was sent out of the country, or departed in advance of a deportation order. The suppressions, in one instance only temporary, were ordered because of the publication of news and comment displeasing to the Cuban president. The announcement was that disorders would result from the misrepresentation of conditions and the criticism of the authorities.

Such control of news and opinion is almost complete proof of despotic government. All pretense of free institutions evaporates with the denial of free speech. The denial is the process and proof of dictatorship. Cuba hasn't the government which it was the purpose of the United States to establish and encourage after the Spanish war. The development of violent autocracy in place of republicanism must give the United States great concern. There is not only a theoretical responsibility but also a real one. To the disappointment that the Cubans have not been able to maintain a democratic form of government after so long an effort is added the apprehension of consequences involving the United States.

This dictatorship cannot have stability. Its violence does not guarantee its continuance on top. Its methods will bring resistance and revolution can be only a matter of time, with the probability that the effort will be more to remove the man than to change the methods. Machado is preparing a disturbed future for Cuba in which government will be continued by the shrewdest conspirators rather than by the ablest politicians. If that is to be the case the United States will be drawn in sooner or later. It is responsible for Cuba in foreign affairs. Foreign interests will be involved in revolutionary events and the United States will be asked to restore order and obtain reparations.

Cuba, under a dictator who suppresses liberties and maintains himself by force, is headed for violence, for conditions which cannot be allowed on the island. Intervention is a disagreeable obligation and probably will be as misunderstood as it will be unavoidable. The suppression of liberties prepares for it.

CHEAP AND UGLY.

Sound advice was given the other day by Mr. Adolph Kramer, a former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, in discussing modifications of the building code. Mr. Kramer said he favored provisions which would permit cheaper building, other things being equal, but he thought it more important to set up standards which would require better buildings, even if they were more expensive.

Mr. Kramer spoke in particular of reducing the fire hazard by requiring a slab of concrete over apartment house basements. The additional cost would not be great, and much, if not all, of it might be canceled by reduced charges for insurance. He recommended, also, that the back porches of apartment houses be carried up on brick walls instead of on a frame scaffolding. This change would be justified as a measure for reducing the fire hazard, but it would be even more valuable as a means of improving the appearance of the city. No argument on this point is required by any one who rides the elevated. The typical Chicago back porch has nothing to recommend it but cheapness.

Outside fire escapes ought also to have been forbidden long ago. All that can be said for them as an emergency exit in case of fire is that they probably are better than nothing, though even this is open to question when the steel rods are ice covered and a high wind is blowing. Architects who are concerned for something more than the cheapness of their constructions build fire exits into their buildings. The cost is not much more, the safety to occupants is greatly increased, and the appearance of the city is benefited immeasurably.

NEW YORK'S ARCHAIC DIVORCE LAW.

The fate of the bill to modernize the New York divorce laws will be followed with interest throughout the country. At present there is only one cause for divorce under New York statutes, that of adultery, and for years effort to broaden the law has been successfully resisted. In the meanwhile, however, evidence of the harsh and mischievous results of the law has accumulated, and the new measure will have the support of an increasingly enlightened opinion.

The new bill permits divorce for cruelty and two years' desertion and otherwise liberalizes the provisions of the present statute. Judges and lawyers and social students acquainted with conditions produced under the present law are actively supporting the proposed change.

It is certainly intolerable from considerations of human happiness and healthy social conditions that cruelty, drunkenness, and desertion should not be accepted as justification for the release of their victims from the bonds of marriage. In fact, many of these victims will not submit to them, and the result is the resort to all sorts of evasions, justified in the circumstances as lesser evils, but unnecessarily costly and conducive to disrespect for the law.

The New York statute is a social anachronism and an illustration of the truth, demonstrated constantly in experience, that a law which defies the common sense and conscience of a community cannot be enforced. Such laws not only create avoidable human suffering but are sources of social demoralization.

Editorial of the Day

[The London Economist.]

The question of the Savoy "free zones" has been brought, once again, to public notice by an order which was given last Saturday by the permanent court of international justice at The Hague in a public sitting. The issue is a dispute between Switzerland and France, which might be one of the standing dangers to the peace of Europe if the scene of action happened to lie rather further east. As it is, the affair is merely piquant; for in this little drama France, who, since the peace settlement, has constituted herself the champion of the sacrosanctity of treaties, appears in the "Nazi" rôle of a revisionist who resorts to force majeure. Geneva is a city almost surrounded by foreign territory at close range; and for centuries the city has enjoyed free trade with the surrounding countryside by treaty with whatever state has happened to be the local sovereign of the day. In the treaty of Versailles, France secured the insertion of an article declaring that she was entitled to suppress the "free zones" by agreement with the Swiss government. Such a clause was a strange ingredient in a peace treaty terminating a war in which Switzerland had not been a belligerent and in which the issue of the "free zones" had not been raised. The sequel has been curious. In 1923 France, after failing to obtain Swiss consent to the suppression of the "free zones," simply suppressed them unilaterally by moving her customs cordon up to the political frontier. Switzerland then demanded arbitration; but, though the necessary compromise was concluded between the two governments in 1924, it was not ratified by France until 1928, with the result that The Hague court did not render a judgment till 1929. The court then decided in favor of Switzerland by 9 votes to 3, but gave the parties a term within which to settle the dispute by agreement before the judgment should come into force. This term was extended by the court for the second time last Saturday, and the president of the court empowered to extend the term again if he deems this expedient. When, however, the term does run out, the court will deliver a judgment which will either embody the agreement of the parties [if such agreement has been reached] or will be confined to the decision of the point of law. It will be interesting to see whether, in this event, France will maintain her unilateral revision of the treaty—a revision which she has carried through by force—when judgment has been given in Switzerland's favor.

RADIUM INJECTIONS.

THE use of solutions of radium by injection into veins as well as hypodermically and by mouth has been on trial for many years. This use of the agent, called medical use, to distinguish it from the use of it to destroy tumors [called surgical use], was begun in Austria soon after large beds of the element were discovered in Bohemia. One factor that has served to restrain this internal use is the power of the element to destroy the life of the body cells.

Until we knew the limits of its destructive power, and the rate at which the body would eliminate it, everybody was timid about using it internally and experimentation to discover whether it could aid in the cure of human diseases did not make much headway. That impediment has now been removed. The physiologists have proved the rate at which radium is absorbed, the tissues in the body in which it is stored, the rate at which it is eliminated, the variation in that rate at different times, the amount left behind for a long time. From these facts they can and have adduced how much can be given internally with safety.

The stage is set for experimentation and clinical trial to determine its value as a remedy. In other words, the physiologist has told us how much can be given with safety, at what dose it becomes unsafe. He has also told us something of the dose required to cause physiologic effects, in other words, the dose which must be taken to do good in the diseases for which it may be found suitable, or has been so found. He tells us how much should be given to maintain a certain amount in the tissues.

About ninety-eight per cent of the amount taken internally is eliminated during the first week. The amount left after this first rapid elimination is fixed in the tissues and is eliminated very slowly. The amount that stays for a long time is too small to be harmful. It is possible to fix on a dose that will keep the radium of the tissues at about a certain level.

ABSCESSED TEETH.

N. N. writes: I have an abscessed tooth shown by X-ray. The tooth looks nice and has not hurt for two years. Is it necessary to have it removed? Do you think this is the cause of some matter in my ears? I am 30 years old; have no rheumatism.

REPLY.

The granulomas on the roots of teeth, called abscess by most dentists, are very perplexing. You can get about as many opinions as you want by shopping among dentists and physicians. Whether or not a given tooth should be removed is decided by the symptoms present.

If you have no symptoms except a suppurating ear the probability is that you should leave the tooth in. The cause of suppurating ear generally lies within that organ.

MANY ARE CURABLE.

J. K. writes:

1. Are all sinus trouble cases curable?
2. Is it possible that a person may lose his sense of smell entirely?
3. If so, will it ever be regained?

REPLY.

1. Not all. Many are curable, but the cure is not worth the trouble.
2. Yes.
3. Sometimes it is.

TREATMENT FOR RUPTURE.

Mrs. G. K. writes: Will you kindly tell me if it is possible to cure rupture?

REPLY.

MARRIAGE AGE.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it legal in the state of Illinois for a young man of 21 and a girl of 16 to get a marriage license if the girl's mother consents? Would the mother have to be present or if she was unable to be would her letter consenting to the marriage do? H. D.

Males must be of the age of 21 years or over; females 18 years or over; provided, however, that males between 18 and 21 and females between 16 and 18 may procure license through the sworn consent of parent or guardian. In cases where males are only 21 or where females are over 18 and under 21, their presence before the county clerk will be required, with proper proof of age. Otherwise, one of the contracting parties must appear before the county clerk, at the marriage license window, and make an affidavit as to the names, residences, ages and such other facts.

ORDINANCE REPEALED.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—I am interested in learning why on two separate occasions "no heavy traffic" signs were erected relating to traffic on Kimball avenue and then removed. These signs without doubt were erected on order of the city council and we would like to know who was instrumental in effecting their removal, and why. A. J. M.

Ordinance authorizing the "No Heavy Traffic" signs on Kimball avenue was repealed July 2, 1930; hence, the removal of signs. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

PARKING COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise whether there is a law prohibiting all day parking in front of my home, which is in a residential district. These cars are parked here every day, making it impossible for me to get my car anywhere near home. S. D.

In our opinion, the police should act. Have you taken the matter up with them?

GOVERNMENT CURRENCY.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In the printing of paper currency, does the government deposit other than gold and silver in the treasury? 2. If so, what? 3. Has the government enough gold and silver in the treasury to call in all paper currency?

J. F. R.

1. The nature of the transaction depends upon the nature of the currency. Ordinarily one can get a pretty good idea of the security by reading what is printed on the money itself.
2. See No. 1.
2. Metallic deposits are not supposed to cover federal reserve notes, for example.

A LEGEND.

(Joan Lee Bowers, née January 2d, 1931.)

The angels in their workshop
Contended for a prize,
To find the very richest gift
That e'er they could devise.

And wealth beyond all Ophir
And kingdoms ten times ten
In any form they might conceive
Were theirs to give to men.

With jewels to outshine sunlight
Golconda's self to shame—
And every sort of high renown
And world-revolving fame.

Great place, and pomp, and power;
Whoever should possess
This gift of gifts would know the heights
Of blessed happiness.

Watched soft, wee fingers curl
About two hearts—and chose their gift:
A tiny baby girl.

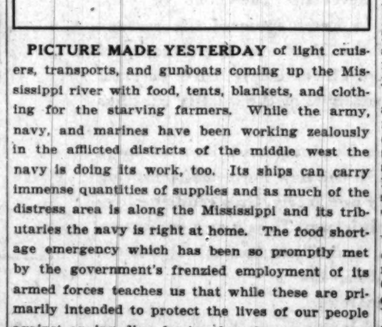
AND HERE COMES THE NAVY!



PICTURE MADE YESTERDAY of light cruisers, transports, and gunboats coming up the Mississippi river with food, tents, blankets, and clothing for the starving farmers. While the army, navy, and marines have been working zealously in the afflicted districts of the middle west the navy is doing its work, too. Its ships can carry immense quantities of supplies and as much of the distress area is along the Mississippi and its tributaries the navy is right at home. The food shortage emergency which has been so promptly met by the government's frenzied employment of its armed forces teaches us that while these are primarily intended to protect the lives of our people against an invading foreign foe, they can also be used against such ruthless intruders as the forces now attacking our people, led by old Gen. Starvation, Gen. Winter Weather, Gen. Drought, and Gen. Sickness. The army and navy and national guard have great quantities of tents, canned food, blankets, stoves, and clothing stored away to use in training troops in preparation for a possible war, but the government realized that these things are just as important in saving the lives of our people from hunger and cold as from the bullets of a haughty foreign foe. And so the good work goes on and proves that our wonderful government can be just as kind and quick to aid our own people in Kentucky and Arkansas as it has been in the past to help the unfortunates in Armenia, Russia, the Baltic States, Poland, Belgium, and the Koodleakoodle Islands. LAGNIAPPE.

"FIRST, the commission is opposed to the repeal of the 18th amendment," says the Wickersham commission report. "All the commission is agreed that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows . . ." says the eleventh paragraph of the report. Which reminds us of the man who was showing how well his dog obeyed him. "Rover, come here!" he commanded. The dog growled, showed his teeth, and went under the bed. "Or," said the man, hastily, "go under the bed. I will be obeyed."

WE'RE SO BUSY reading the Wickersham report we wouldn't have a last line today, but we know that if we keep on reading the report until we come to page 3,765,876 we'll find a clause that reads: "The commission is opposed to the discontinuance of the last line in newspaper columns." So here 'tis. R. H. L.

THE THREE-HUMPED CAMEL

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 21, 1915.

LONDON.—A Bucharest dispatch describing the Russian invasion of Hungary says that the Austrian force passed over Mount Colacul on Jan. 16 and advanced to Ozckaneschtie, near Jacobini, where the Austrian artillery was massed. To avoid being surrounded, the Austrians retired to Jacobini. The fighting still continues.

BEFORE SOISSONS [by courier to Berlin].—The German army is celebrating its victory in the battle of Soissons, a contest which in the number of men engaged and the extent of the losses would rank with the first battle of Bull Run or Antietam of the American civil war. So many men perished during the eight days' fighting for the heights across the river from Soissons that today, four days after the close of the battle, the plateau and gorges are still thickly strewn with dead, although 4,000 members of the landsturm have been engaged without a pause in clearing up the field.

LONDON.—A Rome dispatch says that Emperor Franz Josef, while realizing the danger of the secession of the sovereignty of Hungary at the present time, has decided to abdicate.

ROTTERDAM. — From Uthutzen comes news that yesterday heavy cannonading was heard in the direction east of Borkum. In this connection it is noted that cannonading also was heard over the North sea from Vlieland, where airships were seen.

COWES, Isle of Wight.—Queen Victoria is still alive, but all hopes for her survival are gone. Her majesty is unconscious and the end is expected any minute. Members of the royal family are still gathered in a room adjoining the queen's bed chamber. For a time yesterday she was fully conscious and able to partake of a little nourishment. Later in the day, however, the royal patient gave unmistakable signs of sinking and there was a recurrence of the paralysis noted at 10 o'clock last night. Mr. Theed, the sculptor, came to Osborne to take the death mask.

LONDON.—A special train left the Victoria station for the bedside of the queen at Osborne at 8 o'clock this morning with Emperor William of Germany, the prince of Wales, the duke of Connaught, and the duke of York aboard. The prince of Wales came from Cowes to meet the emperor.

PARIS.—The long expected duel between Count de Lubersac and Baron Robert de Rothschild was fought with swords on Baron Edmund de Rothschild's estate at Boulogne-sur-Seine. The duel began at 11 o'clock and the combatants attacked each other furiously. Sleeves of their shirts were literally torn to pieces by the sword points as the duelists repeatedly lunged at each other. After ten minutes of desperate fighting Count de Lubersac received a thrust which perforated his arm from the elbow to the arm pit, and the duel was stopped. The duel is the culmination of a quarrel of long standing which began with a dispute over a tennis court when the count and the baron were at the same college.

JANUARY 21, 1881.

NEW YORK.—Rufus Hatch, well known capitalist, has begun suit in the Supreme court to prevent the consolidation of the Western Union, American Union, and Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph companies. He claims that his rights as a stockholder are seriously jeopardized.

WASHINGTON.—Newsgatherers of Washington face another inquisition. The senate in executive session directed its committee on privileges and elections to investigate by what means the full text of the Chinese treaties and the accompanying documents ["printed in confidence" for the use of all members of the senate] became public last week in twelve or fifteen newspapers throughout the country.

LONDON.—The great snowstorm which has almost placed the United Kingdom under a complete embargo is general throughout Europe. Communication between London, Paris, Brussels, and Amsterdam is entirely stopped. A French vessel was sunk in the storm off Yarmouth with a loss of 20 lives.

MR. LEGGE'S ADDRESS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Chairman Legge's speech before 3,000 farmers, as reported in this morning's TRIBUNE, would be really amusing if it were not pathetic in that he doesn't know what he is trying to do, and the farmers know less. In his speech he contradicts himself by blaming the open grain exchanges for the low prices of farm commodities, and in another place he tells the farmers they themselves are to blame for the low price of wheat, because for the last 62 months they have been overproducing that grain.

If the federal government continues its policy of very foolishly trying to regulate all kinds of exchanges, business, personal habits, morals, and what not, pretty soon there will be no business to regulate and the only thing left to do then will be to start at the top in Washington and clean up the whole knowlittle and do-nothing system that now has its claws fastened on the country.

CHARLES F. DAVIS.

THE CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I might say that I have had breakfasts in England and also on the continent of Europe, and have come to the conclusion that the continental breakfast, which Francois evidently likes, is about the most miserable excuse for a meal that I ever came across. Also, I never saw a smoked herring used for breakfast in England; other good substantial foods were served.

In the matter of colonization, it is no wonder that the British outstripped people who make a habit of using three or four rolls and a cup of very poor coffee as an excuse for breakfast.

CORNUBIAN.

OR KIPPERS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—It is very evident that "Francois" knows not of what he speaks. He is all wet when he refers to a British breakfast as consisting of tea and smoked herring. During the twenty odd years I lived in England I never even heard of smoked herring. Maybe it was Vermouth and frog's legs "Francois" had in mind! R. A. F.

THE INSANITY OF MURDERERS.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—In a recent editorial entitled "The Insanity of Murderers" you struck a chord to which the public should be responsive. While Preston is an inmate of Chester penitentiary, fattening at the expense of the public, we will again endeavor to bring about his destruction in the electric chair. His condition of frenzied terror was sure proof that he was sound mentally; no insane mind could have registered such a condition of fear as Preston did. In the meantime accept our sincerest thanks. Your editorial made us feel that all the world was not against us during the greatest trial and sorrow of all our lives. You will fully appreciate the agonies of a mother during such an ordeal.

MRS. JOHNSTON AND FAMILY.

PUGILISTIC FORECAST.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 11.—If the promoters expect the public to buy tickets for the so-called heavyweight championship fight between a cheese champion and a contender who would be charitable to let him stay two rounds, I think they will be sadder and wiser men after it is over. There are still a lot of suckers, but you have to have better bait than that to tempt them. W. T. K.

ARRESTED.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—At 1:20 last Thursday morning myself and a friend were stopped and questioned by Officer Ossian Ellison at Belmont and Racine regarding our whereabouts at the time of the unfortunate strangling of Mrs. Ruth Moss. My friend was allowed to go home and I was taken to the Town Hall station after Officer Ellison had explained that his duty made this necessary. Of course, at the station I was subjected to intense questioning by members of the detective force and others. Until this experience I had always had the impression that suspects in cases like this were mistreated by "third degree" methods. To be sure, I found that I was treated with some consideration than many minor traffic law violators claim to receive. On the other hand I was told that it was necessary to detain me for questioning until my innocence had been reasonably proved, and, since it was then too late to make this as simple matter as daytime investigation, I was held until Capt. Hugh McCarthy could be summoned from his home. When the captain reached the station I was again questioned and released satisfactorily proving my status I was released without further ado.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—The union government will not endow a soup house in this administration. The natives of Arkansas, with the aid of the Red Cross can cope with the situation.

The union government has limited powers and energies. The sumptuary legislation of recent years has thrown it out of gear and strewn tacks under its tires. The union government is capitalistic, not communistic. Not until each one of the 48 nations composing the federal union discloses inability to administer its own business and arrange for distribution among its people and use the Red Cross and other private agencies fail can the union government act. The senators from the short grass country and the howling wilderness of the west who represent prairies and forests, who think with their lungs, will not be permitted to change our course.

GEORGE R. WALKER.

HAPPY DAYS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—When the fellow who started this buy an apple movement wants to be king or anything I'll sign his petition, vote for him, stuff the ballot box. I can now walk down street and act naturally—I can eat an apple and not be self-conscious. To go through the loop I used to pay a dime, clamber to the upper deck, and smoke five cigarets. Now I walk and eat three apples. And while I am doing it I can be just as unconscious of acting eyes as if I were following jackasses along the corn rows in the vales of Pennsylvania. Hot dawg! I like the life! ELMER C. STAYTON.

TWO CARS FOR SMOKERS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The writer has been a regular commuter for thirty years on the I. C. suburban trains. Of late years women and children have been permitted to sit in the smoking coaches. Some women smoke, others do not smoke, but they occupy the seats in the smoking cars just the same, forcing the men to stand up while smoking. In all fairness it is requested that smokers be allowed in two of the coaches of the I. C. suburban trains. CONSTANT SMOKER.

BUSINESS SIGNS SHOW RECOVERY, SAYS DR. KLEIN

Tide Has Turned, U. S. Official Tells Grocers.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, last night presented facts and figures to show that business is at the threshold of recovery before the members of the National Food Brokers' association at a banquet in the Stevens hotel. He also offered suggestions on avoiding overproduction from which many industries have suffered in the last year.

To show that business is climbing out of depression he cited the rule of economists that when the interest rate on 90 day loans is 3 per cent or less it is an unmistakable sign that recovery is on the way.

One of the great lessons taught by the depression, he said, was the importance of avoiding "mass mania." "Business must realize," he said, "that it is not the noise of factories working at capacity but the small tinkle of the cash register, that tells the condition of business."

"Busy-ness" or Business.

"Producers," he added, "must strike a balance between production and consumption and refrain from mistaking 'busy-ness' for business."

Dr. Klein said that an investigation conducted by the department of commerce had revealed that many small stores were in better condition at present than some of the larger ones which in boom times tied up large portions of their capital in extraneous activities.

He gave the results of a survey made in 100 cities of more than 10,000 population showing that the average family spends 19.8 cents out of each dollar for food. In some smaller cities the amount spent for food ran as high as 35 cents out of each dollar.

Grocer Hits Corn Sugar Ruling.

An attack on the recent action of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde in removing federal regulations on the use of corn sugar in canned and packaged foods was made by M. L. Toulme, secretary, in his annual report to the Wholesale Grocers' association. He called the order "an effort to destroy the integrity of the pure food and drugs act."

By executive action on Dec. 26 Secretary Hyde ordered stricken from the food regulations a provision that food canners and packers using corn sugar as sweetening or preservative must declare that use on the label.

"A strange and discouraging development of the last year centers on the determined efforts of special and selfish interests to destroy the consistency and integrity of the pure food law by amendments or rescinding of regulations," Toulme declared.

Hits U. S. Wheat Trades.

"These regulations have stood for two decades as bulwarks of protection to consumers, manufacturers and distributors," he continued. "If one asks why such amendments are proposed—amendments which would obviously upset uniformity—and why regulations are torn up, reversing policies tested by experience, the answer these days is 'farm relief.'"

Mr. Toulme also criticized the federal farm board, sarcastically referring to the board's dealing in wheat and cotton as "two other splendid examples of so-called farm relief." A resolution strongly condemning Secretary Hyde's action on corn sugar was before a joint committee of the Wholesale Grocers' and National Canners' associations yesterday and was expected to reach a vote today.

In connection with the various conventions the Canning Machinery and Supplies association has installed a $2,000,000 exhibit of their products in the basement of the Stevens hotel. H. R. Phelps, president of the American Can company, and C. C. Conway, chairman of the board of the Continental Can company, are among those attending the convention.

More than a dozen sections of the canners' group, as well as independent and allied associations in the wholesale and retail grocery trade, discussed their individual problems at separate sessions at the Stevens. One group, which regards the current depression as tolerable at least is the Retail Grocers' Wholesalers' association, an organization catering exclusively to independent retail grocers.

"Current hard times brought many families to the need for small credit," explained George C. Heimer, an official of the association. "They couldn't get it at the cash and carry stores and hence returned to trade with their neighborhood grocers."

CANNERS TALK OF VITAMINS

Being specific is the note of the canners' convention. It is broken up into numerous little meetings over the hotel. The corridors were full of distraught men rushing about and demanding of one another, "Where is the kraut section?" "When is the baked bean section to meet?" and "I'm on my way to the pumpkin."

Keen rivalry exists between kraut juice and tomato juice, according to A. E. Carmichael, superintendent of a canning company in Elkhorn, Wis. Kraut juice was first on the market, he said, but tomato juice benefited from the extensive advertising of kraut just because it advertised health. Still, kraut juice has its passionate advocates and Mr. Carmichael considers it as fashionable and popular as tomato juice, if not more so.

Regarding the comparative virtues and vitamins of tomato juice and orange juice, Dr. E. F. Kohman of the research laboratory of the National Canners' association, whose specialty is vitamins, pointed out to his fellows that babies could consume more tomato juice than orange and at breakfasts following "midnight brawls" accompanying conventions" one could see tomato juice flowing freely. "In fact," he said, "there is no end to how much you can consume." Tomato juice is richer in vitamin A than orange juice, slightly lower in vitamin C, and about equal in vitamin B, he said.

Frozen vegetables, which have been put on the market in Boston and Springfield, Mass., must be kept frozen uninterruptedly until they reach the housewife, for when they thaw they go to pieces rapidly, explained Dr. C. A. Magoon of the United States department of agriculture bureau of plant industry. Freezing breaks down the cell walls, so that when thawing does occur the bacteria have no obstacles and can work industriously.

One of the duties of cannery laboratory bacteriologists is to taste and smell the canned product. C. C. Williams, bacteriologist of the research laboratory of the National Canners' association, said that in many years of tasting he had learned perforce to like everything canned except beets and olives. A taster never swallows, he said, as the tasting ceases when the swallowing begins. He tastes expertly, then spits expertly.

DON'T you want this way of making the bowels behave? A doctor's way to make the bowels move so well that you feel better all over! Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin doesn't turn everything to water, but cleans out all that hard waste clogging your system. It cleans you out without any shock, for it's only fresh laxative herbs, a famous doctor found so good for the bowels combined with pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Let Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin show you how soon you can train the bowels to move freely, every day, the way they should. It's wonderful the way this prescription works, but it's perfectly harmless; so you can use it whenever a coated tongue or sick headache gives warning that you are bilious. Fine for children, too (it tastes so nice) and they ought to have a spoonful the minute they seem fretful, feverish, or sluggish, or become stuffed up with a cold.

You can get the original prescription Dr. Caldwell wrote so many years ago; your druggist keeps it all ready in big bottles. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and use it any time anyone in the family is constipated.

A Cash Saving On Your Automobile Insurance Policy

Last year this return amounted to $798,030.12. Many members save enough to pay their annual tire bills. The Inter-Insurance Exchange always has returned 20% of the amount paid the "exchange" for insurance coverage.

In addition to the cash saving to subscribers, other features will appeal to you. For example, most insurance policies exclude coverage on tires and accessories, yet it is far more likely that a thief will steal your spare tire than that your car will be stolen. The "exchange" does cover accessories and at no additional cost.

The "valued form" policy is still another feature that accounts for the growth of the "exchange." In the event of total loss, you are paid the face value of your policy, the amount upon which you have paid insurance.

The "exchange" settles claims quickly and satisfactorily. Claims are not referred to a distant "higher up." Home office service, and other features explain why insurance sales in 1930 amounted to approximately four million dollars. The policy issued covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

A few of the services available to members are:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

..NOT AT ALL..

USED cars—what kind of automobiles do you picture in your mind when you think of used cars?

Here are some "used cars" currently advertised in the Want Ad Section of the Chicago Tribune. Many of them have only a few thousands of miles rung up on their speedometers. Many of them have seen several months—some a year or two—of service.

But you'd never guess it from these pictures or from their present performance. They look like new—they ride and respond like new. In many respects they are the same as new—except in price.

Many of the older ones have been reconditioned from stem to stern. The more recent models have been tested, tuned, and made ready for thousands of miles of performance in the hands of their future owners.

These are reliable used cars, sold and backed by reliable dealers. Every day you'll find scores of them offered in the Tribune. Dealers and distributors with honest, fairly-priced motor merchandise to sell use the Chicago Tribune because they know this newspaper reaches practically every motor car prospect in Chicago and suburbs.

They know, moreover, that the Chicago Tribune's strict want ad censorship, maintained to protect the public from deception and fraud, also protects the reputable dealer from the unfair competition of unscrupulous, fly-by-night operators.

You can look with confidence for your used car in the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section. Here you not only can find the make and model you want, but also satisfaction and a square deal.

RUSSIA PREPARES TO DUMP GRAIN ON WORLD AGAIN

Wants to Convert Its Surplus Into Cash.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Russia plans to resume grain dumping. Tschernov, acting commissioner for supplies, announced in the soviet official economic bulletin received in Berlin today. Tschernov claims that the grain supply largely exceeds the needs of the Russian population and declares that Moscow proposes to convert the surplus into cash.

Several German steamers were recently chartered to convey grain from the Black sea ports.

Police here are actively seeking special Russian emissaries sent to stir up the jobless riots in February. According to reports received from Riga, Latvia, the soviets entrusted 300 hand picked emissaries with the task of creating simultaneous trouble in all the leading countries of the world, including the United States, on Feb. 25, under the slogan, "The international day of workers whose aim it is to terminate a revolutionary movement."

Russia Sends Gold to Berlin.

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 20.—Although conducted with the strictest secrecy, the soviets failed to conceal a secret large shipment of gold through Riga tonight. The consignment of 11 cases of bullion, valued at $5,000,000, was transferred into a German train bound for Berlin. A squad of Tcheka gents, armed with machine guns, convoyed the gold to the Latvian frontier.

Denounce Fish Report.

MOSCOW, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The soviet press today turned shafts of ridicule against the American congressman, Hamilton Fish Jr., in long editorials announcing his recent report to congress on his investigation of communist activities in that country.

The newspaper Izvestia calls the report a "skyscraper of insolence," and the newspaper Pravda says of it, "Of anti-soviet documents in the recent report, the Fish report is the most impudent, insolent, and ridiculous. It is sixty pages of absurdity based on forged documents."

The report, says Izvestia, indicates the "fright of the bourgeoisie" that a soviet republic may succeed in its industrialization plan, and that if American economists do not deny its charges, it will indicates that "fear is making the American people blind."

Threaten to Buy Elsewhere.

"Development of soviet industry," the newspaper says, "should make for our economic relations between the United States and the soviet union. American capitalists think otherwise we shall find other countries which will regard soviet purchases from a business viewpoint. There must be no imports without exports. If we can't believe that the United States, the world's most capitalistic country, should be afraid of the growth of socialism in soviet Russia is just which Fish and his committee are howling."

The newspaper, in denying charges of "dumping" in American markets, asserted that Russia still imports more than she exports. It declares that the charges of the Fish report are a preparation for an economic embargo against Russian goods.

"ACIDINE HAS NO EQUAL FOR INDIGESTION, GAS"

"Have used ACIDINE for indigestion and gas pains and find that it has no equal. It is classed alone. Nothing can compare with it," says John D. Gates, 203 E. Garfield Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Just another of thousands who are amazed at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 600 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, settles irritated stomach and intestinal upsets, belts and acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, nervousness, colds, gassy distress and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed or if not delighted, maker refunds money.

GIRL GETS HER ROBBER; SAVES TEAROOM CASH

A youthful robber was in jail last night and a loop restaurant was saved the contents of its cash register through the presence of mind of a young woman who shadowed the bandit and finally chased him into the arms of a policeman.

Foster Stubblefield, 23 years old, 6534 Ellis avenue, is the robber. He is a recent arrival from Tennessee. Yesterday afternoon he entered Miss Hasting's tea shop at 129 South Wabash avenue and pointed his gun at Miss Alice Ives, 5031 Dorchester avenue, the cashier, who surrendered $53.

As the bandit walked out Miss Mabel Houston, 23 years old, of Highland Park, a waitress in the tea room, slipped on her coat and walked out to pursue him. Down Wabash avenue she stalked him until he arrived at Adams street, where he broke into a run. Miss Houston quickened her pace. At State and Adams streets she called to Traffic Policeman J. J. Sheehan and the two ran after the fleeing man until he reached Monroe street. There Detective E. H. Steinway of the Fillmore street station, who was off duty and passing in his automobile, stepped out and seized the bandit.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HOME.

To Make 6-Day Test of TRINER'S BITTER WINE TONIC at Our Risk

Brings Amazing Benefit to Stubborn Cases by Reaching 4 Vital Points

AMAZING new facts reveal to many for the first time the true importance of the liver and gall bladder. Millions suffer much from these organs and don't realize it. Much biliousness, constipation, gas, bloating, burning sour stomach, pain after eating, nervousness and weak, rundown conditions are due to liver and gall as much as to stomach and bowels. Failure to get relief is often simply failure of medicine to reach all 4 vital points. Now 50,000 sufferers are invited to test Free a new medicinal discovery that acts like an internal bath—clears out congestion, tones and stimulates the whole internal tract by regulating at its 4 vital points.

In case after case men and women who suffered years—who tried dozens of remedies for chronic constipation, delicate stomach, severe pain and distress after eating, and other symptoms of stomach trouble—at last found grateful relief in Triner's Bitter Wine.

Why? Why was this 4-fold prescription of a famous physician able to accomplish this result for thousands of these stubborn cases that seemed so hopeless?

The answer is based on a new fact about the part that the liver and gall bladder play, revealed now to many for the first time.

Stomach, liver, bowels, and gall bladder are in direct connection. Doctors now find in searching examinations that millions suffer from congestion at three or four of these points in the internal chain.

New Plan to Condition Bowels

Usually they say in chronic constipation we find the liver and gall bladder sluggish. This is often the true cause of chronic constipation. Millions take purging laxatives which never reach these vital points.

On the other hand, Triner's Bitter Wine acts directly on all these points at once—gently stimulates, tones, works out accumulated poisons and tends to restore these three companion organs to smooth, regular working.

New Way to Treat Stomach Symptoms

The dizziness, dull headache, bilious feeling and general lack of vigor and strength that we often find along with weak digestion are often proof, says science, that liver and auto-intoxication are to blame. Surprisingly few people suffer from stomach alone. Congestion in the upper bowel and liver place a severe tax on the stomach and are often the direct cause of distress, bloating, gas, pain, acid and other symptoms of stomach trouble. It is folly then, doctors say, to dose the stomach and allow this congestion to go on.

How different you find Triner's Bitter Wine! Here you get medicines that warm the stomach, condition it, stimulate the flow of gastric juice, and aid complete digestion in a natural way. Then you get medicines that clear the bowels. Congestion is removed so that food does not stand in the stomach, sour and form a burning hard lump.

How Safe Natural Medicine Reaches All 4 Vital Points

Know the reason why Triner's Bitter Wine has so often ended years of wretched suffering and why it has restored so many sick, rundown, nervous people to health and brimming vitality.

3 Podophylin also increases flow of bile from gall bladder which lubricates and purifies intestines, prevents fermentation, acidity, gas, etc.

Got Quick Relief from Biliousness

"I have been able to purchase the Triner's Bitter Wine at Campbell Drug Co. of this city. I find it much better than pills or tablets, as a liquid seems to work better in my stomach. It acted quickly in relieving the conditions arising from biliousness and constipation. Dizziness, gas, flatulency and other symptoms yielded quickly to Triner's Bitter Wine. Very truly, C. F. Ingraham, Clinton, Ia., Dec. 1, 1930."

Stomach Sufferer Now Eats Full Meals

"I am not in the habit of observing anything that happens to please me, but I must thank you for Triner's Bitter Wine. I am a railroad fireman. For over a year I have been troubled with indigestion; everything I ate formed or seemed to form gas on my stomach, and believe me it was the most disagreeable feeling a person would care to experience, particularly while working. About three weeks ago I noticed an advertisement of your product and being skeptical, I bought only a small bottle, but from the first tablespoonful my stomach trouble was gone. Let me tell you it was like a reprieve to a condemned man. My bowels move now like clockwork and I eat what and when I please now, thanks to you. I seem to be at a loss for words to thank you in a proper way, but let me say thank you and believe me I am sincere. Very truly yours, Wallace A. Combs, Chicago, Ill. Dec. 2, 1930."

At Last a Complete Treatment

Podophylin, as leading doctors all agree, acts directly on the liver and indirectly on the gall bladder, promoting an active secretion of bile which bathes, soothes and lubricates the whole intestinal tract; brings regular free natural action. When you know these facts, why take medicines that do not aid in restoring intestines to natural condition? When you know or suspect that half of your stomach trouble is due to poisons accumulated elsewhere, why be satisfied with a mere stomach sedative? Why expect permanent relief from a temporary remedy?

Taken regularly, Triner's Bitter Wine acts like an internal bath. Cleans, tones, regulates and clears congestions—from the stomach down through the whole internal tract.

Note elsewhere on this page the scientific combination of medicines used to produce these results. Buckthorn, Malt, California Wine for the stomach and general tonic benefits. Podophylin to regulate liver and gall bladder. Cascara sagrada to train bowels to regularity. Iron of six vegetable juices to enrich and redden blood and build that youthful, brimming vitality that gives you all-day energy.

Help Is Offered—Why Not Accept?

Don't be a slave to gas, bloating stomach, agony and stubborn constipation for one more day without giving Triner's Bitter Wine a fair trial. If you are rundown, underweight, nervous—if you suffer from indigestion, liver trouble, biliousness or distress after eating, by all means make this amazing test. See how quickly Triner's Bitter Wine can bring grateful relief and build you up. Please note the special offer which we urge all sufferers to accept.

PLEASE ACCEPT FREE PROOF . . . 6-Day Test Costs Nothing if It Fails . . . .

Go to your druggist. Get a bottle of Triner's Bitter Wine. Two sizes, 50c and $1.25. Take as directed for 6 days. Then, if you are not delighted with the improvement—if your stomach is not sweeter—if your bowels are not trained—if you do not feel better in every way—return what's left to your druggist—and he will refund every penny that you paid. Start this amazing test today—absolutely at our risk! Know for yourself how much better you feel when clogging at these four danger points is removed.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dix Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frame-up by Owen White, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned was mortgaged except the home ranch, which Gram refused to sign. Chuck, Dix's young brother, was being sent to medical college, at great expense to Dix. Dix kept from Gram and Chuck the true state of affairs.

Dix rejects the idea given him by Mori McGuire, ranch helper, of changing the brand of the cattle from White's O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

INSTALLMENT III.

MATERIAL PROBLEMS.

Like a rustler's hideout. And it did not lessen the grim suggestion to know that a few miles over beyond that western rim a new kind of range pirate had been at work. New and up to date, he was. Like hunting antelope. You raise a flag and let it flutter in the wind, and then cache yourself behind a bush and wait till the antelope walk up to see what it's all about. Owen Gray must have had antelope hunting in mind when he hoisted that oil rig up on the bald prairie. He had made a killing, too. Dix ground his teeth together at the thought of it.

He opened the gate and let himself into the upper pasture. Nothing up there he wanted, but he had to keep going. Seemed like he couldn't stop without seeing those lines Mart had drawn in the sand. Never knew Mart to show a crooked streak before, as long as he had been with the outfit. And he sure had been there a long while. Dix didn't know just how long, but he knew Mart had taught him how to ride a horse and how to throw a rope, and that was as far back as he could remember. Mart had always been as straight as a string. And then to throw out that kind of a hint! It just went to show you how you can never tell what may be going on behind the eyebrows of a man, no matter how well you may think you know him.

"What I'd like to do right now," Dix told himself savagely, "is to take about a quart of moonshine and get plumb pie eyed." And yet, Dix had never been what is called a drinking man.

He returned to the house, walking rapidly as if he had some urgent duty to perform. But he hadn't. He was merely trying to walk away from his own thoughts. He went into his room and shut the door, pausing to listen to the sounds from the next room. Gram was stirring about, and a sudden terror of her shrewd and pitiless questioning seized Dix. To forestall that he pulled off his boots and clumped them down upon the braided rag rug beside his bed. Then, with a long drawn sigh of surrender, he sat himself down by the window and let his thoughts come trooping in as they would.

When he finally fell asleep toward morning he dreamed of rustling O T cattle and getting caught in the act, and of being tried and sent to the penitentiary. Poor old Gram, weeping over him when sentence was pronounced, was so real to him that when she called him to breakfast he wondered how her voice could sound so cheerful all at once. It took him several seconds to realize that he was free and that no charge of cattle stealing hung over his head.

"And there never will be one," he muttered, while he pulled on his boots. "A man never gets away with a thing like that." The fact that he was not in any such trouble as that so cheered Dix that he went whistling into the kitchen and surprised Gram with a hearty smack on her withered cheek, and he found he could look Mart straight in the eye and not feel like a secret accomplice in some crooked work.

Mart must have taken the hint. Not by a look or a word did he refer again to the O T outfit. They walked as casually in and out of the bunk house as though no incriminating marks had ever been made in the dirt beside the porch. Snow came, rain, mud, then freezing weather again. Time blurred the incident so thoroughly in Dix's mind that he did not even remember to be glad he was forgetting it.

Then one day in the middle of March, old Tom came jogging up on his fat pony from the mail box, with his coat buttoned to keep out the wind, and his two sleek braids of hair whipping against his bronzed cheeks. Hung to the saddle horn by its cotton draw string was the Larrabee mail bag containing a new seed catalog, the weekly Boomerang from Laramie, and two letters from Chuck, one filled with blarney for Gram and another which dealt solely with material problems. This, of course, was addressed to Dix, who slid it into his coat pocket until he was in his room with the door shut, where he could sit down at his desk and open the letter in privacy, because Chuck's letters to Dix were seldom showable to Gram.

Dix skimmed through the first few lines with his eyebrows pinched together, hurrying along to find out how much money Chuck wanted this time. He presently discovered that Chuck had skimped along without a car about as long as he could, simply because he hated to hit the old Coffeepots any harder than he had to. But it was a fact that a fellow afoot was socially several degrees less than nobody back there, to say nothing of the time he wasted getting places he had to go.

Now he had bumped into the chance of a lifetime. A fellow he knew had got into a jam where he had to let go of his car for whatever he could get out of it. It was a custom built job, and a man would be crazy to let a snap like that get away from him. Chuck had given this bird a check for all the money he had in the bank, and he had gum shoed around and found another man who had all the cars he could drive and would lend Chuck two thousand dollars on his note. So now Chuck was sporting around in the big car, if you please, and it had only stood him about twenty-eight hundred cash.

There was a good deal of mechanical blurb on the next page, but down near the bottom Chuck remembered to explain that the note would not fall due until November. He had explained to his benefactor that his brother might want to wait until after he had shipped some cattle before he paid the note, and the friend said that would be quite all right. He really was a good egg and had barrels of dough. His dad was a multi-millionaire.

So if Dix would just prod a few extra steers up the chutes when he made his first shipment next fall, Chuck would rustle a job of some kind back there next summer and meantime cut his expenses down to bare necessities and make up the price of the little old car inside a year. He certainly didn't want to be a drag on Dix, but if he were going to go through the mill and come out with that sheepskin he simply must keep up his end. He hoped Dix wouldn't think he was deliberately running the fat off the family bank roll. As a matter of fact, a man would be crazy to pass up such a bargain as he had put on the car. If Dix knew anything at all about the different makes he wouldn't need to be told what a pickup this was at the price. [Dix didn't, being devoted all of his mechanical knowledge to keeping his old car hitting on at least two cylinders all of the time and three or four when he gave it a lucky twist of the monkey wrench.] While he was on the subject, Chuck had to admit that this deal had left him flat broke. If Dix could spare him a few dollars—a hundred, or even fifty would do until the first of the month—Chuck would pinch them till the eagle squealed, and he would also be most grateful, Dix old man.

Dix old man" tossed the letter on top of a heap of bills for wire, harness and so forth, pushed his big hat farther back on his head and went to figuring. He was thirty-six, but he looked more than forty before he had finished with the stubs in his check book. Chuck would have been astounded at the meager balance Dix finally decided must be right, and knew that by hook or crook it would have to last until shipping time unless he could get another note at the bank. It was less than Chuck would expect to spend in the same length of time, Dix knew that.

Chuck would also have been aghast at the knowledge Dix was carrying in his brain, wrestling with it desperately day and night in the fringed region of his surface thoughts. The knowledge that he had sold himself short on that steers last fall when he was swept along in the fevered enthusiasm of the Grazpoint Oil propaganda. It was going to hustle him to find enough to pay the interest on the mortgage, to say nothing of wages, ranch upkeep and Chuck's school expenses. He'd have to run in some dry cows and, he called them—and that would be slow suicide because they wouldn't bring much and the calf crop next year would be short. He frowned savagely what Chuck expected off a thousand or so cattle, anyway.

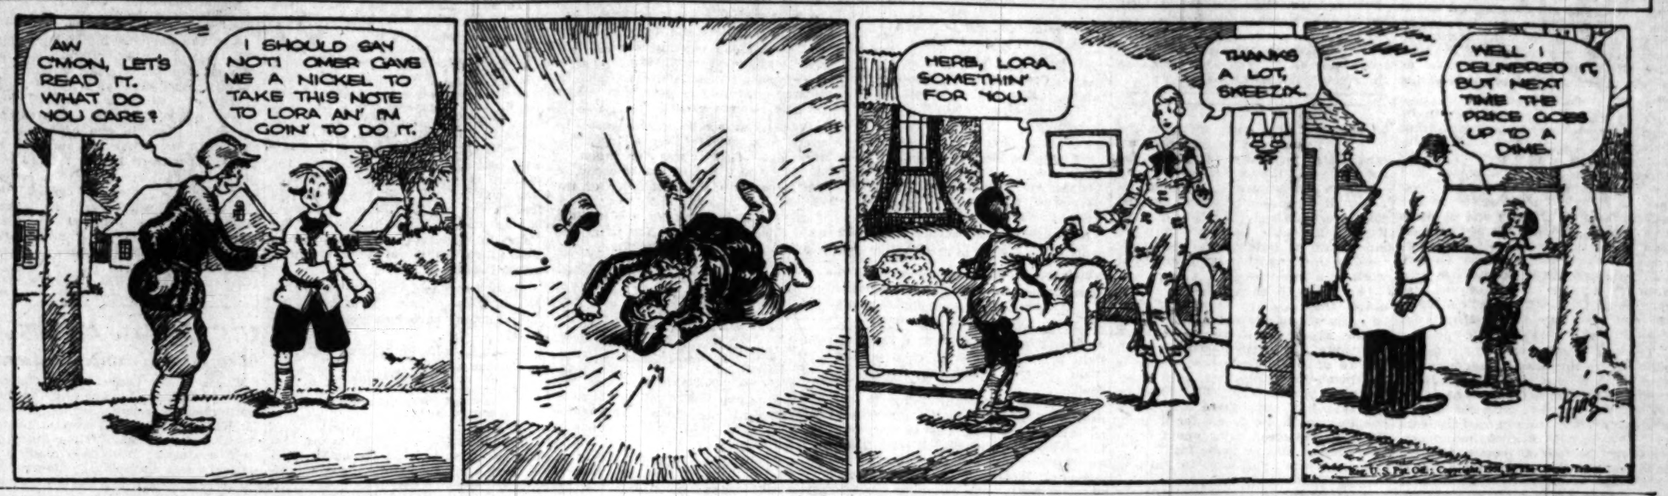
GASOLINE ALLEY—ONLY SLIGHTLY BEHIND SCHEDULE



Madame Lets Public Decide on Her Picture

Meanwhile She's Busy as Mrs. Maurice Chevalier.

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—M. and Mme. Maurice Chevalier showed on Broadway in a joint picture for the first time in the United States tonight. It was the first American appearance of madame. But she didn't go to the show.

Yvonne Valle, Mrs. Maurice's professional name, has never seen her one and only talking picture since she made it in Hollywood last year. She doesn't want to.

If New York likes the French version of "Le Petit Café," named "The Playboy of Paris" in the English version, Yvonne Chevalier may make more pictures here.

She doesn't much care, for being Mrs. Maurice Chevalier has become a sort of profession with her.

Formerly Maurice and Yvonne were dancing partners in Paris music halls. Then Maurice went into pictures and became interpreter to the rest of the world of French gayety and Parisian temperament.

One thing she has thought out to her satisfaction, she says, is that she doesn't want to be anything but just "Mrs. Chevalier." She wants to run a home and maybe adopt three or four babies.

Grandson of King Page at Military Wedding of Relative

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Four little boys, including the grandson of King George, wearing the uniform of Grenadier Guards officers, even to the tall bearskin hats, were pages today at the wedding of Miss Joan Verney and Gustavus Lascelles Hamilton-Russell of the Grenadier Guards.

The bride is the only daughter of Sir Harry and Lady Joan Verney. The bridegroom is the eldest son of Viscount Boyne and a nephew of the earl of Harewood, who is Princess Mary's husband. The bride's father has been private secretary to the queen since 1919 and her mother is one of the queen's ladies in waiting.

The king and queen presented the bride with a diamond and sapphire brooch, and Princess Mary and the earl of Harewood gave them a silver kettle. The wedding, at St. Margaret's church, was a brilliant society function.

The bridegroom is 26 years old and the bride 22.

As Titled Guests Frolic, American Style.

ROCKINGHAM, England, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The medieval walls and halls of Rockingham castle, which has known the gayety of kingly banquets, rang loud and long with modern merriment tonight.

For Victor Emanuel, American millionaire tenant, was throwing a party in the American manner—high, wide, and handsome.

The castle is 800 years old, having been built in the days of William the Conqueror. Kings and their favorites have feasted in its halls, but never had it seen such lavish display as tonight.

Five hundred guests attended, including the marchioness of Cambridge, sister-in-law of Queen Mary; the Earl and Countess Beatty, the earl of Sefton, Lord and Lady Burghley, Lord and Lady Ebrington, and Lord Borodale.

Emanuel and his pretty young wife, who are here for the hunting season every year, obtained tenancy of Rockingham castle about three years ago and have revived many of its past glories. They also have residences in Manhasset, N. Y., and in France.

The castle household staff consists of twenty men and women servants, but tonight was greatly augmented. The party ranged pretty well all over the castle in the way American parties have. But the main dance was in the great Elizabethan main hall.

In this hall are many armorial devices and the guests who looked upward during the whirling dance saw carved on the beams the following ancient inscription:

"This house shall be preserved and never decay,

$1,000,000 CHURCH WITH 15 MEMBERS WILL BE CONSECRATED

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 20.—(AP)—A church with property valued well over $1,000,000 and with only 15 members is to be consecrated during the convention of the South Florida Episcopal diocese beginning here today.

Bethea-by-the-Sea has as its rector the Right Rev. Nathaniel Seymount Thomas of Philadelphia, formerly bishop of Wyoming.

During the height of the season, the congregation each Sunday numbers nearly 1,000 persons. The edifice cost nearly $700,000 and is all paid for. It draws contributions from wealthy folk all over the nation.

The church is the outgrowth of a small one room building, erected in 1889. When winter visitors augmented the congregation, a new frame building was built. The present edifice was erected in 1927.

In the rear of the church are beautiful sunken gardens, the gift of Miss Nellie Cluett of Troy, N. Y. A fountain throws its spray 15 feet and feeds a lily pool. Flood lights illuminate the garden at night.

An outstanding event in connection with the convention will be the presentation of a play written by the late Mrs. Spencer Trask of New York. Sidney Homer, composer, has written a musical score and Mme. Homer will sing the rôle of the Virgin Mary. The play will be presented in the Cathedral Garth tomorrow night.

Blond People's Hearts Less Strong, Declares Doctor; Tells Tests

If you are a brunette you stand a better chance of evading heart disease than if you are a blonde. At least that is what medical research into the causes of heart disease indicates, according to Dr. Hugh McCulloch, St. Louis, associate editor of the American Heart Journal. He was the guest speaker last night at the annual meeting of the Chicago Heart association at the Chicago Woman's club.

"Certain kinds of fleas, climate, race, and color have much to do with rheumatic fever and heart disease," Dr. McCulloch said. "Research indicates that blondes are more subject to heart disease than brunettes, that the white races are more susceptible than the Mongolian and negroid races. This is due largely to climatic conditions.

"The most recent research on rheumatic fever has found that it is widespread in the human body and affects different ages in different localities. For instance, it strikes children in the heart and adults in the joints. After a child has once had an attack he has become sensitized and may become ill on any occasion."

Dr. McCulloch said that an English physician had lately advanced the theory that rheumatic fever, which is known to have a relation of heart disease, can be caused by the bite of a flea which has been living on a brown house rat.

In urging convalescent care for children suffering from heart disease Dr. McCulloch named the four symptoms of heart disease as fatigue, low fever, underweight, and recurring colds and other infections. The factors most important in governing the care of convalescent children are, he said, rest, sunlight, quiet, diet, and watching for recurring infection.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive director of the Chicago Heart association, in her 1930 report told how 4,875 patients were cared for in 17 heart disease clinics in nine Chicago dispensaries. Of this number 33.8 per cent were children and 44.7 per cent were new admissions. She, too, urged more convalescent care of heart patients, declaring that Chicago has a shortage of convalescent beds, there being fewer than 400.

"It is evident that the work of this association and the cardiac work in the community in general is improving," Mrs. Britton said. "An increasing number of doctors and laymen are actively interested in helping solve the heart disease problem."

ROME, Jan. 20.—[Special.]—During the last year the population of Italy increased by 515,000. This was the largest increase ever recorded, the previous high record being 406,000 during 1928. It is too early yet, however, to speak of the success of Premier Mussolini's campaign for increasing Italy's birth rate, since the abnormally high excess of births over deaths last year may be the result of that campaign, but it may also be due to fortuitous causes. The next few years will show.

Births during 1930 totaled 1,085,000 and deaths 570,000. The birth rate increased from 25.2 to 26 per thousand, and the death rate decreased from 16.1 to 13.7 per thousand, compared with the previous year. The net excess of births over deaths increased from 9.1 to 12.3 per thousand.

Budd Memorial Home Opened to Children as Measure of Relief

The opening of the Katherine Kreigh Budd Memorial home near Libertyville as an emergency relief home for destitute children and families was announced yesterday by the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago.

Bishop Stewart, as president of the board of trustees of that institution, stated it would be operated on emergency lines adopted by civic and state agencies of a similar nature.

More than 50 children have been admitted to the home, and Mrs. Helen Nixon of New York has been appointed superintendent. Several thousand dollars have been spent to put the Budd residence in condition for the children. A school will be opened there and a trained kindergarten teacher has been obtained.

Funds for the present emergency operation of the home are being provided by the Katherine Kreigh Budd Memorial corporation, established several years ago by Britton I. Budd, president of the North Shore Electric lines, as a memorial to his first wife.

Paris Saving Trees Along Its Streets; Auto Fumes Harmful

PARIS, Jan. 20.—[Special.]—To maintain its enviable position as the city with a larger number of shade trees than any other capital in the world, the municipal council of Paris has decided to replace every tree suffering from the ill effects of gasoline fumes and other harmful elements of the urban air.

There are at present 87,000 full grown trees lining the boulevards and avenues of this French metropolis, and nearly 1,500,000 francs will be spent this year alone substituting for those the hardier varieties of trees which have been able to withstand the hard life of the city.

An investigation by city experts has disclosed that the plane tree is best suited to the needs of a modern city and lives longer in the face of death dealing influences, which cause more sensitive trees to wither and die. The task of removing a double row full of green trees and replanting similarly developed plane trees has just been completed.

British Bishop Hails Radio as New Religious Stimulus

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20.—While the problem of Sunday opening of cinemas and other entertainments still is worrying various authorities, following a high court decision on its illegality, Church of England dignitaries announce a strong approval of Sunday broadcasting of church services.

THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent learns that the convocation of Canterbury decided to give its permanent blessing to radioed Sunday services. According to the Bishop of Ely, Dr. White-Thompson, chairman of the committee which has been examining the question for convocation, "broadcasting has caused renaissance of Christianity without parallel."

The radio brings religion to millions of homes which would otherwise be without, according to the views of the committee's report which is to be submitted at tomorrow's convocation at Westminster.

Bishop White-Thompson declared: "Wireless is completely transforming the national attitude towards spiritual affairs. The fear that broadcasting services will keep people from church has proved to be unfounded. On the other hand, they have increased the attendance."

Blow by Pacifists, Legion Leaders Say.

The recent approval by the United States house of representatives of the appropriations bill calling for reduction in the pay given to retired army officers while they are on active recruiting or school duty was denounced yesterday by American Legion officials as a definite blow at the Legion's policy of preparedness.

"If this appropriation bill also passes the senate and is approved by the President the staff of military instructors in the Chicago schools will be cut in half," said Maj. F. L. Beals, supervisor of military education. There are now six of these instructors, including Maj. Beals.

The per capita cost of instruction for students taking the officers' training courses is approximately only 27½ cents, Maj. Beals pointed out. He added that the only alternative to limiting the R. O. T. C. membership in Chicago schools would be the hiring by the board of education of additional athletic instructors to act as assistants to the reduced military staff.

Lawrence Fenlon, commander of the Cook county council of the American Legion, said: "The pacifists are evidently trying to accomplish indirectly what they failed to do directly when a bill recently failed of passage which would have resulted in the discontinuance of R. O. T. C. training courses in the schools altogether."

A. A. Pantelis, chairman of the Americanism committee of the Cook county council of the Legion, pointed out that last year's appropriation of $168,650 supported a staff of 111 teaching officers besides 29 who did recruiting work.

"The reduced appropriation would compel the resignation of 48 officers who have under them a total of 41,000 students in schools throughout the country," he said.

Mr. Pantelis has telegraphed to all of the senators and representatives from Illinois expressing the concern of the Legion members and explaining how an inadequate appropriation would cripple R. O. T. C. instruction throughout the country.

"Our experiences in 1917 should have shown us that we must be prepared," he said. "The pacifistic groups in Washington are showing their power in their potential ability to undermine American safety."

American Women Fatter, Designer of Dresses Says

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Auto riding, easy living and cocktail drinking increased the composite American woman's hip measure by two inches during the years of superprosperity. The authority for that is Herbert L. Kamber, executive manager and tape measure expert of one of New York's largest designing and manufacturing wholesale garment houses.

Spinach and grapefruit notwithstanding, Mr. Kamber said, American women are getting "hippier" and heavier. That's no secret in the garment trade, he averred.

"Sylphs don't diet," Mr. Kamber remarked drily. "And this talk about the improvement in American girls' figures is a myth."

Hebrew Union College Now Has $4,350,000 in Funds

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Hebrew Union college endowment fund campaign has reached $4,350,000, a report of Adolph S. Ochs, New York, chairman of the campaign, said in a report that was read today at the annual council of the Union of American Hebrew congregations.

The Hebrew Union college, founded in Cincinnati in 1875, is regarded as the oldest rabbinical seminary of reformed Judaism in America. The endowment fund was started four years ago by Mr. Ochs. He was unable to be present today and his report was read by Alfred M. Cohen, chairman of the board of governors of the union.

Cultivate a Hobby Against Those Days of Middle Life Blues

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The middle aged moth. of an only son whose popularity with girls marks him for an early matrimonial target is an object of pity unless she is one of the wise ones who knows a day of parting must come, and she is prepared for it. More than the mother of an only girl does she bestir our very human pity if she has focussed her all on the boy now grown to manhood and entitled to a life of his own.

Of course, there is criticism to be made against her for concentrating her every thought, desire and ambition on the sole male product of her marriage. In fact, on a recent date we read a violent attack made upon her by a noted neurologist for her selfishness of interest in and devotion to the boy. She was blamed for certain character casualties in the boy, some of which would, indeed, be difficult for a mother to believe her "devotion" capable of. However, that may be getting off the track a bit in the particular case that confronts us, this morning.

The son of "Florence U.," she admits, is growing away from her now that he is 20, and developing girl interest. She is in her middle forties, a widow who was left with the boy to support when he was but a few years old. It's the tale of a lifetime of personal sacrifice behind these abandoned mothers at middle life that makes their cases touching, whether the best of judgment was used or not. The unwanted, unneeded feeling that attacks them is hardly fair return for doing the best they know how.

And to pick up a new, life-filling interest at this age is easier advised than accomplished. Whether due for harsh judgment or not, we women are much akin in putting into the work we drift into, whether it's a maternal work or a business.

Perhaps we'll learn. But as it now stands there are any number of Florences caught in mid-channel and floundering about helplessly for a work substitute, for companionship, for a service of love. Their best metier is the home in which they have practiced for years. They, like Florence U., say: "If only there was some one to come home to me for a good, home cooked meal, some one I could care for and make a home for!"

Yes. Women will have to learn to be longer visioned.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Something to Be Expected.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend now seems to love my girl friend. I have not offended him. NANCY."

It is not unusual for such a thing to happen. Tastes change from time to time, when boys are young.

Meets Competition.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl, but there is another fellow who loves her, too. JOE."

Competition should make the game more interesting. You'll have to be on the alert; think and act fast.

Food Talk.

Such a food is the soufflé—beloved of chefs. Nothing adds such a touch of distinction to a meal as a feathery light soufflé, whether it be a savory main course soufflé or a dessert soufflé.

The most important thing to remember is not to beat the egg whites as stiff as possible, but to see that the mixture into which the egg whites are folded has just the right consistency. It should be rather thick, but not too thick. If it is too stiff it will lack delicateness, which is an essential quality of the soufflé. This stiffening material keeps the moisture and the air bubbles in the egg white evenly distributed. And when the air bubbles remain evenly distributed the soufflé will not only rise but it will be light and delicate in texture.

Flour is the usual thickening material used, but a nice variation results when tapioca is used. Tapioca gives a pleasing consistency and it is equally good used in either the dessert or main course soufflé.

A chicken soufflé accompanied by green vegetables makes a truly distinguished first course for lunch or dinner. And it is a luxurious economy, for it uses up the remainder of the chicken or turkey.

CHICKEN (OR TURKEY) SOUFFLE.

1 cup hot chicken stock, or 1 cup boiling water and 2 bouillon cubes (chicken flavor).
3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored.

Add the tapioca and salt to the milk and stock and cook in a double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Cool slightly. Add the chicken and egg yolks. Fold in egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water, bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 1 hour or until done. Serve at once with creamed peas or Bechamel sauce.

COFFEE SOUFFLE.

Dash of salt.
3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored.

Scald milk with coffee and strain immediately. Add the tapioca and salt and cook 15 minutes, or until the tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add sugar. Cool. Add egg yolks and fold in egg whites. Bake in greased baking dish, placed in pan of hot water in moderate oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) 60 minutes. Serve with custard sauce.

1-3 cup sugar.

Combine milk, egg yolks, sugar, and salt and cook in a double boiler until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Cool. Add vanilla. Chill. Fold in cream just before serving.

VANILLA SOUFFLE.

3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored.
2 teaspoons vanilla.

Add the tapioca and salt to milk and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Cool slightly. Add the sugar, butter, egg yolks, and vanilla. Fold in egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until done. Serve at once with fruit sauce or sweetened crushed berries and whipped cream. If desired, cream may be dropped in small mounds on waxed paper and chilled several hours in freezing tray of automatic refrigerator.

ACID after meals

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All druggists—in 25c and 50c bottles.

Opera Friends Hear Singers at Meeting

BY THALIA

MAYBE if our prominent men realized how great the distinction the ladies think to have them attend a function affair they'd be more willing to put in a social appearance between time. Three of them were present at the Friends of Opera meeting and luncheon at the Casino yesterday afternoon, which added greatly to the success of the occasion. They were Mr. Samuel Insull, Mr. Charles H. Swift, Meeker, Mr. Charles H. Swift, Mr. Insull down in front and took places in the opera box committee, and to have a good time, which was the best part of it, according to the contention. Mr. Insull, who never goes to the meetings unless to speak, stayed afterwards, chatting and getting lots of attention.

The program was a fine one. Coe Glade, Antonio Cortissoz, Sharnova, and Cesare Formichi sang, and the big room was packed with such a large crowd that the rooms had to be opened up. Everybody who didn't know everything who Mrs. Hubert Burnham was looked so gorgeous. She wore a most striking outfit of rose velvet, a sort of ensemble effect with a short shirred and fulled skirt that came right to the ground, a short jacket trimmed with chinchilla and a velvet turban.

Members of the opera box parties who were there were Mrs. Potter Palmer, who presided; Mrs. Wilhelm Mitchell, Mrs. Frederick Rathbone, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Chauncey More, Mrs. Holbrook Clarke, Mrs. Arthur Small, Miss Lucy Martin, Mrs. Vernon Herbst, and Mrs. Jacob Mrs. William J. Chalmers was also there, too, and Mrs. Harry Shearson, Mrs. Samuel Taylor, Mrs. William P. Hunt, Miss Marie Rozet, Miss Gilbert, Mrs. Clyde Day, Mrs. Harris, and Mrs. Marshall Blair.

About Those Going South; Also Mary Garden, etc.

Joining the southbound hegira are the Paul Walkers, the Robert Abrahams, the Orville Taylors, and Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Nicols, who are all going to Miami Beach together on Saturday for a stay of a fortnight or so. . . . the University club, which usually has something enlightening and scientific for its "ladies' night" is having Mary Garden for its speaker on the coming Friday night, causing a mild flurry of excitement among the membership . . . the extremely modern and smart textiles bearing the intriguing titles "Manhattan," "Coquette," "Play Boy," "Katinka," and "Aiken Drag," designed by Mrs. Reeves and on view at the International Exhibition of Metal Work and Textiles that opened yesterday noon at the Art institute, are a creation of Mrs. Howard Linn's Au Paradis . . . Mrs. John Irwin Marshall of Highland Park has returned from Florida for a few days and is a guest at the Palmer house before going back.

Topical——This business of including admittance cards with invitations to church weddings doesn't seem to be accomplishing a thing, because too many people know that you can't keep everyone out of church (at the Hutchinson-Ryan nuptials last Saturday the pews and extra chairs were all filled up) 45 minutes before the wedding procession started down the aisle, and many occupants weren't all on the invited list either) . . . Variety's front page "line" story last week was a humorous piece about the Chicago Junior league's children's plays, and the word SUMPin—the language used is one that in which the league's efforts are accustomed to be described, such expressions as "snooty cast," "swell shows," and the like being generously sprinkled in, but as far as theatrical acknowledgment goes, the distinction is great.

If You Crave Information; That's Offered Right Here.

In case you like to be well posted you should be apprised . . . that the Dekes had their annual banquet at the Blackstone last night . . . that Mrs. Victor C. Sanborn of Lake Forest is departing tonight for Seattle, Wash., to meet her daughter, Mrs. Mary Krum, and with her to motor to the coast and back to Chicago by a southern route, getting here the first part of February . . . that Erich Gerstenberg is giving a tea at her apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive this afternoon for the Wrights' theater interpretive committee . . . that Mrs. John Sears of the Ambassador is in New Orleans for two or three weeks.

Also . . . that Mrs. Charles Chadwick is leaving on Sunday for Palm Beach and that Mrs. Chadwick will join her later . . . that Mrs. Strozzi (Kay Strotz off the stage) in the movie "Capt. Applejack" is due to appear here soon (she takes the part that Mary Nash did in the stage play of the same name) . . . that C. K. G. Billingses have departed for Santa Barbara in their private car for their annual sojourn in Florida . . . that the Hobart Chatfield-Taylors had as house guests at their Mexico, Cal., residence Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Aspinwall of Pasadena. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart of Kenilworth have announced the engagement on Monday of their daughter, Marion, to James R. D. Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Stevenson of 560 Hawthorne place. Miss Eckhart was graduated last June from the University of Chicago.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Mrs. Cudahy McCormick has gone to Aiken, S. C., where she will spend the winter.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Stepping Along.

It was during the noon hour, and the assistant manager had gone to lunch. There were a few left in the office, but I had started to show them a few steps step I had learned the day before when I happened to hear the manager's voice remarking that he had just added the step and asking for a personal interview. You can imagine my embarrassment when I faced him and discovered the general manager.

MISS RUTH ANN KNOWLES.

Angelo Raffaelli Gets Tita Schipa's Promise for Vocal Training

Yesterday may have been just another day for other young men, but not for 18 year old Angelo Rafaelli, 1416 Clybourn avenue. Yesterday Angelo sang for Tito Schipa, Chicago Civic opera star, and the master singer found his voice good.

Angelo is a student at the Hoyne continuation school and showed such promise in his music course that his teacher arranged an audition with the opera singer. Yesterday the boy sang an aria from "Martha" while his teacher played. When he had finished Schipa told the boy:

"You have a fine lyric voice. It is undeveloped, of course, but it has a good quality. I will see that you get a good teacher here in Chicago."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover were guests tonight of the Congressional club at its annual reception. Dale, wife of a senator from Vermont, received the guests and presented them to the President and then to Mrs. Hoover.

Mrs. Leseur Richardson, granddaughter of the late Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, former speaker of the house of representatives, is spending a week in Atlantic City. After that she will return to the home of her aunt, Miss Helen Cannon, 1752 Massachusetts avenue. Mrs. Richardson will go to Paris in the spring, accompanied by her aunt.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

K. V.: USE ALCOHOL OR WITCH-hazel to remove an oily film. Wipe over the oily surfaces frequently. Or, use equal parts of witch-hazel and rose water. Besides removing the film, the astringent contracts the pore openings.

L. C. N.: WHETHER THE MOLE is harmless looking or not, take no chances. Consult a skin specialist about its removal. Moles may respond to electric needle treatment in expert hands.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

One of the light weight woolens will be just right for this sports model. Double rows of stitching on the bodice, sleeves, and skirt give an attractive tailored finish, and make all the trimming needed. The belt may be of the dress material or leather, just as you prefer. A tiny edging of bias pique would be chic slipped into the neck and sleeve cuffs. Tweed, wool crêpe, and flat crêpe are appropriate.

The pattern, 2916, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Coffee Pots, Fire Screens Now on Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A THOROUGHLY interesting exhibit is this which opened yesterday in the Hutchinson wing of the Art institute. It is the third international exhibition of metal work and cotton textiles assembled by the American Federation of Arts and by that organization set touring the country. It will stay in Chicago long enough for us all to acquaint ourselves with the latest ideas in fire screens, for instance, and draperies and coffee pots and tea urns.

The long hall at the bottom of the stairs leading from Gunsaulus hall has been transformed into a most delightful exhibition gallery. It is here that you will find a great deal of the silver and pewter ware and of the pottery and brass. Go to the far end which opens into the Japanese rooms and enjoy the clever manner in which this current exhibit has been arranged so that it runs smoothly into the oriental rooms. That great screen of brass etched with absurd but amusing rabbits and squirrels and birds has a distinctively Japanese flavor. Those cases, too, on either hand of the doorway fit marvelously into a color scheme that embraces Chinese horses from before Christ. See the one in tones of reddish brown and the other, work here chiefly from England, in a gold finish.

Superb as the effect is, we have not time to linger in this one corner long. A hundred other incidents attract us. Dueling pistols from Holland are on one hand and dueling swords on the other. Were these sent in a sarcastic mood or a threatening? More things of peace, however, are here than trappings of war. There are cups, trays, fruit bowls, candlesticks, a child's mug in silver, a severely plain clock in gold, a huge aeroplane trophy and, as we have said, numberless pots, sugars and creams for the correct dress of afternoon tea or coffee. On the walls in the decorative arts gallery the textiles have been hung and this difficult enterprise has been effected with the maximum of benefit to each drape.

A tea to the members of the Association of Arts and Industries will be an occasion this afternoon. There is a distinct connection between the society and the present exhibit. William Nelson Pelouze is the president of the association which has made possible the Art institute's school of industrial art, a school that is forging ahead under excellent instructors and with classes well filled with eager, interested students.

The exhibition will continue for some six weeks.

Whoopee Party in the Eighties from Lady's Viewpoint

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In an amusing story by Edith Olivier, which landed in my Christmas stocking, there is a female character whose day, habits, and state of health can only inspire hallelujahs that her kind is long since out of fashion.

When Maryanne, for such was her name, was 18 she decided that to be bedridden should be her rôle. That way people gave in to her because she was delicate. It wasn't expected that she would ever marry, but a captain hero, with a good fortune and a palace in Florence, succumbed to her delicate charms and made her his wife.

After some twenty odd years of married life Maryanne's "health had not appreciably improved, but her enjoyment of her illness had grown." She spent most of her time on the sofa, though she often went to parties in the evening.

The dressing preparation for an eighties' evening whoopee was what amused me. The maid was called at gettin gready time. Maryanne, after tending her only ablution, the washing of her hands in a little basin, arose from her invalid couch, shook herself free of the negligée of red velvet to reveal a yellow brocade evening dress with long yellow train.

Everything in the life of this woman in "The Triumphant Footman" [Viking] was arranged in order to avoid getting tired. One does not get really dirty lying all day upon the sofa, she argued. Beside, it tired her to wash too often, or too completely. It exhausted her to dress more than once a day, so she donned her evening clothes when she got up in the morning and "merely slipped off the outer skin when she prepared for dinner."

One gathers Maryanne was born around 1830, which serves our 1930 contrast well. We meet her getting ready for the aforementioned party at 55. Granted she is a fictional character she had near prototypes in real life among the privileged classes who could afford to spend the day enjoying ill health upon a sofa.

The nineteen thirty mature woman's party preparations would have caused poor Maryanne a year's swoon. A full day's work would be done, including a hairdressing job, a marcel, a manicure, and a massage, a bath and powdering before the dinner hour, and a thousand little personal details attended to.

Youngster Wants to Supervise the Neighbors' Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Short reading references for the prospective mother will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

One has to smile and sigh at the same time in reading this letter.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: What would you advise for this? There is a little girl eleven years old who comes twice each day to walk to school with my two girls, who are 6 and 5 years. All last year she did this, and now that school has started again she does so.

"No matter what the weather, she is here as early as possible, morning and noon, to accompany them. She doesn't rap or ring the bell—just walks in and follows me about, into the bathroom, into the bedrooms, leans on the children's chairs if they chance to be at the breakfast or luncheon table, advises me what clothing they should wear, informs me the baby is crying, that Sally did not wish her hands clean, that Sister is not eating properly, tells me the time, that the school bell has or has not rung, etc.

"Her mother is one of the nicest neighbors I have and I dislike to offend her, but I would do almost anything if only I might make the last minute preparations in peace and privacy. I have tried offering her a chair—she prefers to stand. I have tried supplying her with a book, or other amusement—she does not care for them. She wants to 'help,' and 'help' she does in spite of protests.

"I have three children too young to go to school, and the two previously mentioned, and we are too poor to have help in our home. My health is bad, I am extremely nervous, underweight and anemic. Do you think I am paying too much attention to an unimportant matter, or would I be justified, even at the risk of incurring her mother's dislike, in asking her to go to school alone, and let my children do the same?"

Since similar letters to this come to me I will print my reply:

"I was interested in your letter. I cannot tell from it whether your little friend is just the managing kind, or is crazy about children. In any case I should most certainly see that my morning is not hectic and worried by that young visitor. I'd frankly tell her when she comes up in the morning that you are getting the children ready for school and would rather have her not come in. Be firm and pleasant and not apologetic.

"In a few days start keeping her out of the house during the day, if she still persists in coming. Don't let your peace of mind and your nerves suffer because it is hard to forbid her the house.

"You could tell her mother, even though she is your very nice neighbor, that you want your children to be independent enough to go to school alone. Also, that you are tired and nervous, and are upset by confusion."

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA FROM MINNEAPOLIS PLAYS PROGRAM HERE

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Mr. Henri Verbrugghen and his Minneapolis Symphony orchestra came to Orchestra hall last night, exhibiting their orchestral wares.

The program opened with a bright arrangement of the Bach Prelude and Fugue, in C sharp minor, orchestrated by Verbrugghen. The orchestra showed to the best advantage however in the next two numbers, the Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Mozart, of Reger, made familiar here by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and a suite from Serge Prokofieff's lamented opera, "The Love for Three Oranges."

After rehearing this delightful music the word lamented is used advisedly. The suite is utterly charming. One regrets that the operatic scenery is reported scrapped, but retains the hope that Mr. Prokofieff some day will make a ballet arrangement, with the possible addition of off stage singing. The orchestra played it with a fine delicacy last night.

In the Reger one also observed this good sense of delicacy. This, however, told somewhat against them in the Brahms second symphony, wherein there also were a few wayward horns.

In choosing the classic foyer of Orchestra hall for her pianistic analogy of Debussy, the impressionist, and Scriabin, the mystic, Cara Verson provided the proper atmosphere. This pleasant hall is too little used, and too few pianists make as sympathetic approach to the works of these two composers as does Miss Verson.

PARIOGEN TABLETS

Lelong Uses Plaid Lame for Pajama Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Plaids are not content with having cornered Paris sports fashions. They are rapidly spreading, via plaid printed crêpes and chiffons, into the afternoon and evening mode. Pajamas, not to be outdone, are taking unto themselves stripes and checks, too. They do it in woolen for the beach, in cotton for the bed, in silk, satin, and brocades for tea, dinner, and evening.

Lucien Lelong uses gorgeous lamé in a superplaid pattern for the trousers of the hostess pajama ensemble sketched here. Gold and silver stripes and circles on a moss-rose ground suggest a glorified tartan that would lend a demure, Highland Mary grace to a slender blonde girl. These wide trousers are made in six wide box plaits that are stitched to a little below the knees and there left free.

BETTY WALES LEASES BOUL MICH BUILDING

Will Pay $400,000 Rent for 20 Year Term.

BY AL CHASE.

North Michigan avenue stepped forward yesterday with one of the most significant and interesting leases in some time. Betty Wales Dress Shops, Inc., now at 67 East Madison street and 4601 Sheridan road, and with a store in New York City, have leased the entire four story building at 172 North Michigan avenue for twenty years at a net term rental of $400,000, or an average of $20,000 annually. The building formerly was occupied by the National Cash Register company, and is just north of the Federal Life building.

The 24x125 property is owned by Charles C. Walker of Boston. The lease was negotiated by Albert H. Wetten & Co. In addition to the rental figure already mentioned, the lessee will pay all taxes and assessments and will operate and maintain the building.

Plans $100,000 Improvements.

According to present estimates considerably more than $100,000 will be expended on the property. A new front will be built throughout the entire building of black and white marble, with all outside metal work satin finish cast aluminum in modern design. In the paneling in the interior, satinwood, mahogany, ebony and other rare woods will be used. Mundie & Jensen, Chicago architects, will represent the owner, and the Michigan Store Fixture company of Detroit, the lessee, in the design of the new store, which, it is claimed, will be one of the most attractive in the country.

David Baer, president of the Betty Wales Dress Shops, Inc., states that since the opening of their first store in Chicago in 1919, their business has enjoyed a steady growth until today the quarters at 67 East Madison street, where they have been for the last eleven years, has become entirely too small. The lease on the Madison street shop expires April 30.

To Be Ready in March.

It is estimated that the new Michigan boulevard establishment will be ready for occupancy early in March. Yesterday's lease was made to Baer Bros. Co., Inc., a New York corporation, which does business as the Betty Wales Dress Shops. The lease starts Jan. 15, 1931, and runs for twenty years, three months and sixteen days.

The Harriett Amusement company, which has been operating the Milford theater at 3311 North Crawford avenue for the last four years, yesterday renewed its lease for ten years at a rental of $12,600 annually for five years and $13,500 for the balance of the term, according to the county records yesterday. Esther, Minnie, Virginia, and Rebecca Homer are the lessors. The playhouse seats in the neighborhood of 1,000.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Credited with Cutting Cost by Millions.

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Dr. Richard Bishop Moore, pioneer advocate of the use of helium in airships and radium research worker, died of pneumonia today at the age of 59.

When he began his campaign for development of a helium supply in the United States and its use in airships, there was only about fifteen cubic feet of helium in the world. This was before the world war. The helium was valued at $1,500 a cubic foot, and at that price it would have cost $3,000,000 to inflate a dirigible of modern size.

When the United States entered the war Dr. Moore launched his idea of developing helium in quantities. He took before a committee of congress two balloons, one inflated with hydrogen gas and the other with helium. He set a match to each of them and showed the congressmen grouped on a nearby hill, the danger of one gas and the safety of the other.

Three experimental plants for development of helium were erected in Texas at his suggestion and production of the gas was started in quantity.

He was dean of the college of chemistry at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind. He is survived by his widow, the former Georgia Elizabeth Dowel of Dallas, Tex.

SIFT KILLING OF MAN BY SLAIN GIRL'S FATHER

Beaumont, Tex., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Jefferson county grand jury set itself today to investigate the killing of Otis Lee Adams, 22, by A. B. Johnson 20 days following the fatal shooting of the slayer's 16 year old daughter, Elizabeth.

Johnson had returned to Port Arthur under bonds and was not expected to appear.

Sheriff W. W. Covington said Johnson told him he had a "good reason" for the slaying in that he considered Adams "responsible for my daughter's death."

Johnson's daughter died Dec. 28 from a bullet wound inflicted as she sat in a motor car before a Port Arthur church. Robert Williams, sophomore in Texas university, who had left her while he went to ask the pastor to intercede in a quarrel the couple had, was freed by a grand jury. Police related he said he believed Adams was the cause of the estrangement.

DIAMOND BELT TO GO TO WINNER OF BERG-HESS FIGHT

Meet in Title Battle at Stadium Friday.

The National Boxing association will present a diamond belt to the winner of the battle for the junior welterweight championship at the Stadium Friday night between Champion Jack Kid Berg and Goldie Hess. The announcement was made yesterday by Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A.

The award is the first which the N. B. A. will present to the champions it sanctions. It will be the permanent property of the winner Friday night. Whenever a challenger defeats a champion he will be furnished with a new belt.

Shea Comes Back.

Eddie Shea is making a determined effort to regain the fans of his own city. He meets Bat Battalino, featherweight champion, in the semi-windup Friday. In his last big time appearance in Chicago he lost to Earl Mastro, and then like the prophet without honor in his own country, went before strangers to redeem his ring standing. The big moment in his travels came when he whipped Fidel La Barba.

Shea drilled yesterday against Lou Vine and Benny Duke, lightweights. He will continue to perform against heavier men, since the lighter group of boys has become discouraged by his insistence they stand and take his pummeling.

Battalino cannot lose his title to Shea, for the bout is overweight, but, what is almost as important, he can lose his recently acquired reputation as a real champion if Shea whips him. Consequently, Bat is working diligently. Since both use the same style of attack the bout probably will be a bit difficult for Battalino.

Fans Remember Berg.

Those who remember 'way back when, which in this case is less than three years, are cheering the daily training stunts of Kid Berg. The English Hebrew did more than his share of work in Chicago rings at that time, and his bouts, particularly those with Billy Petrolle, have enlisted a corps of loyal rooters. While Hess is aces and all with the folks on the Pacific coast, and it is rumored he was quite impressive against Canzoneri in his one big chance in the east, Chicago is waiting to be shown.

Hess will arrive this morning and begin training at the Loop gymnasium.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Fort Wayne won again from Chicago in an American league basketball game here tonight by a score of 22 to 15. Husta's basket shooting and a good defense by the Hoosiers in the second half decided the contest.

Husta made five long shots. The Bruins failed to make a field goal in the second period. Chadwick, Miller, and Kennedy went out on fouls. Chicago led at the half, 13 to 12. Score:

Miller,lg	1	1	3

Referee—Salador.

The Bruins will battle Fort Wayne tonight at the Broadway armory. The match will have a lot to do toward deciding first place and may prove the turning point in the race as far as the locals are concerned.

A game between the Golan A. C. and the Redeemer five will open the card at 8 o'clock. The latter team is made up of six footers so the Golans will have plenty of opposition. The Redeemers are present Church A. A. champion.

Boxing Board Suspends McFarland for 30 Days

Mickey McFarland, who fouled Gary Leach in the fourth round of their bout at the Stadium last Wednesday night, was suspended for thirty days yesterday by the Illinois athletic commission. In accordance with the Illinois rules McFarland was given $25 for five days' training and the remainder of his $650 purse was forfeited.

Horace Mann Prep Five Beats Washington, 18-16

MAINE TANKMEN WIN.

Maine township swimmers, victors in the recent county interscholastic tourney, defeated Englewood in a dual meet in the latter's pool yesterday, 37 to 27. Gesserts of Englewood set a new home tank track records of 1:09.

commission," Mr. Morris said. "I am a working man and the commission could place me on the blacklist and bar me from all the fight clubs for holding a fighter in my lap during a contest. I must say, however, that Heeney's remarks to me were not of a suspicious character.

Asks Personal Questions.

"As Heeney landed in my lap he merely inquired, 'Is this the New York Times?' I said, 'No; you are on the wrong side of the ring. That is the New York Times over there in the yellow cap.' He then asked me if I ever got any extra passes for the hockey matches, and as he seemed to be trying to prolong the conversation I felt for my watch, which was still safe in my shoe, and said I was sorry but I had some letters to write. Dempsey then came along looking for Heeney and I yelled, 'Here he is, Jack,' and shoved Heeney back into the ring."

The commissioners considered a plan to construct a set of dashboards such as are used in polo and hockey to surround the ring and keep the fighters in. However, Primo Carnera is about to be reinstated here, and as his opponents are practically all high divers who clear the top ropes with ease, the futility of this idea was at once apparent.

Enlarge Outside Platform.

Finally, as a slight aid in keeping the pugilists on the platform, it was decided to enlarge the platform by a dimension of two feet outside the ropes, as the margin is now 18 inches wide. This increase and a few more from time to time will make the ring larger outside the ropes than within, and set the ringside customers back to the bleachers location.

There was no reprimand for Mr. Dempsey, notwithstanding the conclusion that he should have improvised his own rules to cover the situation. Mr. Donovan, on his part, still insisted that his mathematics in the Heeney fight were correct.

"I can go to any bank in town, if there are any banks still open in this town, and get two fives for a ten, or eight singles and a deuce for a ten," he said. "Bankers are no dummies, and if my arithmetic is good enough for them it is good enough for anybody."

Wild Pheasant Is Hard Boiled Bird, Bob Says

BY BOB BECKER.

If food for the pheasants gets scarce this winter and forces the birds closer and closer to farmyards to pick up a meal, then a miscellaneous assortment of arrogant roosters from Wyandottes to Plymouth Rocks may have some fights on their hands.

According to the reports which have reached us over a period of years a hungry cock pheasant that wants to fill his crop with grain in a barnyard is more than a match for a domesticated rooster. The gay colored stranger with the pretty feathers may look like a dude but he can pack a real punch, according to the farmers who have written us of how they saw their roosters whipped by the wild pheasants.

Bob Hasn't Seen Fight.

So far we never have had the pleasure of watching a wild cock pheasant invade a barnyard and scrap with a big rooster. But it doesn't require much imagination to picture the encounter. The hardy ring necks are extremely pugnacious and they are said to be mighty fast in dealing knockout punches with their spurs.

This scrappy disposition is one of the reasons why the pheasant has been condemned by many observers. For many years the anti-pheasant boys have been charging that the ringnecks have been tearing into the prairie chickens and the quail and driving them out of their home country.

Whatever the truth may be in this controversy, the fact remains that the great majority of sportsmen had better stick close to the ringneck in plans for increasing game birds. He can live when our quail and prairie chickens cannot make a successful fight for existence. He is tough, can run like a greyhound, knows how to use his head, will live wherever there's enough weeds or other cover to give him a good break and doesn't care whether the soil is cultivated or not.

Plowing Reduces Number.

It's this last point which is wiping out the prairie chickens. They do not seem able to maintain their numbers when the plows begin to turn over great tracts of prairie land. Here in Illinois where we used to have prairie chickens by the thousands, there is just a remnant of those great flocks that formerly were found in the state.

The bird should be taken off the game bird list and protected. This move would not be made with the idea that the prairie chicken might increase its numbers to the point where they could be hunted again. We doubt if this situation ever will prevail again in Illinois.

But we should put the prairie chicken on the closed list to see how long we can keep it. And meantime, we'll have to consider the pugnacious, hard boiled pheasant as the upland game bird which will take the prairie chicken's place.

"INSANITARY METHODS In Cigar Making Are Indecent"

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

HEALTH OFFICER

June 10th, 1930

American Cigar Company,

New York City.

Dear Sirs:

As a public health officer, I cannot help but recognize the fact that your campaign to eliminate the evils resulting from promiscuous spitting and the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable and in line with the health work done by my own department.

I see that you call it a "Crusade of Decency". Certainly insanitary methods in cigar making are indecent. An advertising campaign like yours, which exposes such indecency and points the way to the cleansing of your industry, deserves the support of my department.

While I express no preference for your cigar over any other, I am pleased to inform you that I do endorse your campaign to show the public the advantages of avoiding insanitary practices. You are free to publish that fact or, if you wish, to publish this letter over my signature.

Very truly yours,
Carl T. Pomeroy

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Health Officer Pomeroy's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

MEDILL CAGERS HAND McKINLEY DOUBLE DEFEAT

Heavies Win, 24 to 19; Lights, 22 to 15.

Medill's basketball teams, lightly regarded in the west section of the City league, demonstrated that they may be heard from before the schedule terminates by invading McKinley's court for a double victory yesterday, the heavies winning, 24 to 19, and the lights, 22 to 15. It was the heavies' first victory in five games and the lights' second out of the same number.

Both Medill teams staged last quarter rallies for their victories. MOON MULLINS—PASSING THE GOOD WORD ALONG

Bruins Lengthen Lead by Beating Senators, 4 to 2

Boston, Mass., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins added to their lead in the National Hockey league race here tonight, defeating the Ottawa Senators, 4 to 2.

It was an even contest until about midway through the second period when Hal Darragh, Boston forward, slashed an assist from Eddie Shore into the Senators' net, breaking a 2 to 2 tie. Cooney Weiland, midget cent, scored twice and the second tally, made early in the final session, ended the scoring.

Shore opened the scoring before the game was two minutes old with one of his sensational rink length rushes. He netted the puck unassisted. Bill Touhey squared this on a pass from Hec Kilrea late in the session. Frank Finnigan netted the other Ottawa score in the second period. The game attracted about 12,000 spectators.

FALCONS WIN, 5 TO 2.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Philadelphia's National Hockey league cellar squad dropped another game tonight, the Detroit Falcons trouncing them, 5 to 2, in a game full of high and low spots. The Falcons had little trouble in piling up a five goal lead in the first two periods before they relaxed, and the Quakers fought their way through the Detroit defense for two goals, one late in the second period and the other two minutes before play ended.

Ebbie Goodfellow, Falcon scoring ace, boosted his scoring total by two goals, and Cooper, McInenly and Filmore each scored. The Quaker goals came off the sticks of Jerry Lowrey and Peaches Lyon. Lineup and summary:

The defeat dropped the Rangers into a tie with the Detroit Falcons for third place in the American division.

With more than half the ten minute overtime period gone, Rivers worked his way through the tired Ranger defense and got a backward shot past Goalie John Roach. All three of the Canadien counters came on individual plays, Pete Lepine and Aurel Joliat scoring in the first period. Lineup:

RIDING CLUB AND NORTH SHORE IN TITLE POLO DUEL

The North Shore Polo club and the Chicago Riding club will clash in the finals of the 124th field artillery invitation tourney tonight at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Play for third place will be between the 124th and 122d field artillery teams.

The riding club team, captained by Maj. Frank Bering, has made a great shewing so far, beating the Remount association trio, 12 to 5, and the 124th, 6 to 3½. James A. Hannah, Kenneth Fitzpatrick and Maj. Bering make up the team.

Shamrocks to Face Hornets' Team Tonight

The Shamrocks, second place occupants in the American Hockey league, will resume work tonight at the Stadium with the idea of keeping out of the third notch. To avoid taking this tumble they will be forced to outcount the Duluth Hornets, who thus far in the current season have stung the Shamrocks most effectively.

CORBETT DENNENAY.

The two teams have played five games. Three of these were taken by the lads from the Gopher state and one meeting was a deadlock. All of the decisions were reached by a one goal margin, indicating that there is no marked difference in the strength of the two sextets.

Riley to Start at Center.

The Shamrocks' defense, weakened by the loss of Bouncer Taylor, will be bolstered as the result of a trade made last night returning George Burland to Chicago in exchange for Tip O'Neill, forward.

Burland went to Minneapolis recently with Stan Fuller in a deal which brought Jack Riley, Miller center, to the Shamrocks. O'Neill has been with the St. Louis Fliers since the first of the season on an optional agreement which expired yesterday. Learning that O'Neill would revert to the Shamrocks, the Millers offered Burland in exchange.

Shamrocks Improve Passing.

Although their mechanics were not exactly of a finished variety in their last three home games, the Shamrocks displayed a marked improvement in their last battle, the scene of which was Tulsa. Their passing in that affair was of a high brand and Red McCusker's activity in front of the net was the only thing that saved the Oilers from a thorough drubbing. This same excellent passing was noticeable when the Shamrocks worked out yesterday on the Stadium ice, but whether it will be equally smooth against the Hornets this evening is another matter.

Pewee Wiseman will not be among those participating in tonight's melee, but Corbett Dennenay was back on the ice yesterday so will be available. He will be at right wing on the combination which includes McFayden and Clayton. The latter developed into an unexpected sensation in the recent meeting at Tulsa.

SPARES.

The Blackhawks will scrimmage on the Stadium ice this afternoon in their final rehearsal for the Philadelphia Quakers, who will call around tomorrow night with hopes of stopping the Hawks' winning streak, which now totals five straight.

ZAHARRIS AND KWARIANI WILL CLASH MONDAY

Zaharris, like his more famous countryman, Jim Londos, has been enjoying a successful season in Chicago. George is the biggest Greek wrestler in the history of the game and is a vicious performer. He is meeting the same type in Kwariani.

The youthful Greek won his chance to meet Kwariani because of his fine showing against Hans Steinke Monday night. Zaharris held the highly touted Steinke to a draw in a time limit match.

Promoter Krone has signed Fred Grobmier of Iowa for the semi-final match, but has not yet secured an opponent for him.

Wilson Packers to Meet Duffy Floral Five Friday

The Wilson Packers, Central A. A. U. basketball champions of last year, will play the Duffy Florals Friday night at White City. A preliminary game will be played by the Boys Brotherhood Republic and the O'Donnell-Eddy post, American Legion champs.

MARSHALL FIELD TO SHOW AROUND $4,600,000 NET

Expect Dividend Rate Will Be Maintained.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The annual report of Marshall Field & Co., which will be issued about March 1, will show net profit of $4,600,000 after interest and charges, as compared with $9,300,000 in 1929.

After dividends on the preferred stock, it is estimated, the 1930 profit is equivalent to $1.72 a share on the 1,400,000 shares of common stock outstanding, as compared with $5.02 a share in the preceding year.

Despite the sharp reductions in earnings, it is stated that the dividend on the common stock probably will be maintained at the present rate of $2.50 yearly. In 1930 the company paid dividends of $1.87½ a share on the common in three quarterly installments the first of which was made June 1. The stock was brought out in February. The issue has been under pressure on the Chicago exchange recently and closed yesterday at 24, within a point of its record low quotation.

Has $16,500,000 in Cash.

The company had cash of $16,500,000 on Dec. 31, the close of its fiscal year, after giving effect to the retirement of $4,700,000 in senior securities, including debentures and preferred stock of subsidiaries. The working capital ratio was 9 to 1 and the company had no outstanding obligations except those in the current account.

A heavy reduction in inventories was effected by the company in 1930. At the close of the year inventories stood at $33,000,000, as compared with $42,000,000 at the close of 1929. The $33,000,000 includes the inventories of the Oak Park and Evanston branches, which were not in operation in the preceding fiscal year. Inventories were figured at cost or market, whichever, is lower, and included ample reserves, it was stated.

Stock Prices Buoyant.

The weakness in Marshall Field stock yesterday was attributed to a rumored dividend reduction. Elsewhere in the list prices were buoyant and the majority of leading stocks closed the day with moderate net gains.

Utility issues as a group shows strength. Insull Utility gained 2 points or so and Middle West and Cities Service scored smaller gains. Bendix and Borg Warner were in good demand at higher prices.

Art Metal Works was bid up a point on the news that the company has resumed dividends on the stock. A dividend of 15 cents was declared on the common, as compared with last previous dividend of 25 cents, which was paid in August last year.

Campbell, Wyant & Cannon Foundry company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25c per share. D. J. Campbell, president, said preliminary figures for the year ended Dec. 31 indicate net profit of $1.50 per share, against $3.67 for 1929. The company's current position is better than 6½ to 1, cash and call loans amounting to $500,000, with total liabilities of approximately $230,000.

BUSINESS DATA BACKS UP VIEWS OF J. A. FARRELL

General Trade and Steel Rise Seen.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It would appear that James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, is a good prophet. Following his statement in Chicago on Monday that business and industry are on the upgrade, there were supporting data yesterday showing another step-up in steel production and a stronger tone in general trade.

According to the estimates, United States Steel this week is operating at 41 per cent of theoretical capacity, compared with 44 per cent a week ago and 42 per cent two weeks ago.

Independent steel concerns now are working at 42 per cent, compared with 37 per cent last week and 32 per cent a fortnight ago. Thus, the whole industry has moved up to better than 44½ per cent, compared with 40 per cent last week and 37 per cent two weeks ago.

Chicago Activity.

The number of active blast furnaces in the Chicago district has been increased to thirteen with the blowing in of a furnace by the Illinois Steel company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, at its South Chicago works. There are thirty-six blast furnaces in the district.

"Steel making operations continue to increase slowly," the Daily Metal Trade says, "but expansion is being kept in step with consuming demand. Specifications on contracts placed prior to Jan. 1 are coming out more freely."

A seasonal expansion in the movement of commodities by the railroads is shown in the weekly report of the American Railway association. Revenue freight loadings for the week ended Jan. 10 totaled 714,251 cars, a gain of 98,869 cars over the preceding week, which contained New Year's day. This is about the usual seasonal increase. The current total, however, is 148,210 cars below the corresponding week in 1930, with the largest declines occurring in miscellaneous freight, merchandise, coal, and forest products.

The weekly estimates on petroleum production again are at variance. It would seem that one of the troubles of the industry is difficulty in collecting reliable data on which to base measures to restrict production.

The daily average gross crude oil production last week is placed at 2,894,000 barrels by the American Petroleum institute. This would mark an increase of 9,100 barrels a day over the preceding week. On the other hand, the Oil and Gas Journal estimates the output at 2,080,247 barrels a day, or a decline of 763 barrels a day from the previous week.

Refiners Boost Operations.

Refiners increased their takings of crude oil last week and operated at 62.1 per cent of capacity, compared with 60.1 per cent in the previous week, according to the American Petroleum institute. Gasoline stocks increased 801,000 barrels to a total of 40,384,000 barrels, while gas and fuel oil stocks declined 780,000 barrels to a total of 133,728,000 barrels.

Proration of production of crude oil has taken leadership in the industry away from Oklahoma, says the Sinclair Reflector, published by the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation. While approving proration in principle, the Sinclair company says that in practice it has worked a hardship to that state.

"One reason for this is that this state was the pioneer in proration," says the Reflector. "Its law on the subject was being rigidly enforced while other states were merely talking about restriction. As other states increased production and foreign imports mounted Oklahoma was forced backward."

Cites Previous Attempts to Evade Economic Laws

BY SCRUTATOR.

Legislation that we see moving along today under the label of progressivism is new only in its surroundings. The principles of it extend back perhaps thousands of years; certainly there are direct records of similar attempts to evade economic laws by legal pronouncement as far back as the Tudor sovereigns of England, and even for a hundred years before them.

Nowadays there is a constant complaint from here and there that the middleman, particularly in agricultural products, should be eliminated. In 1330, more than 700 years ago, the English parliament passed a law regulating the wine trade on the ground that there were too many vintners and that these were taking a toll in money and poor quality of product.

Ban Wine "Forestallers."

In 1353 there was a harsher law passed to do away with "forestallers" in the wine business. A forestaller was one who went to the site of production and purchased the goods before they reached the marts of trade as they existed then. It appears, from the history of William Cunningham, "The Growth of English Industry and Commerce," that there was at the time something like future sales of wine. The forestallers bought the wine from the growers before their grapes were harvested.

The political economy of the time was unable to see how these middlemen added anything to the value of wine. The same was true of fish, as the city of Yarmouth about 1861 had a law preventing the buying of fish by speculators and the resale in the local market. Direct from producer or fisherman to the consumer was the program. But Yarmouth, at the end of four years, found that the fish market was more unsatisfactory without forestallers than with them, and they were reinstated.

Modify Law.

In the time of Henry VIII. a statute was passed to force out of business the regrators of yarn. A regrator was another kind of middleman, apparently a little less odious than the forestaller in that he purchased his supplies in the open market to resell on a retail basis.

It was felt that the regrators were taking too much of the English wool crop and selling it to clothmakers abroad. But when they were out it was found that great numbers of English spinners of yarn, who had been accustomed to buy a shilling's worth of raw material at a time from these middlemen, had no organization to take their place in distribution and the law was modified.

We may believe that displacement of labor by machinery is a modern phenomenon. But in 1376 the cap makers in merrie England found that some of their workers were using water mills and thus displacing hand labor. Argument failed to make the public quit buying water mill caps and in 1483 the parliament had to pass a law preventing the use of machinery. A century and a half or more after that the cap business again fell on evil days. So Queen Elizabeth had passed a law requiring every person in the kingdom more than 6 years old to wear a knitted cap of English manufacture on every Sunday and holiday.

Wage Laws Unsuccessful.

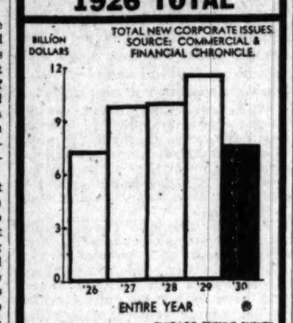
Laws fixing wages at the 1347 level were passed in 1349. The object was to make labor take less than the economic price. This was not successful and enforcement for a time built up a fine crop of revolutionaries. Elizabeth's statute of apprentices in 1563 permitted justices of the peace to fix wages locally each year, binding employers and employés to accept the terms. No practical success attended it and the law remained a dead letter on the English books until about 1825, when it was repealed.

Instances might be multiplied. Here it will only be pointed out that forestallers and regraters are doing business still and legislators are still harassing them. Men still complain that machinery is increasing unemployment, or actually making it. Producers, like the old-time cap makers, are asking government to create markets for them. Conditions change, men remain about the same, and it's all old stuff.

Believe U.S. Will Co-operate on World Bank's Gold Plan

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—American coöperation in the efforts of the bank for international settlements solve the gold problem was said informally today to be assured. State department officials said the United States would be willing to coöperate in a plan to expedite transfers of gold for purposes of economy. Detailed report from the American consulate at Basel is awaited before any definite plan which would indicate the attitude of the United States can be formulated.

NEW SECURITY ISSUES DECLINED IN 1930 BUT EQUALLED 1926 TOTAL



PROBE TURNS TOWARD RESERVE CREDIT CURB IN SPECULATIVE USES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The senate's banking investigation reached out today to embrace possible changes in the law to prevent the use of federal reserve bank credit for stock speculation.

George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, and Chairman Glass of the committee conducting the inquiry agreed the intent of the framers of the act was to keep federal reserve funds as far removed from stock speculation as possible.

Harrison said this was being done, but Glass was not convinced and expressed the hope that reserve bank credit for stock market gambling could be controlled by charging higher rates for such loans.

Harrison disagreed, saying he believed it was "impossible to make money cheap for business and expensive for speculation," as the "credit pool is too big for any group to dictate the rate for different classes." He added any effort to control expansion of credit for speculation would be "prejudiced by the fact that loans can be made for speculation outside the national banking system."

He said the present law does not authorize a federal reserve bank to inquire of a member seeking a loan the purpose for which it is to be used and doubted the wisdom of such a provision.

Discussing bank failures, Harrison said the "abuse of the privileges provided by law" rather than direct violations had caused most of the 6,000 closings in the last ten years.

Balaban Asserts Theater Business Holds Up Well

The purse strings of John Public's pocket book are not drawn as tightly as some persons have imagined if the current attendance at the cinema theaters can be interpreted as an index of general spending. Business of the leading theaters in the Chicago area is holding its own with a year ago and in some instances box office records are being broken.

Business for the first two weeks of 1931 of the Balaban & Katz theaters, dominant group in this area, is on a par with last year and even during December when the stock market and public confidence struck new lows the attendance records equaled those of the corresponding month of 1929.

Chicago Profit Increases.

Barney Balaban, secretary and treasurer of the Balaban & Katz corporation, said yesterday that profits of the company in the Chicago district during 1930 were slightly in excess of the preceding year. Because of capital expenditures of subsidiaries operating outside Chicago the annual report which will be published soon will show a small decline in total net earnings.

Expansion during the year by the subsidiaries resulted in the spending of sums which were passed on to the parent concern in dividends in the previous year. For the year ending Dec. 27, 1929, the company reported net earnings of $2,750,242, equivalent to $9.65 a share on the outstanding common of which 90 per cent is owned by the Paramount-Publix corporation.

Mr. Balaban stressed the fact that attendance is holding up in all sections of the city. Box office records of certain theaters were broken in recent weeks while the talk of business depression was reaching its height, he stated.

Convinced of Improvement.

He pointed out that reductions in prices put into effect during certain hours of the day have created new business while in other years such reductions have failed to draw larger audiences. In seeking entertainment as in other lines the public is showing greater discrimination and is taking advantage of bargain prices, he pointed out.

Mr. Balaban is convinced that trade is opening up. The returning of men to work at the first of the year not only helped those who were out of employment, but instilled greater confidence in those who had enjoyed continuous employment but had curtailed their spending because of fear of greater reductions on the part of employers, he said.

"Reports from our representatives in other sections of the country indicate that the same improvement is taking place elsewhere," he added. "There is definite evidence to indicate that conditions are getting better and our current business confirms this."

SHOWS EXTENT OF GAINS IN U. S. GOLD HOLDINGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 20.—Gold holdings in the United States increased by $32,742,000 in December and by $280,087,000 for all of last year, according to reports of the department of commerce. This brought the country's store of gold up to $4,252,000,000 at the end of the year. Receipts of these great additions to the credit base contributed very materially to the remarkable ease in the money market.

Gold is continuing to flow into the United States. Following the receipt of about $13,000,000 from Canada last week, it was learned today that Japan is sending $3,750,000 in that metal which is due to arrive in San Francisco on Thursday.

Forms New Company to Make Industrial Scales

International Business Machines corporation yesterday announced formation of a new subsidiary to manufacture industrial weighing and counting scales with a range of users from jewelers to foundrymen. Production has been started in the company's Endicott, N. Y., plant and will be separate from its computing scale factory in Dayton, O.

BRITISH BANK HEAD WOULD HAVE AMERICA CANCEL WAR DEBTS

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Cancellation by the United States of war debts owed her by European world war allies was suggested as a purely business proposition today by F. C. Goodenough, chairman of Barclay's bank, at the annual meeting of the bank directors.

"The gain to the United States as a great exporting country would be immense through having solvent customers and through an increase of their purchasing power," he said. "Looking at it as a purely business proposition there can be no doubt that it would pay, and I think that the United States and other countries in a similar position should seriously consider the ways in which they would certainly gain by such an act."

The net profits of Barclay's bank shrunk nearly one-fourth in 1930, Mr. Goodenough said. The depletion of profits is represented by a fall from $11,650,985 in 1929 to $9,106,035 in 1930. Dividends range from 10 to 14 per cent on various classes of stock.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 20.—Wall street came up smiling in spite of the Wickersham report today. Buying was quite lively in spots at times and prices were boosted from 1 to 5 points over a wide range.

Strength was most pronounced in the industrials, chemicals, utilities and oils, although certain issues of the railroad, food and amusement groups managed to attract profitable followings.

Short covering played a prominent part in the advance. Early impetus for the movement was furnished by the statement of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, that business has turned the corner and that conditions may be expected to mend from now on.

False Wickersham Rumor.

A report that the Wickersham report, made public later in the day, would be "wringing wet" caused a flurry of speculation in the shares of companies engaged in the manufacture of alcohol in the early dealings. Publication of the documents with its firm stand against repeal or revision proved a boon later on to Coca Cola and some of the other soft drink descriptions.

Money market conditions continued as shamefully easy as ever, the call rate remaining unchanged at 1½ per cent, with outside funds available at concessions of ½ of 1 per cent.

Among the minor features of the day was a flurry of activity in Missouri-Kansas-Texas on publication of the report that no action had been taken on the common dividend. The stock quickly fell off a couple of points from its early high. Later in the day a statement by the president of the road that consideration of the divi-

CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS COMPANY

CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO NEW YORK

European Representative, London

In their Own Interests
Chicago Traction Security Holders should Act NOW

THE present volume of deposits under the Reorganization Plan indicates that a substantial majority of all holders of Chicago Traction securities recognize the fairness of the Plan, and wish to participate in its benefits. Their action should suggest to non-depositors the wisdom of questioning their own position.

An imposing majority in favor of the Plan is desirable to hasten a harmonious and final settlement, and give Chicago a modern, adequate and unified transportation system, including subways. The unification of existing transportation facilities . . . simplification of capital structure . . . operation under a fair ordinance indeterminate as to time . . . will remove the difficulties under which the present companies have labored. The securities of the new company should have an investment standing which the existing securities have lacked for many years.

Those who have not deposited their securities should know that they stand to lose by their inactivity. They should consider now what their position, and what the value of their securities, will be if they fail to deposit. They exchange uncertainty for the certainties of a Plan which has been approved by necessary committees to declare it operative—but which must finally be passed upon by the Federal Courts and the Illinois Commerce Commission.

It is the privilege of any security holder to withhold depositing, if he chooses—but none will want to sacrifice the benefits of the Plan merely because of neglect to act.

The fullest possible co-operation will be extended and liberal remuneration will be arranged on a strictly commission basis.

Considering the large number of hogs handled at Chicago during the first two days of this week, the market held up well yesterday. Gains of 10@20c were scored. The extreme top advanced 10c at $8.35, while the general average moved up 10c at $7.85, these prices equaling the highest of the month.

Small packers, city butchers, and shippers bought readily at the upturn, while larger houses put up only small droves in face of the small midweek supply in sight. Five western points report only 79,000 head for today, against 99,200 last Wednesday. Monday's actual total at Chicago at 85,349 was within 4,218 of the largest daily total in three years.

Hog Futures Dull.

Little change was noted in the condition of the hog futures market yesterday. Bids and offers were largely in line with the bids and offers made on Monday's session, but were too far apart for trading. January light were offered at $8.40 and bid $8.25, while March and April light were bid $9.10. March mediums were offered at $8.65 and bid $8.35. April mediums were bid $8.50.

Lighter supplies failed to check the break in the cattle yards and prices came down again yesterday. Medium grades of steers are selling 50c under the high time less than a week ago.

Choice grades of steers were too few in number to test the market. Only two carloads brought the top of $13.50. Few sales were made above $11.50, with the bulk at $8.25@11.00. Butcher stock continued slow at the recent decline. Calves recovered 25@50c of the recent loss. Stockers and feeders were scarce and unchanged.

Colorado Lambs Bring $9.35.

The first Colorado fed lambs of the season arrived yesterday and sold at $9.35, against $13.00 for the first in 1930 and $16.75 two years ago. The average weight at 84 lbs equaled the lightest in recent years for the initial shipment from Colorado.

The market for slaughter lambs held steady at the recent advance, most natives and fed westerns selling at $9.00@9.25, with the top kinds to city butchers at $9.50. Aged sheep were strong. Yearlings averaging 101 lbs reached $8.00. Feeding lambs sold at $8.00, equaling the highest price for feeders since last June.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Demand for butter was active and prices advanced ½c. Fresh eggs sold at former figures. Potatoes steady with receipts 87 cars, and 223 cars were on team track. Live hens, spring chickens, stags, and geese advanced 1c. Receipts, 4 cars by freight.
